G. O. P. STRIKES AT STATE NRA AS 'NEW VOLSTEAD'

Fletcher Makes It Campaign Issue.

Ickes Helps Friends

Secretary Ickes orders four of his bureaus to place government advertising only in Democratic, or other newspapers friendly to the administration. Details on page 7.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican national committee said yesterday that one of the party's targets in the fall campaign will be the "model" state NRA bill which the Roosevelt administration persuaded the legislatures of about one-third of the states to enact.

Coming into Chicago for two days of conferences concerning election—and perhaps campaign fund—prospects in the middle west, the new G. O. P. leader learned for the first time the real nature of the Horner bill which the Democratic state administration whiplashed through the Illinois general assembly at a special session and which now is in effect.

When he was told that fifteen other states had enacted the same "model" statute he was astounded, he said.

Promises to Make It Issue.

"I had not realized fully," Mr. Fletcher said, "the extent to which the national administration has gone in the invasion of state rights. I shall go into the subject thoroughly and shall have a lot more to say about it later. This issue will be taken up specifically in every one of the states in which the legislatures prostrated themselves so abjectly in response to the demands from Washington."

This interview was given immediately after a luncheon of about thirty Illinois Republican chiefs at the Chicago club with George F. Getz, national treasurer, as host.

During the luncheon it was pointed out that if Chairman Fletcher, who plans to leave Chicago tomorrow, would merely postpone his departure until Saturday the national leaders of both parties would be in the state at the same time.

Farley in State Saturday.

Postmaster General Farley, Democratic chairman, is to speak at the state fair grounds in Springfield Saturday noon and confer with a round-up of Democratic state officials, members of the state committee, county chairmen and other leaders.

A meeting of the Cook county Democratic central committee will be held at the Morrison hotel this morning to make plans for the trip of a representative Chicago delegation to Springfield, probably starting Friday night.

Mayor Kelly has said he will go and it is considered certain that National Committeeman P. A. Nash, State's Attorney Courtney and other members of the inner council will make the journey.

Another "Volstead Act."

In discussing the Horner bill and its sister measures in other states, Republican Chairman Fletcher compared them to the "baby Volstead acts" passed by most states after national prohibition had been written into the constitution.

"As I understand the present situation," Mr. Fletcher said, "about one-third of the states have passed bills that in effect make the numerous and almost numberless codes actually a part of the law of those states.

"These codes were written by the industries themselves, by men with no official connection with the government, and they are being enforced by newly created officers whose existence never was contemplated by the constitution.

Hits Legislative "Abjectness."

"They were drawn up by extra-governmental forces and they were given approval by a rubber stamp congress, but the utter abjectness of the state legislatures was more extreme than that of congress, for the legislatures passed their state laws without even looking at a word of the codes already in existence."

Another out of state visitor at the Getz luncheon was Representative Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, who with Senator Daniel O. Hastings of Delaware, chairman of the senatorial campaign committee, will select offices for their western headquarters in Chicago soon. It is expected that a definite decision in this matter will be postponed until next Monday.

Congressman Bolton was particularly emphatic in his prediction that

COURT FORBIDS SENATE JAILING OF M'CRACKEN

Upsets Air Mail Quiz Contempt Order.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—The doctrine of senatorial authority received one of its greatest setbacks in congressional history today. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals held that the senate lacked power to punish for contempt William P. MacCracken Jr., assistant secretary of commerce under President Hoover.

W. P. MACCRACKEN JR.

In a 3 to 2 decision the court held that the legislative branch of the government could not punish, but must call on the courts to take action when contempt charges involved a completed act.

Given Ten Days in Jail.

The victory of the former aeronautics secretary and attorney for numerous air mail contractors was won in his fight to escape a ten day jail sentence that was imposed on him during the senate air mail inquiry because he permitted clients to remove from his files documents subpenaed by the investigating committee.

The majority opinion of the court, written by Associate Justice Robb and concurred in by Chief Justice Martin and Associate Justice Van Orsdel, made it clear that the senate and house had power to punish a contumacious witness whose acts or refusal to act obstructed its legislative or investigative processes. The court, however, denied that either house of congress had power within itself to punish for an act or a refusal which had in the past so obstructed its processes.

Defines Power of Congress.

"Time and again," the court's majority opinion asserted, "it has been declared that congress possesses legislative power in the amplest degree to provide for prosecution and punishment under the criminal law for any and every wrongful act. Sections 101-104 and 859 of the revised statutes were enacted under that power and show plainly that congress intended thereby to subject defaulting and contumacious witnesses to indictment and punishment in the courts, and thereby enable either house to exert the power of inquiry more effectually.

"'Unless there is to be an intermingling of the legislative and judicial power to deal with contempt, thereby rendering it possible in all cases as a matter of legislative power summarily to try one thus accused without subjecting him to the statutory modes of trial provided for criminal offenses, protected by the limitations and safeguards of the constitution, then we must and do declare that the senate is without jurisdiction to inflict this punishment on the petitioner. The judgment, therefore, is reversed, and the cause remanded, with directions to discharge the petitioner from custody."

Appeal Still in Doubt.

Whether the case will be carried to the United States Supreme court had not been determined late today. Future action depends upon a scheduled conference between United States Attorney Leslie C. Garnett and Solicitor General James C. Briggs.

By its majority judgment the Court of Appeals reversed the ruling of Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue of the District Supreme court, before whom the case was brought in the first instance. Justice O'Donoghue ruled that the senate had not exceeded its powers.

Admits Papers' Removal.

The case arose during the air mail inquiry when MacCracken was ordered to produce his files dealing with air mail matters. He admitted a few days later that he had permitted Col. L. H. Brittin, vice president of the Northwest Airways, and Gilbert M. Givvin, acting for Harris M. Hanshue, president of Western Air Express, to remove certain documents which he claimed belong to them.

The senate voted, however, to proceed on its own account and imposed ten day jail sentences on both MacCracken and Brittin.

Meanwhile, MacCracken had been fined $100 by Justice O'Donoghue for obtaining a writ of habeas corpus when not technically under arrest.

Brittin, dismissed by his company and lacking funds to make a legal fight, elected to serve his sentence and entered the district jail here Feb. 15. MacCracken, however, chose to contest the case.

TWO BANDIT-KILLERS KIDNAP SMITH CO-ED AND ESCORT FOR CAR

Worcester, Mass., July 9.—[Special.]—Kidnaped by two armed bandits who professed to be murderers making a getaway for Canada, Miss Dorothy A. Kashman, Smith college student, with her escort, Norman L. Sharfman, a sophomore at Michigan university, spent a night of terror.

The kidnaping occured as Sharfman was driving with the girl in her car. Two men jumped on the running board, leveled guns at the pair and climbed into the back seat.

With a gun at his back Sharfman was ordered to drive out of the city toward Hubbardston. The bandits directed him into several deserted side roads, on several occasions making references to their desperate character and the fact they were headed for Canada to escape murder warants. Finally, deep in the woods south of Hubbardston, the bandits ordered Sharfman to stop and forced him and the girl out of the car.

The victims walked four miles to the nearest farmhouse and aroused the owner, who took them into Hubbardston Center, where Miss Kashman telephoned her father.

FIRST NAZI PAIR MARRIED IN NEW PAGAN CEREMONY

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—In a pantheistic ritual in which "Mother Earth" and "Father Heaven" were called upon as witnesses, the first marriage under the new Germanic faith movement was performed today.

Instead of by clergy, the vows were read by the "weihewart," or man in charge of consecration. In this case it was Prof. Wilhelm Hauer, head of the Germanic faith movement. The marriage was solemnized with the words:

"May Mother Earth, from whom all love proceeds, and Father Heaven, who blesses with his light and weather and all good powers in the air, rule over you until all your destinies are fulfilled."

Calls on Fortune Teller; Bomb in Pocket Kills Him

Doctors Wed 50 Years; Ask 2,000 'Babies'

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—When Dr. Daniel H. Kress and Dr. Lauretta Kress began to discuss the guest list for the reception in observance of their golden wedding anniversary, held today, Dr. Lauretta was firm on one point.

"All my babies must be invited," she announced.

"What?" said Dr. Daniel. "The whole 3,571?"

So 2,000 Get Invitations.

So it came about that invitations to the reception went to more than 2,000 persons whom Dr. Lauretta, as obstretician, had ushered into this old world during a career of forty years.

They accepted, five hundred of them. One was Mrs. Cecil Ross of Bloomfield, N. J., the oldest of Dr. Lauretta's "babies." She is 39. The youngest couldn't come. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Fairchild of Washington, and the gray haired doctor spanked the breath into him only yesterday.

Through the spacious residence of the Drs. Kress pressed the throng this afternoon. There were mature men and women, lanky youths, debutantes, little girls shedding their first teeth, smaller toddlers hanging to their mothers' skirts, and quite a number who hadn't yet learned to walk.

And How They've Changed.

"I remember them all," said the doctor. "But, goodness, how some of ther have changed since I first knew them. And wasn't it wonderful that the reception wasn't interrupted by a call to take care of another eligible for the guest list."

Dr. Daniel Kress, who is 71, is a specialist in diseases of the stomach. He asserted that he and his wife, who is 70, were never busier in their lives and intended to keep on practicing.

The couple had been married nearly ten years and had two children of their own before they were graduated in medicine at the University of Michigan in 1894.

Urges Slower Living.

Dr. Lauretta said that while medical science has done much to lower the mortality of mothers and infants in child birth, some of the benefits are lost by the failure of expectant mothers to give up smoking, drinking, strenuous sports, and freak diets.

"They should slow down," she said. "The bringing of children into the world can't be geared up to the speed of modern living."

DEATH OF 160 YEAR OLD LOVER TOO MUCH FOR 'GIRL'; DIES AT 120

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 9.—(AP)—The passing of the world's oldest lover, Zaro Agha, was too much of a shock for Amie Amet Mutafa, who admitted blushingly to 120 years.

News just percolated through to her village that the Turk, who claimed to be 160, is dead. She suffered a stroke which was immediately fatal.

Amie claimed that Zaro proposed to her 100 years ago, but her family objected and forced her to enter the harem of a rich Turk, who brought her to Rumania. She made several attempts to start correspondence with Zaro, but he never reciprocated.

VISITORS TO FAIR SEEK ROOM FOR NIGHT AT PRISON

Joseph Smith, clerk in charge of the "visitor's desk" at Stateville prison in Joliet, took his feet off the desk early yesterday and gazed in surprise at two men wearing plainsmen's hats and carrying luggage.

"We want a room and bath for the night," said the taller of the two. "What are your rates?"

"The lowest in the state," replied Clerk Smith, "but we don't accept visitors for less than a year."

At this juncture one of the men took a hasty look at the steel barred doors, gulped twice, and identified himself and his companion as Harry Ramsey and Donald Birch of Amarillo, Tex. They explained they were motoring to Chicago and A Century of Progress. Not wishing to arrive late at night, they asked a filling station attendant to direct them to a good hotel. "The finest in the state is just over the hill," they said the attendant told them.

Total of British Idle Rises 2,205 in a Month

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—A check in the decrease in unemployment in Great Britain is shown in the monthly report issued tonight by the ministry of labor. On June 25 the registered unemployed totaled 2,092,598. This is 2,205 more than in the previous month, but 345,522 less than a year before. It is the first increase recorded since last January.

Widow Gets 68 Cents for 20 Little Pigs

Charles Tyrrell drove out recently to Mrs. A. Mosback's farm, outside Cortland in De Kalb county, to see if she could pay him two dollars for whitewashing her barn. He found Mrs. Mosback, a widow who has run her own farm since her husband's death, weeping.

"Look," she said through her tears, "what I got for my pigs—the pigs I nearly broke my back carrying slop to."

She showed him a check. It was for 68 cents, drawn by the Chicago Producers Commission association at the Union Stockyards. Attached to it was a slip showing that the commission concern, a farmers' cooperative, had sold Mrs. Mosback's twenty pigs, weighing 1,630 pounds, to the Shenandoah Packing company, at Shenandoah, Pa. The pigs had brought $12.22, and from that there had been deductions of $11.54.

She Foots U. S. Tax.

"You just forget about that whitewashing," said Tyrrell. "And if I were you I'd frame that check in the parlor."

Mrs. Mosback's pigs were sold for 75 cents a hundred pounds. But before they become pork, the Shenandoah company must pay the government $2.25 a hundred pounds, or just three times what it paid Mrs. Mosback, as processing tax. Packers have been virtually unanimous in asserting that that processing tax comes out of the pocket of the farmer, since they can't absorb it and can't pass it on to the consumer in the form of higher retail prices.

Officials of the commission house which marketed Mrs. Mosback's pigs explained yesterday how she came to get such a low price, and how what she did get was eaten up by the marketing price. Her pigs, they said, were sold during the height of distress caused by the drouth, when farmers were rushing their hogs to market for lack of feed.

Good for Fattening.

Also, they were sold as cull pigs. They averaged 81½ pounds. There is nothing much you can do with a pig of that size unless some one wants to buy him and fatten him some more, and because of the drouth, there was little market then for feeder pigs.

Such a pig, they said, is too big to be roasted whole and he's too small to cut into regular pork. About all that can be done is to make sausage of him, and he's not even particularly good for that.

That, they said, was why Mrs. Mosback got only $12.22 for her pigs. This is what became of most of the money. The stockyards company took $2.80, or 14 cents a pig, for the use of its pens, runways, and scales. It also charged 55 cents for feeding the pigs half a bushel of corn, which is just about twice what that much corn costs out in Cortland.

Where the Money Goes.

Then there was $1.40 to insure the pigs against injury on their way to the yards, and five cents more to insure them against being burned up if another stockyards fire had started while they were there. The trucker who hauled them to Chicago charged $3.67, and the commission house $3.00, or 15 cents a pig, for selling them. Then there was a seven cent charge to the meat board, which spends the money on advertising to convince people that they should eat more meat. The deductions ate up all but the 68 cents of the sale price, leaving Mrs. Mosback three and a quarter cents a pig for raising them.

CONGRESS QUIZ HEARS LEADER TELL DETAILS

Moley Gives Warning of Perils.

Events in Germany

Ex-Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who is away on a holiday, was warned not to return to Germany "at the present time" because advised close friends had fallen victim to Hitler's drive against "traitors."

Foreign diplomatic missions in Berlin saw in the address by Rudolph Hess, Nazi cabinet member, a complete reversal of Germany's vigorous foreign policy as well as an apology to France for suggesting she had participated in the Nazi revolt conspiracy.

Survey revealed that at least nine Jews were slain attendant upon the disorders during the suppression of the "Roehm revolt."

Catholic Silesia form defense body to fight Nazi paganistic campaign; priests claim heathenish movement has helped the cause of the church.

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—The special committee empowered by congress last March to investigate un-American activities called Hubert Schnuch to the witness stand today. They learned that Schnuch had been elected at a national convention here July 1, to be absolute leader of the Friends of New Germany, distributed in 40 local organizations throughout the United States.

Mr. Schnuch said he was born in Germany, served his country during the world war, came to the United States in 1923, studied at the University of Chicago, obtained his degree as doctor of philosophy from Yale, and has been an American citizen since 1929.

He maintained that an American citizen of German origin properly could shout "Heil Hitler!" and salute the swastika flag as the Friends of New Germany do, without incurring the reproach of "double allegiance." He said the Friends had nothing to hide; that they were not affiliated with the Nazi party in Germany, but were proud to say they are "sympathetic."

Moley Another Witness.

Among the other witnesses was Raymond Moley, former Roosevelt "brain truster," who testified that as editor of the weekly, Today, he had been interested in the problem of Nazi propaganda in America and his magazine had carried a series of articles exposing it.

"Whether an organic connection is proved or not," he said, "if an organization in this country has the same ideals as that in Germany, it is a menace to this country."

The testimony of John Schroeder, managing director of the Hamburg-American and North German lines, was introduced in the form of the transcript of a hearing in an executive session of the committee preceding Schroeder's recent departure for Germany.

Correspondence of the German lines was introduced to show that on the recommendation of Dr. Hans Luther, German ambassador, and Dr. Otto Kiep, German consul general at New York, favors in the form of transportation were given to American writers and lecturers who visited the new Germany.

Some Who Got Favors.

Among those mentioned as recipients were Col. Alexander E. Powers, writer and lecturer; Burton Holmes, travelogs; Karl K. Kitchen, columnist; Mrs. Helen Appleton Read, art critic.

Schroeder's testimony declared he "reluctantly" permitted the organization of units of the "German labor front in the United States" in offices of the steamship companies by C. Mensing, national chairman. He was told to do so by Spankneobel, he asserted, but admitted that he had been "misled."

A notice from Mensing to the employés, read into the record, announced that those who did not join would lose their German citizenship and could not get work if they returned to Germany.

Follow Anti-Jewish Example.

Mr. Schnuch said the example of the Nazi party in "excluding all of non-Aryan blood" from membership in Germany, had been "followed here by the Friends of New Germany."

When Representatives John W. McCormack of Massachusetts and Samuel Dickstein of New York, both of "non-Aryan blood," asked him what he meant, he grinned and said "at all times it means no Jews."

Representative Dickstein exploded:

"Do you mean that if a man of Jewish blood comes from a family which has been here for generations—which has been here ever since the very founding of the republic——"

Schnuch interrupted: "Which has been here ever since Christopher Columbus——"

"He would not be eligible as a member," Dickstein finished, "because of his Jewish blood."

"That's correct," said Schnuch. He seemed to enjoy the effect on Dickstein, whom it left speechless.

"And that is what you call an American organization?" asked McCormack taking up the questioning again as chairman.

"Yes," replied Schnuch.

"Let us not split hairs," said Representative McCormack. "The Nazi party in Germany placed such limitations on its own membership. Then the Friends of New Germany, an organization in the United States which you describe as sympathetic to the Nazis, adopts this same limitation. Now, isn't it because this exclusion was applied in Germany that it was followed here?"

"Yes," said Schnuch.

Representative McCormack next questioned him about the uniformed detachments which appear at meetings of the Friends of New Germany.

Same as Inner Guard.

Schnuch said they were an Ordnungsdienst (Service of Order) and that this uniform differed only in insignia from that of the Schutzstaffel, or picked inner guard of the Nazi party troops in Germany.

"What is the swastika?" McCormack asked suddenly.

"It is the emblem of the National Socialist party," answered Schnuch.

"Isn't that a swastika pin in the buttonhole of your lapel?" McCormack continued.

"Yes," said Schnuch calmly.

Mr. Dickstein at this time reëntered the questioning.

"Don't you think it is wrong for your Astoria local to drill with a swastika flag?" he demanded.

"What do you mean, drill?" asked Schnuch.

"Good old fashioned Prussian drill," said Dickstein.

"If they carried the American flag also, they are within their rights," replied Schnuch.

Question of Citizenship.

Mr. McCormack interrupted: "We are not discussing legal rights. It's a question of citizens conducting themselves in a way to show a double allegiance. We do not want any one here doing things which show a double allegiance."

"We haven't shown any double allegiance," said Schnuch.

Representative McCormack questioned Mr. Schnuch about the division of authority within the Friends of New Germany and was informed that the national leader had absolute command; he appointed a district leader to supervise all the locals in a given sector of the United States and also appointed the local leaders on nomination of the district leaders.

Schnuch admitted he was nominated for the post and his selection managed at the convention of July 1 by Fritz Gissibl, who, with Hienz Spanknoebel, was one of the original organizers of the pro-Hitler movement in this country. Spanknoebel fled last October when he was indicted on the charge of acting as an agent of a foreign government without registering with the state department. Gissibl, who took his place at the head of the Friends of New Germany, gave it up later with the public explanation that Nazi headquarters in Germany had ordered all Nazi party members to get out of the Friends to avert criticism.

Admits His Backing.

Gissibl, who followed Schnuch on the witness stand, said: "I did everything to put him through as leader of the Friends at the convention."

Immediately after Schnuch's election, Gissibl said, Schnuch appointed him district leader of the middle west.

When asked how he could square his appointment with the order of the Nazi party to all party members to keep clear of the Friends, he said he had mailed a letter of resignation to the Nazis two weeks ago. He said he had also filed an application for American citizenship in the belief that it would be better for his work, in view of the American attitude toward non-citizens which the congressional committee has made evident.

"When did you file the citizenship application?" Mr. McCormack asked.

"This morning," replied Mr. Gissibl.

"Do you still consider Hitler the leader of the German people?"

Ex-Kaiser's Wife Returns for Visit in Berlin.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 9.—Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria, who at one time was considered a candidate for the throne of Germany, and who now is on a holiday in a foreign country, will not return to the fatherland within the near future.

EX-CROWN PRINCE RUPPRECHT.

At least he will not return if he follows the advice of members of his former court. They have telephoned and sent messages to him from different towns in Bavaria, imploring him not to return to Germany "at the present moment." In their appeals the former court staf members have warned the prince a number of his personal friends are suspected of being among the victims of Chancellor Hitler's suppression of the storm troop conspiracy with firing squads.

Ex-Kaiser's Wife in Berlin.

Nazi tirades against reactionaries and monarchists, however, failed to frighten Hermine, the energetic wife of former Kaiser Wilhelm. Accompanied by her children, she has arrived from Doorn, Holland, to spend several weeks on her estates in Silesia and to visit in Berlin. Leading industrialists gave banquets in her honor last week. They issued invitations to members of the diplomatic corps. The invitations read, "in honor of the visit of her majesty, Kaiserin Hermine."

On the surface Germany apparently is back to normal after the recent tragic events.

Minister of the Interior Wilhelm Frick today prohibited "all discussions of the Protestant church conflict, be it in public meetings, in the press, pamphlets or handbills, without any exception whatsoever; only the reichsbishop will be allowed to issue proclamations."

"Peace within the church, which is desired by the government and the people, is still far off," the minister continued. "Despite my repeated warnings, the religious fight is being carried on, and continues to hamper the government's reconstruction program."

Duesterberg in Custody.

Col. Theodore Duesterberg, candidate for the presidency in 1932 and formerly chief of the Steel Helmet organization of war veterans, is being held in "protective custody," according to authorities. They declare a leader of a group of Storm Troopers who clashed with Steel Helmeters in Pomerania, tried to take his life. Col. Duesterberg was arrested in Munich. Friends have expressed great anxiety concerning his fate.

Prof. Morsbach, well known in American academic circles who was arrested by the Nazis last week, still is reported to be in prison. He is chief of the student exchange organization in Germany. It is reported his arrest has nothing to do with his academic work. His particular "offense" seems to be that during the war he was a member of the staf of Gen. Alexander H. R. von Kluck. He is accused of being a dyed-in-the-wool reactionary.

Chancellor Hitler, who is still in seclusion at his retreat at Berchtesgaden in the Bavarian Alps, is not expected to remain there for any length of time. The reason given in diplomatic circles is that too large a bodyguard is needed to insure his safety.

May Go to Seashore.

It is expected he will return to north Germany and resume his vacation on the seashore. Official circles here have denied the report he will board the pocket battleship, the Deutschland, for a cruise along the coast of Norway.

The German government today filed a protest with the powers which signed the statute for the Memel territory. It was charged Lithuania violated the statute by dismissing officials appointed by the local parliament "which was elected by the people."

(The Memil territory was detached from Germany by the treaty of Versailles. It was placed under the control of the conference of ambassadors and handed over to Lithuania on Feb. 16, 1923, subject to certain conditions intended to regulate the use of the port by both Lithuania and Poland. The territory has an area of 943 square miles and has a population of about 150,000).

Catholics in Silesia Unite to Fight Nazi Paganistic Drive

BEUTHEN, Germany, July 9.—(AP)—That "God is taking one step further east" was the conviction repeatedly expressed today by men of the cloth when discussing the new position of the Catholic church in Germany.

The church, they say, through Dr. Alfred Rosenberg's wotan cultist movement, finds itself forced into a united "defense front" against paganist dogma.

But a leading pastor here said that a great effort of the heathenish movement to gain a footing in Catholic Silesia has resulted so far in a large increase in the numbers of believers in the Catholic faith and an increase in churchgoers.

Claim Resistance Is Gaining.

"The more the paganists try to clear the ground for themselves in central Germany, the greater becomes the resistance toward this movement among the population of this southeastern border province," he said.

"As a logical consequence, convinced Catholics down here rally around their church for support and in defense."

Explaining the entire church situation, the priest left no doubt in the mind of an interviewer that the ever-recurring attacks and threats of execution naturally have frightened the population but have failed to make the people disinterested in their church.

"We can only gain by going to jail," the priest said, "because the church has been a natural leader in this province ever since its existence. It will in the future maintain its determining influence upon the 90 per cent Catholic population of upper Silesia.

"We are sure that if anything should be done against the church illegally the entire population, high or low, man or woman, would stand with us in defense of the creed."

With emphasis the priest denied that the Catholic clergy preach politics from the pulpit.

"We never did so," he said, "and we never intend to do so. I need not mention that our church services are constantly watched by emissaries who take down our sermons shorthand."

The priest said that in his church alone 7,000 persons ordinarily attend Sunday services. His parish numbers 10,000 souls, including infants.

"There are six large Catholic churches in this city," he said. "Seventy to eighty thousand people out of a total population of 110,000 attend mass here every Sunday."

Claims Boost in Attendance.

The churchman claimed that attendance at services has increased approximately 50 per cent since the Rosenberg cultists started their paganistic activity here.

"We are in for a hard fight, but never were leaders more confident of their victory than this time," he said. "We did not know that national socialism already had begun its 'kultur kampf,' but Silesian Nazi leaders and government members have repeatedly told us in violent speeches recently that the fight is on.

"The church will always obey the state in worldly matters, but in religious affairs it must protect itself."

With sadness in his eyes over the strife the priest said vigorously:

"We are true and national Germans, but the Catholic church belongs to us forever," adding with a tired gesture, "they always brand us reactionaries, and that hurts."

NAZI APOLOGY SEEN

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

BERLIN, July 9.—An apparent softening of the Nazi attitude toward Germany's neighbors and the great powers brought a siege of callers today to foreign diplomatic missions in Berlin seeking to know the meaning behind the address of Cabinet Minister Rudolph Hess.

The official German version that this was the greatest peace speech of modern times did not seem to satisfy foreign observers, and significance was sought behind Hess' flattery of Louis Barthou, the French foreign minister, and his lavish compliments to the French nation, especially to her war veterans.

The consensus among the chief foreign missions seemed to be that Hess in a way was trying to apologize for the actions of the propaganda ministry when it "suggested" to the entire German press to splurge in large headlines the details of an alleged plot between some of the Germans who were executed June 30 and France.

Another interpretation was that Foreign Minister Konstantin von Neurath and Gen. Joaquim von Ribbentrop, the foreign ministry's envoy on disarmament, have been warning Chancellor Hitler of an isolation in which Germany finds herself and told him that his expressed approval of the June 30 executions had fallen with somewhat unwelcome effect on foreign ears.

A third interpretation was that the reichswehr [regular army] has left no doubt that the belligerent attitude fostered by the Storm Troops must be considered a closed chapter.

It was believed the necessity had been made plain of bending every effort toward reaching an understanding between France and Germany, especially in view of the conversations in London today between Barthou and British officials.

PARIS STILL SUSPICIOUS

PARIS, July 9.—(AP)—"Actions speak louder than words" was the tenor of comment in French circles tonight on the gesture toward France by Rudolph Hess, German cabinet minister, in his address yesterday.

Official circles made no public comment, but indicated that French suspicions of the Nazi government remained.

The motive for the peaceful gesture was seen as realization on the part of Chancellor Hitler of the need to dissipate international hostility toward his régime. The Hess speech was believed to have been timed to discourage French efforts to line up Great Britain and other powers in "defensive" agreements.

One spokesman said that the French remain "a peaceful people" and declared that the speech of the German minister made no change in the situation, since "it wound up with the same old demand for arms to which France cannot consent."

Two Men Shot Down as They Stand in Street

Frank McHugh, 38 years old, 3101 West Madison street, and James Sankey, 34 years old, 148 South Hamlin avenue, were shot early today by an unidentified man as they stood in the street in front of 2845 West Madison street. They told the police that their assailant, who seemed to be a Mexican, opened fire without provocation. McHugh was shot in the left leg.

NINE JEWS SLAIN DURING FIGHT ON NAZI MUTINY

Four Killed "While Trying to Escape."

BERLIN, July 9.—[Jewish Telegraphic Agency.]—At least nine Jews were slain during the disorders attendant upon the suppression of the "Roehm revolt," the Jewish Telegraphic agency learned today.

The death of four Jews—three men and a woman—in Hirschberg, Silesia, was confirmed. The four had been reported shot "while attempting to escape."

Reports received at Prague said that the bullet wounds which caused the deaths of the four were found in the faces and temples of the victims.

Four are Identified.

The four were: Herr Foerster, an attorney; Herr Charry, merchant; Dr. Zweig, and Frau Zweig.

Two other members of the Jewish community, included in the twenty-five arrested by the Black Hussars, special bodyguards for Nazi leaders, and beaten in Nazi headquarters at Hirschberg, were also slain. One of them was named Jacobson. The name of the sixth victim could not be learned.

Fifteen of the twenty-five Jewish Communal leaders have been released from custody. Police are still investigating the cases of the remaining prisoners.

Two Jews were also killed in the city of Glogau, in Silesia, about 60 miles from Breslau. No details were available today as to how they had met their death.

Claim Youth Ended Own Life.

Berlin police last Wednesday evening entered the home of Maxmilian Stein, one of Germany's best known lawyers and commercial counselors, and arrested his 20 year old son. The youth's body was returned to his distraught parents that evening with the explanation that the boy had committed suicide by throwing himself out of a window at police headquarters.

The family was warned to conduct the funeral services with the utmost quietness.

The nine deaths thus far reported were not believed part of a general campaign of terror against the Jews but to represent sporadic attacks incidental to the general disorders which followed the execution of storm troop leaders and suppression of incipient revolts by the present régime.

Britain Turns Down French Appeal for New Alliance

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—"So glad to see you. So sorry you can't stay. Don't forget your hat."

This in effect was the politely cordial welcome and farewell given by British statesmen today to Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, and his associates, who arrived for a talk with British officials "on the state of Europe."

Seek Military Alliance.

A fortnight ago there was no concealment in Paris of the fact that they were coming to demand the conclusion of an offensive-defensive alliance between France and Great Britain. The French felt so certain of favorable results that Gen. Maxime Weygand, commander in chief of the French army, was sent over "on a holiday."

This was followed by a visit of Sir Archibald A. Montgomery Massingberd, British chief of staf; Lord Hailsham, minister of war, and other British officers to French battlefields. During the inspection it is alleged they viewed possible sites for British air bases behind France's chain of frontier fortresses.

When these two visits became known to the British public there arose a great storm of protest against any further commitments. The British ministers, who had been flirting with the idea of a French understanding for mutual military aid, were forced to proclaim on public platforms that they had never thought of any such a thing. The cabinet ministers promised the British would undertake no further foreign commitments.

"Respect" Locarno Treaty.

It was emphasized that the Locarno treaty would be respected, but the trouble from the French point of view is that the pact only pledges the British to fight in certain circumstances against an aggressor nation. There is, of course, the possibility that that nation might be France.

Two meetings were held at the foreign office today. At the first the French were represented by Barthou, Minister of Marine Francois Pietri, Alexis Leger, permanent secretary of state for foreign affairs; Rene Massigli, director of political affairs, and experts. On the British side were Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, Capt. Anthony Eden, lord privy seal; Lord Stanhope, parliamentary undersecretary of the foreign office, and Sir Bolton Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty.

In the afternoon the same group gathered again with the exception of Pietri and Eyres-Monsell, who met by themselves to talk over naval affairs with reference to next year's naval conference.

The usual uninformative communiques were issued, but it is understood the chief subject of Barthou's lecture was the necessity for an eastern regional pact, amounting really to an eastern Locarno.

After Britain's Approval.

In the changed circumstances he was not so tactless as to suggest that Great Britain join, but he did seek her sympathetic approval.

So far as he has gone, Barthou visualizes the possibility of an eastern Locarno, including Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, with the possibility of Germany and the Baltic states, and France.

In the house of commons this afternoon Simon, in replying to a question, reiterated Britain's determination to stand by all of her engagements under the Locarno treaty.

HITLER TO REDUCE HIS BROWN ARMY TO 800,000 MEN

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, July 9.—Chancellor Hitler's brown shirted army of 2,500,000 more or less armed men is to be converted into a disarmed "political army" of some 800,000 Nazi party members, according to additional details announced today regarding the reorganization plan of Victor Lutze, new chief of staf.

This plan would thus strip the Storm Troops of all their military trappings and bring them back to the original purpose for which they were formed—namely: to be ushers and "bouncers" at Nazi party meetings.

That the Storm Troopers were armed is now admitted, although it is explained that it was Capt. Ernst Roehm, their executed leader, who, in pursuit of his mutinous plans, armed them with weapons obtained from his foreign conspirators. However that may be, there can be no doubt of their potential menace, and this helps to explain the suddenness and violence of Hitler's coup against them.

More important, however, is the fact that the Storm Troops are no longer needed. In the eyes of the French they formed a quasi-military organization, acting as a reserve to the regular army. Now the regular army is likewise being "reorganized," and preparations are being made to increase it from "100,000 long service to 300,000 short service men."

GERMAN STEEL HELMETS TOLD TO TAKE HOLIDAY

BERLIN, July 9.—(AP)—The directorate of the Stahlhelm [Steel Helmets] Veterans' organization today ordered members of the organization to take a general vacation until Aug. 18.

During this period no uniforms will be worn except at parades in which other organizations participate and on Aug. 2 when the army exercises commemorating the outbreak of the world war will be held.

On Aug. 1 the old Steel Helmet badges will be discarded to be replaced by the new badge of the National Socialist Veterans' league.

Duck Lays a Black Egg, All Kane County Sees It

Farmers throughout Kane country are flocking to the farm of Ed Holtz, on rural route 1 in Dundee township, to view the black egg laid by one of his black ducks a week ago. So keen is the interest in this barnyard freak that Holtz's wife, Gretz, placed the egg on display in a Dundee drug store for several days.

The egg is slightly smaller than an ordinary duck egg.

LONDON INDUSTRY MAY BE PUT ON WATER RATIONS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 9.—The water shortage in London is becoming so acute that industrial undertakings, which use water from the Thames river, may have to ration it in the near future.

This announcement was made today by Lord Desborough, chairman of the Thames conservancy, who explained that the rain which fell the latter part of June did not help the river much. In hot weather, such as was experienced in the past few days, evaporation from the river amounts to as much as 30,000,000 gallons daily, he said.

Desborough declared that the need of water for household purposes must come first. To maintain an adequate supply it may be necessary to regulate the use of water in navigation locks, he added.

"We must pray for rain—one-third of an inch every third night," he said.

The London county council has decided to close a number of bowling greens and parks. Many privately owned sports grounds are temporarily closed. No drastic regulations have yet been imposed on Londoners' use of water for domestic purposes, but new regulations are promised if the drouth continues.

INSULL LOSES LAST PLEA TO PUT OFF TRIAL

U. S. Mail Fraud Case Is Set for Sept. 18.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

The last of the dilatory pleas in the case of Samuel Insull Sr. and sixteen others accused of using the mails in a scheme to defraud was overruled yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, and the case was set for trial on Sept. 18.

Insull, who was not in court, lost his motion for a bill of particulars—his "shotgun plea"—but gained a respite from his tussle with the law until the September date. For more than two months he may console himself with his memoirs and the meditations of a man soon to be 75. He does not plan to leave Chicago, according to his son, Samuel Insull Jr.

Mrs. Insull, the former Gladys Wallis of the stage, is with him, having arrived last week from Europe, and they are expecting a visit soon from Madame Coyimzoglu, a Bagdad date merchant's wife who befriended them in Athens. [Coyimzoglu is Insull spelling. Another is Kouryoumdjoglou, and there are still others.]

Judge Overrules Motion.

In overruling the motion for a bill of particulars, a plea that is always made and almost never granted in this district, Judge Wilkerson said the motion's purpose was "to limit the proof of the United States at the trial." This had been the contention of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green.

"The purpose of a bill of particulars," the judge read from a penciled memorandum, "is to render definite charges which are made in such general language that the defendant is unable to identify the transactions to which they refer and thus prepare for trial.

"The defendant is not entitled to cross-examine the prosecution as to the nature and character of proof to be offered. The motion here, when analyzed, in my opinion seeks a complete discovery of the case of the United States."

Oppose "Shotgun Clause."

In their arguments Attorney Floyd E. Thompson and other defense lawyers had objected to "a shotgun clause" in the indictment, which they characterized as so general that the government might use it as a catch-all for the introduction of any imaginable kind of evidence. They said they couldn't tell whether the offense charged against their clients was mail fraud, bad judgment or three card monte.

After Judge Wilkerson had overruled the motion, to which ruling the defense took an exception, Prosecutor Green asked that the case be set for trial. There was a discussion about July and August weather, since the trial will require three or four months. Mr. Green said he was not insistent upon trial during the summer months and Defense Attorney George I. Haight said he would oppose such a plan, so Judge Wilkerson put the case over until the fall term of court.

"That is just a setting, I presume," said Attorney Frederick Burnham, counsel for Stanley Field, one of the defendants.

"O, no; that means the case will go to trial on Sept. 18," said Judge Wilkerson. He explained that a judge would be agreed upon in due time.

Judge Calls Grand Jury.

In Crown Point yesterday Criminal Court Judge William J. Murray of Lake county summoned a grand jury for July 16 and announced that its first duty would be an inquiry into the affairs of the Northern Indiana Public Service company. Seven persons, including Samuel Insull Jr., were indicted at Crown Point last May, charged with embezzlement, grand larceny, and conspiracy to commit both offenses in connection with the handling of the company's funds.

One of the defendants died, two were discharged on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Robert G. Estill, and the other four were set free on a plea in abatement, Special Judge Maurice E. Crites holding that the action of Judge Murray in going before the grand jury as a volunteer witness was improper.

Five Jurors Deny Petition.

James M. Asher, who was foreman of the grand jury, yesterday disclaimed any knowledge of a petition to Gov. Paul McNutt and Attorney General Philip Lutz of Indiana bearing his signature and demanding that the defendants be reindicted. Four other members of the grand jury, who were said to have signed such a petition, also denied it. Foreman Asher, however, said he had talked with Judge Murray and urged him to charge the next grand jury with the duty of investigating the utility company's affairs.

After the dismissal of the indictment Prosecutor Estill, who had it returned while conducting an unsuccessful candidacy for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself, announced that nothing more would be done about the matter. Estill declined to make a statement yesterday, but Judge Murray indicated that he would appoint a special prosecutor if necessary. Estill's term ends the first of the year.

Undergoes Serious Operation

BEATRICE LILLIE.

Condition Fine

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Lady Peel, known on the stage as Beatrice Lillie, was reported in excellent condition tonight at Lenox Hill hospital, where she underwent an operation today for an internal disorder.

Lady Peel arrived in the United States June 16 intending to spend only a fortnight here discussing offers she had received for the coming season, including a chance to do a motion picture in Hollywood.

Soon after her arrival, however, the severe pains that have been bothering her for some time—she was to have gone to a London hospital for an operation last February—came on again and she had to go to the hospital Sunday night.

Dr. Mortimer W. Ogers, who performed the operation, said the actress is not dangerously ill and that she will probably be up and about in a short time.

THREE CHILDREN OF CHICAGO MAN DROWN WADING

The three children of Frank W. Herman, a barber, of 7027 South Morgan street, were drowned while wading yesterday in the Kankakee river near Momence, where they had gone for a summer vacation.

The children were Frank, 11 years old, Robert, 9, and Shirley, 7.

Apparently all three had stepped into a deep hole near the bank. The bodies were recovered within a quarter of an hour, but efforts at resuscitation failed.

The body of James Fitzgerald, 21 years old, of 9218 Manistee avenue, a nephew of Police Commissioner James P. Allman and of Supervising Captain Thomas Condon, was recovered yesterday from the mouth of the Calumet river.

TOLL OF DRUNK DRIVING RISES 300% IN A YEAR

14 Dead, 350 Hurt in Six Months of 1934.

Injuries and deaths in Chicago automobile accidents involving intoxicated drivers were more than 300 per cent greater in number during the first half of this year than during the first half of 1933. Furthermore, the sharp increase in such casualties, as recorded by the police bureau of criminal statistics, coincides exactly with the repeal of national prohibition.

From Jan. 1 this year until June 30, there were 14 persons killed and 350 hurt in motor accidents involving drivers who were intoxicated. During the first half of last year there were 3 deaths and 83 injuries. Statistics for the latter part of 1933 follow the same low trend until November, when there were 89 injured, but none killed. Then in December, the first month in which legal liquor was available, the toll jumped to 2 deaths and 68 persons injured.

1934 and 1933 Compared.

Monthly totals for the two six month periods of 1934 and 1933 were as follows:

	1934		1933
Month.	Killed.	Injured.	Killed.	Injured.
January	2	60	2	14
February	0	47	0	8
March	3	41	0	12
April	4	53	0	14
May	1	83	1	15
June	3	67	0	20
Total	14	350	3	83

Capt. William H. Killeen, in charge of the criminal statistics bureau, said that while there had undoubtedly been an increase in drinking by automobile drivers since repeal, part of the lower toll during the prohibition era might have been due to reluctance of the police, while drinking was technically a crime, to charge a driver with it unless the offense was aggravated by other circumstances.

Shows Judicial Leniency.

The bureau, which under Capt. Killeen's direction has built up a highly detailed picture of the crime and accident toll in Chicago, had other figures which may serve to explain why Chicago's motor death toll has taken a sudden leap during the last few months, after declining since the start of the depression. In several ways these statistics indicate an increasing leniency of Municipal judges in dealing with traffic law violators, including those who drive while intoxicated.

A year ago the man arrested for driving while intoxicated had only two chances in five of being punished by fine or imprisonment. Today his chance of punishment has declined to little better than half of that—less one in four.

218 Cases; 54 Jailed.

During the first five months of 1933 police made 233 arrests for driving while intoxicated and sent 218 cases to court. Of these defendants 54 got Bridewell or county jail sentences and 32 were fined. This was 39.5 per cent of the total cases. Of the rest, 24 were convicted but granted probation, 104 were discharged, and 4 jumped their bonds.

Up to June 1 of this year police took to court 226 charges of driving while intoxicated. In spite of this increase in arrests, only 53 defendants were sentenced to jail and only 14 fined—23.1 per cent of the cases. Of the remainder, 31 were granted probation, 175 dismissed, 6 jumped their bonds and the disposition of 7 cases is not recorded.

Another indication of judicial leniency is the increase in the number of warrants recalled by judges sitting in the traffic court this year. Warants are issued automatically and given to the police for service when a defendant fails to appear to answer a summons given him for a traffic violation, generally of a minor nature.

High Record of Recalls.

When such a warant is recalled by the judge, those familiar with the Municipal courts say, it is often an indication that some friend of the defendant has fixed the case. The recalls of Traffic court warants this year have been as follows: January, 507; February, 615; March, 960; April, 540; May, 885; June, 1,203.

In an effort to gain stricter enforcement of the law against traffic violators, Chief Justice Sonsteby of the Municipal court announced yesterday that he will open a new branch of the court on Thursday in the police headquarters at 1121 South State street. He will preside over the court himself until it is running smoothly.

The more serious traffic offenses will be tried in the new court, including driving while intoxicated, speeding, leaving the scene of an accident, reckless driving, passing red traffic lights, and passing on the left side of a street car.

WOMAN AWARDED $42,500 IN SUIT FOR AUTO INJURY

Jury Rules Banker Must Pay.

A verdict of $42,500 damages was returned yesterday by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Michael L. McKinley against Arthur G. Strassheim, president of the Broadway Trust and Savings bank.

It was in favor of Miss Mary Doran, 50 years old, a nurse, who was critically injured last Dec. 17, when she was struck by Strassheim's car, driven by John McKnight, his Negro chauffeur, at Sheridan road and Catalpa avenue.

Companion Was Killed.

Miss Doran was crossing the street in company of Mrs. Margaret Grace, 63 years old, of 5420 Sheridan road, wealthy widow of Edward Grace, old-time Chicago hotel man. Mrs. Grace was killed and Miss Doran suffered a compound fracture of both legs, as well as other injuries.

They were returning from the wake for Lieut. Frank T. Ford, secretary of Police Commissioner Allman. McKnight, who lives at 5632 Indiana avenue, drove away in a panic, but was later surrendered by his employer.

Testifies from Wheel Chair.

Miss Doran has been a patient in the John B. Murphy hospital since the accident, according to her attorney, Herbert H. Patterson, and appeared in court to testify in a wheel chair.

CHINESE IS FOUND DROWNED.

Lon Loy, 25 years old, a Chinese, 2252 Wentworth avenue, missing since Thursday, was found dead on the lake shore at East 50th street yesterday afternoon, apparently drowned. The body was identified by Lon's cousin, Way Woung Lo.

MAIL ROBBER'S TALE OF TIRE PUNCTURING PLOT FALLS DOWN

For a time last night it appeared that State's Attorney Courtney's investigators had uncovered a deeply laid plot on the part of schemers in the garage business to puncture the tires of motorists who park in the streets.

The investigators arrested Eddie Guerin, 41 years old, who was involved with Big Tim Murphy, now dead, and several others in the Union station mail robbery of 1921 and who served a term in Leavenworth penitentiary for his participation. Guerin made a "confession" in which he declared he had been hired by a garage owners' association to puncture the motorists' tires and thus convince them it would be better to park inside.

On the information he furnished some seven or eight garage men and an attorney were questioned. The records of the Garage Owners' association in the Garrick theater building were examined.

But when the night was over it was decided that there might not be much to the plot, and all but Guerin and one other man were released. It was suspected that Guerin was trying to start a racketeering association with his own prowess against tires as the main asset.

The investigation was started after it was reported that the tires of more than 100 automobiles had been deflated in Rogers Park last Friday night.

ROOSEVELT NEAR COLOMBIAN PORT; ENJOYS SUN BATH

Reads Fiction and Sleeps Aboard Warship.

Aboard the U. S. S. Gilmer Accompanying President Roosevelt, July 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt neared the South American coast tonight after spending the whole day under the azure sky of the Caribbean, reading fiction and sleeping.

The President, on board the cruiser Houston, was favored by fair weather as the ship held to a diagonal course for Cartagena, Colombia, where he will land tomorrow for a visit with the Colombian president.

The President spent a great deal of time on deck today, enjoying a sun bath.

The President is watching official reports relayed to him from the White House, showing particular interest in those relating to the longshoremen's strike at San Francisco.

Arrive to Greet President.

CARTAGENA, Colombia, July 9.—(AP)—President Olaya Herrera and his suite arrived by airplane this afternoon from Bogota to welcome President Roosevelt upon his arrival tomorrow. Elaborate preparations were under way to greet the American chief executive in this ancient walled town founded in 1533 by the Spanish conquistador, Don Pedro de Heredia.

Prepare for Canal Transit.

BALBOA, C. Z., July 9.—(AP)—Plans were made today for the first transit of the Panama canal by a President of the United States.

When the cruiser Houston arrives Wednesday, the Canal Zone will be entertaining a President for the first time since 1906, when Theodore Roosevelt came here during the construction.

The Houston is expected in Cristobal Harbor at 8 a. m., when Gov. J. L. Schley and high army and naval officers will go on board for the transit.

TWO EMPLOYES KILLED IN GARY SALOON IN FEUD

Two men were shot to death in a Gary saloon early yesterday in what police believe was a holdover feud from prohibition days. The victims were Nick Vujcich, 45 years old, bartender, and Iso Galovich, 50 years old, janitor in Mrs. Eva Rapaich's saloon at 950 Adams street.

Mrs. Rapaich and her son, John, were asleep in their rooms above the saloon when they heard the shots. Rapaich hurried downstairs as he heard two automobiles speed away. Vujcich was shot five times as he stood behind the bar. The janitor, who had been washing dishes at one end of the bar, had two bullets in his body. Both died instantly.

URGE CITY LAW TO REGULATE "TRAVEL AUTOS"

A proposed ordinance to license and regulate hired passenger automobiles and bring the cheap "share the expense" or "fixed rate" plan under legal control was recommended for passage to the city council yesterday by the license committee.

The committee was told at a hearing earlier in the day that the city is infested with automobile travel bureaus which afford no protection to the traveler who, in many instances, never reaches his promised destination.

MILK DRIVERS SIGN CONTRACT WITH DEALERS

James Kennedy, chairman of the Chicago milk wagon drivers' union, announced yesterday that the 5,500 members were signing a new contract agreed upon by Chicago Milk Dealers' association, ending a deadlock that persisted for weeks and threatened a strike.

The contract is similar to the one that expired May 1 but which contained a clause known as an effect pending negotiations for a new one. The drivers are to receive a weekly minimum wage of $40, a two weeks' vacation and commissions of 40 cents a hundredweight on excess business.

DEPUTY KILLED IN STRIKE RIOT; 7TH MAN SLAIN

Seattle Officers Fired On After Guarding Docks.

Seattle, Wash., July 9.—(AP)—The seventh death of the Pacific coast maritime strike occurred here tonight when Steve S. Watson, 48, a special deputy sherif, was fatally shot in a business district battle.

Police said the shooting came after a crowd of asserted strikers or strike sympathizers stopped a truck in which five deputy sherifs were riding homeward from guarding nonunion loading of ships. Watson and another deputy arrived at the scene in a roadster, which the crowd turned over and fighting ensued. A shot was fired and Watson fell. Who fired the shot could not be learned.

Sit as Court of Inquiry.

San Francisco, Cal., July 9.—(AP)—Behind-the-scene efforts to forestall general labor strikes in San Francisco, Oakland and Portland were made by President Roosevelt's maritime dispute board today after it opened public hearings here sitting as a court of inquiry into the marine workers, strike.

The President's board met with employers and union representatives at the conclusion of the first open hearing.

The three hour conference, it was disclosed by O. K. Cushing, member of the board, ended with the shipping employers' representatives agreeing to answer certain questions at another meeting, set for 4 p. m. tomorrow.

"I do not think it would be helpful," Cushing said, "to make public at this time what the questions are." He intimated, however, they had to do with the armistice efforts.

Calls NRA One Sided.

Stories of frustration and abuse were related by representatives of the striking unions testifying informally before the federal board, composed of Archbishop Edward J. Hanna, Edward F. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, and Mr. Cushing, an attorney.

A charge that shipowners had taken advantage of the NRA to deal with the International Seamen's union was made by Paul Scharrenberg, representing that craft. He asserted the shippers had organized to obtain benefits under the national recovery act but had declined to deal collectively with the striking seamen.

Scharrenberg testified the United States shipping board under the administration of President Harding began to cut wages, eliminate overtime pay and lengthen working hours, and that they were continuing with those policies to "grind the seamen into the dust."

The shippers, he said, have organized an extensive lobby at Washington to get all the benefits available, but they claim they cannot organize to deal with us. Their logic is beyond comprehension.

"They have forgotten about the New Deal and as far as the men are concerned it is only a raw deal."

Hiring Halls Main Issue.

The control of hiring halls is the main issue in both the seamen's and longshoremen's strike. These agencies, which send men to jobs, have been under control of the employers. The unions demand control of these agencies and have refused to arbitrate the issue, although they have expressed a willingness to submit to mediation on the questions of wages and hours.

Harry Jackson, representing the Marine Workers' Industrial union, asked abolition of a "blacklist" allegedly held by employers.

C. W. Deal of the International Seamen's union told the board his organization represented 9,000 striking men and that the organization represented by Jackson had only 900 members "and is known as an arm of the communist party."

Rising and shaking a finger toward Archbishop Hanna, chairman of the disputes board, Andrew Furuseth, aged president of the Seamen's union said:

"You are wasting your time. You cannot get to the truth of this business without going to the bottom of it. Issue your subpenas, get the records. Place every witness under oath. Make him prove what he claims to be."

The unions, including the striking maritime workers, were represented at the conference by the "strategy" committee of seven appointed by the San Francisco central labor council. This committee has been authorized by 20 of the 120 unions in the city to call for a general strike, and other unions are to vote on the question.

At Portland representatives of 105 trade unions authorized the Central Labor council to proceed with general strike plans.

Teamsters Threaten to Quit.

The immediate problem facing the board in its armistice plan is the threatened walkout of teamsters in San Francisco and Oakland Thursday unless there is a definite indication of a settlement of the maritime strike, which has crippled coast shipping since May 9.

Another company of National Guard troops was ordered into San Francisco from a Berkeley armory, where it has been held in reserve to extend the waterfront military occupation to a grain terminal. Troops at the waterfront also took over Rincon hill, scene of one of "bloody" Thursday's skirmishes between police and strikers, in which two men were killed and 32 wounded.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam ordered the militia out after these riots to protect the state owned waterfront. About 2,000 National Guardsmen now are on duty.

Plan Minneapolis Strike.

Minneapolis, Minn., July 9.—(AP)—Demanding an immediate wage increase, the truck drivers union of Minneapolis tonight decided to carry on with its previously scheduled strike vote meeting Wednesday night.

Both a recommendation by the Minneapolis-St. Paul regional labor board, seeking a means to settle the dispute by defining union members as those who took part in the truck drivers' strike in May, and its acceptance today by the employers, failed to meet the approval of the union men.

Police Use Tear Gas.

Bridgeton, N. J., July 9.—[Special.]—Tear gas was used by law enforcement officers today to disperse a crowd of several hundred men and women who participated in new violence at the Seabrook farms, located four miles from here, which has been the scene of a two weeks old strike of 200 men over alleged wage reductions.

Onion Strikers Arrested.

Kenton, O., July 9.—(AP)—While strikers insisted their ranks still are intact, twenty-seven of their number were arrested today as the Scioto Marshland Onion Weeders' strike concluded its 19th day. A million dollar onion crop is at stake in the controversy.

APPEAL FROM DEATH ORDER GRANTS DELAY TO ALABAMA NEGROES

Montgomery, Ala., July 9.—[Special.]—Heywood Patterson and Clarence Norris, two of nine Negroes under sentence of death in the "Scottsboro case," obtained a stay of execution today from the Alabama Supreme court. The defendants, whose execution had been set for Aug. 31, filed an application for a rehearing. The stay was granted as the court now is in recess.

The case cannot be taken up until Oct. 1. Then the court reconvenes in regular session. Accompanying the application for a rehearing was a statement that the case would be appealed to the United States Supreme court if the Alabama Supreme court again confirms the sentences.

The two condemned Negroes were convicted last December in Morgan county Circuit court of attacking Mrs. Victoria Price during a ride on a Southern railway freight train in Jackson county on March 25, 1931. That conviction was the third time Patterson had been found guilty and was Norris' second conviction.

The Supreme court had sustained a motion in the Patterson case to strike out the bill of exceptions, holding that the time limit had expired before the appeal was filed. However, attorneys for the Negro raised the point that the time should have been calculated from Dec. 6, 1933, the date of sentence, instead of Dec. 1, the date of conviction.

NIXON DEMANDS GOVERNOR CALL A TAX SESSION

Urges United Action by Civic Organizations.

In letters to civic organizations and business leaders, George F. Nixon, member of the board of tax appeals, yesterday asked for a united movement to force Gov. Horner to call a special session of the legislature immediately to consider two tax measures.

One of these is a proposed amendment to the constitution limiting the amount of taxes that can be levied on all classes of property to 1 per cent of cash value. The other would give to owners of homes and small flat buildings who paid their 1931 taxes in full the benefit of the 15 per cent reduction granted by County Judge Jarecki for that year.

Asks Relief for Taxpayers.

"A 1 per cent limitation on property taxes," said Mr. Nixon's letters, "would give taxpayers relief—hope—some incentive for carrying on. Real estate could and would pay a 1 per cent tax. It cannot continue to carry the present load of almost 2 per cent. Tax emancipation for real estate can only come through amendment to the state constitution."

The letters pointed out that the amendment must be passed by the legislature by Aug. 1, if it is to be submitted to the voters at the November election, to meet the requirement that proposed amendments must be published in full at least three months preceding the elections at which they are to be submitted for ratification.

Asks Thon Bill Substitute.

The legislature recently enacted the Thon bill, which provided that all owners of homes and small flat buildings who had paid their 1931 taxes in full should benefit by credit on future tax bills. This measure, however, was pronounced unconstitutional in an opinion issued by the state's attorney's office. Nixon urged that a substitute measure for the Thon bill be passed immediately along with the constitutional amendment.

Harriman, Once Bank Leader Hears Clang of Prison Door

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—A jaunty Joseph W. Harriman stepped out of the Doctors' hospital at 88th street and East End avenue at 8:20 a. m. today and smiled and waved his hand at reporters and photographers as he started on his journey to prison.

An irritable and morose Joseph W. Harriman slumped down in a day coach in the Central railroad station in Jersey City less than an hour later, glared at every one, and was almost gruff as he said good-by to his attorney, George S. Leisure.

It seemed as if he had not realized until that moment that he had been sentenced to serve a term of four and a half years in the penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa., for having been found guilty on sixteen counts of falsifying the records of the Harriman National bank, of which he was president.

Harriman arrived at Lewisburg at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon and formally became an inmate of the prison.

Leaves Hospital Home.

If there were any tears or affecting moments in his parting from his family he had recovered from them before he made his first appearance to the world at large as he came out of Doctors' hospital.

Mr. Leisure arrived at the hospital at 8 a. m. and joined him in the private room where he was saying goodby to his wife and daughter. A few minutes later United States Marshal Ray J. Mulligan arrived and Harriman officially surrendered to the law.

This was the end of his freedom. Until that moment he had been free to go and come as he pleased. He had been under $25,000 bail. He was now a prisoner, subject to the discipline of prisoners.

Detectives took him in charge and accompanied him in an automobile which was waiting just outside the door. In fact it was waiting within one foot of the door, having been driven up on the sidewalk to make things as difficult as possible for the photographers.

But the prisoner himself did not seem in the least abashed or downcast.

"How are you, Mr. Harriman?" one of the reporters called.

"All right," he replied, cheerfully.

"Got anything to say?"

"God bless you," he replied, and stepped into the car.

Jauntiness Disappears.

Mr. Leisure accompanied his client to the train. Harriman wore a dark check suit and a light felt hat.

The trip across the river to the station in Jersey City was made in a private ferryboat, the Somerville.

On the Jersey shore all of Harriman's jauntiness disappeared. The reporters, arriving after he had entered the train, found him slumped down in his seat in a day coach, his hat pulled down over his eyes, one detective beside him and another opposite. Every one in the car had recognized him and was staring. He had suddenly become irritable and morose.

A reporter asked if he had any final word to say before the train pulled out and he merely glared.

At the call of "All aboard" he shook hands with Mr. Leisure, hardly glancing at him as he did so, and without the slightest relaxation of his grim expression.

Before the train pulled out, Harriman was again pressed for some comment.

"I'll be back," he said.

"As a banker?" he was asked.

"Maybe selling peanuts and bananas" he replied with an effort at good humor. "There's still lots of opportunity in this country. I'll get back sure—unless they start a new commission in Washington."

At 9:15 the train started. Joseph W. Harriman was on his way to prison and he knew it.

WM. H. MALONE ASKS REVIEW OF U. S. TAX CLAIM

William H. Malone of Park Ridge, former chairman of the state tax commission, who was indicted for evasion of income tax, yesterday petitioned the board of tax appeals in Washington for a redetermination of income tax claims totaling $105,452 for 1929, 1930, and 1932.

In his petition Malone claimed that the bureau of internal revenue made twenty errors in computing the deficiency, including as an item taxable income of $269,958 listed as "other income."

When last heard of the former state official was vacationing in Germany, where he denied that he had evaded a tax of $59,580 for 1929 and 1930 as charged in an indictment returned last Oct. 13. Interviewed in Berlin the following day, Malone declared that he would return to face the charge as soon as he attended to some business in Europe.

LEADER OF FOUR MILLION WANTS WILL HAYS OUT

Churchmen Meet on Movie Cleanup.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—A demand for the expulsion of Will Hays as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America was made today by the chairman of a conference of representatives of some four million Catholics, Protestants and Jews, who pledged themselves to join the nation-wide campaign for decency in motion pictures.

The vote of the priests, ministers and rabbis at the conference was unanimous. They agreed that immorality on the screen must go. A committee was appointed to seek a meeting with leaders in the motion picture industry to impress upon them the determination of the religious groups to boycott pictures regarded as vicious.

Holds Hays the Key.

"We will not have any meeting with Will Hays," said the Rev. Joseph A. McCaffrey, pastor of the Holy Cross Roman Catholic church, who was appointed temporary chairman. "I am not voicing the official opinion of the conference, but it is my personal opinion that the situation will never be cleaned up until Will Hays is thrown out of office.

"Under his leadership and so-called censorship the motion picture industry has fallen so low that it seems high time that he resign."

Hays has held his present office since 1922. His salary is reputed to vary between $50,000 and $100,000 a year. He was formerly postmaster general in the Harding régime.

Among others present at the conference today was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Lavelle, head of the Inter-Faith council of New York; the Rev. Frederick B. Newell, chairman of the committee on civic affairs of the Greater New York Federation of Churches; the Rev. Dr. Walter M. Howlett, religious education secretary of the federation; the Rev. Dr. Sidney E. Goldstein of the New York board of Jewish ministers, and Rabbi William F. Rosenblum.

Indorse Legion of Decency.

The religious leaders unanimously indorsed the Legion of Decency, organization pledged to fight against filth on the screen, and considered plans for recruiting members of the legion from their faiths.

Admitting that immorality in New York probably flourishes more than in any other city, the conferees decided to broaden the campaign here to include a war against indecency in the legitimate theater, especially in burlesque houses, and taxi dance halls, salacious magazines, and the nudist movement will also be attacked.

Informed that President Roosevelt's collection of films for his entertainment on board the cruiser Houston included five named on a "black list" of immoral pictures published in Chicago, the chairman said cautiously he didn't believe the President should be blamed.

"He probably had nothing to do with the selection of the pictures," he commented.

Hays "Isn't Resentful."

Hollywood, Cal., June 9.—(AP)—Without commenting on the virtual demand of the inter-faith conference of New York that he resign, Will H. Hays, so-called "czar" of the films, said tonight none of the present criticism of film productions is "resented" although "some of it may be unjustified."

Hays arrived in Hollywood unannounced today. He will remain a month.

The "czar" denied the present activity of the Roman Catholic church's Legion of Decency to remove indecency from films had anything to do with his visit. The denial was made through a member of his party.

Pictures Only Answer.

Hays' statement follows:

"There is but one answer and one answer only to reasonable objections to pictures, and that is the pictures themselves. The solution of the problem of the right kind of screen entertainment rests solely with the quality of the product.

"The strengthened arrangements being perfected in the production code administration are directed to that end.

"There is every definite value to producers of pictures in certain phases of current criticism. Some of it may be justified; some may be entirely unwaranted—all of it is understood; none of it is resented. The screen always has been the subject of constant controversy. Naturally every one of the 123 million people in the United States has and is entitled to have his own opinion of the movies. Without public criticism progress would be impossible in this as in any other service of popular entertainment. The final product of our studios is established by the audience, as well as by writers, directors, artists, technicians, and producers.

Encourages Good Pictures.

"The American public and the motion picture industry have everything to gain from every sincere movement which works for the proper selection of motion picture entertainment. The current criticism has the very significant value, too, of encouraging the support of good pictures of the right kind. The responsible, organized criticism which is planned specifically promises this support and such support will be useful and proper.

"The product to be released this fall will abundantly deserve this discriminating support. Its great scope and variety will include major and minor classics of literature, musicals, historical romances, rare fantasy, human interest stories dealing with every day life, pictures that will reflect the great social trends of the day, pictures of vigorous satire and truly impressive drama, splendid short subjects and comedy, and the uniformly high quality news reels—all performing the essential service of public entertainment which, indeed, is the mission of the movies."

FILMDOM BREACH OF MORALS CODE CAUSE OF DRIVE

Barred Subjects Specified in "Don't List."

Hollywood, Cal., July 9.—(AP)—Had Hollywood fully adhered to its "don't list," adopted in 1930, there would be no troubled waters today.

Its code of morals, written after long and careful study, tells what should not be put in pictures. It declares the motion picture industry, realizing its large moral responsibilities, is fully aware entertainment can be of a harmful character. Hence this recognition—in the code—of the moral importance of entertainment.

Multitude of Taboos.

This code, which those who are fostering the campaigns for cleaner movies have called a "mere scrap of paper," covers a multitude of taboo subjects.

Had the code been followed by producers and scenario writers, it is probable that the movies never would have had a gangster "cycle." The presentation of murder is often necessary to carry out a plot, but, says the code, "frequent presentation of murder tends to less regard for the sacredness of life."

Continuing in this vein, there is the declaration that "criminals should not be made heroes, even if they are historical criminals." Methods of committing a crime should not be explicitly presented. That is, the film should not serve as a possible school for potential safecrackers, burglars, highwaymen and the like.

"Bars" Obscenity.

Several paragraphs are devoted to the subject of obscenity, which is defined as "concerned with immorality but has the additional connotation of being common, vulgar and coarse." Obscenity in spoken word, gesture and episode, the code says, "is against divine and human law, and hence altogether outside the range of subject matter."

The fact that a nude or semi-nude body may be beautiful does not, according to the code, make its use in films moral. Semi-nudity may be permitted when essential to the plot.

Other banned subjects include the presentation of illegal drug traffic, white slavery, profanity, improper dances, improper costumes and unfair presentation of the history and institutions of all nations.

Lays Down Plot Rules.

Speaking less specifically, the code contains these paragraphs concerning principles of plot:

"No plot shall definitely side with evil against good.

"Comedies and farces should not make fun of good, innocence, morality or justice.

"No plot should be so constructed as to leave the question of right or wrong in doubt or fogged.

"No plot should by its treatment throw the sympathy of the audience with sin, crime, wrongdoing or evil.

"No plot shall present evil alluringly."

The movies, to counteract the drivers for decency, have now decided to enforce the code to the letter. Hollywood hopes its long delayed self-regulation will act as oil on the turbulent waters.

FACES ACTION

Criminal Action Is Opened on Bribe Charges.

PARIS, July 9.—(AP)—Scandal struck at two former high government ministers today with the opening of criminal action against Rene Renault, former minister of justice, and the beginning of possible action against Albert Dalimier, former minister of colonies.

The procureur of the republic, who is the highest prosecuting official in France, ordered the opening of the examination of Renault on a charge of selling his influence.

Evidence has been presented to the chamber of deputies committee investigating the $60,000,000 Stavisky scandal that Renault accepted 50,000 francs as a retainer to intervene on behalf of the late Serge Stavisky.

Judge to Scan Charges.

Judge Ordonneau, who conducted most of the investigations in connection with the collapse of Stavisky's Bayonne municipal pawnshop, was directed to determine whether the charges warant holding the former minister for trial.

The article under which the investigation is being made calls for the loss of civil rights and a fine double the amunt accepted if he is found guilty.

The chamber of deputies committee at the same time ordered that the evidence with regard to Dalimier and two of his subordinates be sent to the minister of justice for action.

Dalimier resigned from the Daladier cabinet last January as a result of the effect of the scandal on the public, and the cabinet later fell.

Protests His Innocence.

Police had disclosed at that time that the minister of colonies was quoted in a circular put out by Stavisky as advising insurance companies they could legally invest in such concerns as the Bayonne institution.

Dalimier denied any guilt and submitted documents to show that he acted in good faith in writing the letters quoted. At the time he wrote, he said, the pawnshop had been found in good condition.

"My fault was not to have foreseen that a bandit was at liberty, who should not have been," he said, "and that he would profit by my letters ten months later."

FRANCE ORDERS CAPTURE OF U. S. WOMAN AS SPY

Warants for Arrest of Six Others Issued.

PARIS, July 9. — (AP) — Another American—a woman—was brought today into the network of French investigations surrounding a huge international spy ring. The slowly widening inquiries of French secret police were disclosed at the same time to have brought to light dealings of the espionage ring in the secrets of microbe warfare.

Magistrate Andre Benon ordered Pauline Jacobson Levine, 32 year old native New Yorker, to appear for questioning regarding her relation to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz of East Orange, N. J., who have been held in a Paris jail since last December on charges of complicity with the spy ring's activities.

Suspect She Was Agent.

The Levine woman was supposedly a friend of Mrs. Switz, the former Marjorie Tilley of New York. Officials said she was to be asked whether she served as an intermediary between Benjamin Bercowitz, Rumanian born naturalized Canadian, who has been called by police a co-chief of the band, and his agents.

Miss Levine is believed to have left France. Although her present whereabouts were unknown to the authorities, they were asked to trace her and bring her back for questioning.

Authorities declared that continued investigations are constantly revealing new angles in the huge spy plot which allegedly was working for soviet Russia. It was asserted that the chief task of one gang was to gather information from laboratories on all scientific developments likely to be important in warfare, including gas and microbes.

Six Others Wanted.

Besides the summons issued for Miss Levine today, six other summonses or warants were issued in connection with espionage plots. Three women and three men were included.

Mrs. Marie Schul Martin, alleged chief of a section of the ring operating in Finland, was one of the women ordered to appear. She was alleged to be a close friend of Mme. Lydia Stahl, divorced wife of a New York business man, who, French police said, was an intermediary between a band in Finland and one in Paris.

The connection of Mrs. Schul Martin with the present case linked the Paris group with that convicted in Finland, which included an American, Ahnid Jacobsen, formerly of Michigan. She is accused of receiving documents gathered in France and of sending funds for salaries for the spies.

RELIEF CHECK FORGERY TRUE BILL REPORTED

George Bonkowski, 21 years old, former guard employed at the Illinois Emergency Relief commission offices, 1319 South Michigan avenue, was reported named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday. He is reported charged with forging and cashing checks made out to relief recipients. His bond was set at $2,500. Bonkowski was seized by relief investigators recently while he was attempting to cash a check he had forged. He had obtained the checks from mail "returns" which were kept in the commission offices. He confessed to embezzlement of more than $500 through his forgeries at the time of his arrest, according to relief officials.

RFC TO RECEIVE DATA ON SCHOOL PROPERTY TODAY

Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, this morning will present to F. D. Gallagher, manager of the Chicago office of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, all data assembled on the $30,000,000 worth of school real estate which is to be offered as security for an RFC loan of $25,447,240. The money will be used to give teachers and other school employés their back salaries.

Upon receipt of the data, Gallagher is expected to proceed with an examination of the 130 parcels of property, which are not used for educational purposes.

MURRELL, ARMY GRID STAR, FACED BY NEW DISMISSAL THREAT

San Antonio, Tex., July 9.—[Special.]—Lieut. John H. Murrell, former West Point football star recently acquitted on a criminal assault charge again must defend his right to remain in the army it was said at Fort Sam Houston today.

Faced with the necessity of eliminating 350 officers under the economy program, military authorities have decided to call before the "B" board, a classification body, all officers who previously have defended their records before such a board. It was explained that Murrell once appeared before a board in connection with some domestic difficulty. At that time, however, his defense was successful.

Murrell in February was acquitted in federal court where he was tried for alleged rape of Blanche Ralls, Birmingham, Ala., divorcée.

Aldermen Would End Near Beer Trickery in Cafes

An amendment to the city liquor law prohibiting sale of near beer in restaurants, drug stores, and soda fountains was proposed yesterday at a meeting of the city council license committee, headed by Ald. Terence F. Moran [16th]. The council will discuss the proposal at a meeting tomorrow. Sponsors of the amendment declared that the change was necessary to prevent the sale of real beer under a near beer disguise to escape payment of liquor licenses.

Legislators Hire Fewer Members of Families

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Fewer members of the house had relatives on their own office pay rolls the first of last month than in January, when congress met. June 1 only 47 house members, including Speaker Rainey, whose wife got $346 a month, were shown to have employed persons with the same name as their own. In January there were ten more.

AAA ATTACKED AS MEETING AT MADISON OPENS

Control Is Condemned by Four Speakers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., July 9.—[Special.]—A deluge of criticism fell upon the Agricultural Adjustment Administration at the opening meetings of the American Institute of Coöperation today in the agricultural college of the University of Wisconsin.

Four speakers, representing tobacco and milk coöperatives, and including a University of Wisconsin professor, condemned policies of the AAA and questioned whether compulsory control of agricultural produce will leave farmers of the nation with incentives which normally inspire progress.

Prof. Benjamin H. Hibbard, University of Wisconsin economist, centered his castigation of the AAA about "the advantages of preserving individual initiative among farmers."

Ela One of Speakers.

The other three critics were Emerson Ela, general manager and counsel for the Northern Wisconsin coöperative pool; D. N. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association of Chicago; and Reuben Hall, counsel for the New England Milk Producers' association and the National Wool Marketing corporation.

"No argument avails the patent fact that compulsory control will result in destroying the incentives which have always inspired progress," declared Prof. Hibbard.

"Under Fascism the state shoots the trouble maker; under Sovietism it loots them. Just how we shall restrain our most aggressive farmers, after liquidating their personal enterprise, while restoring their incentives in the way of price, remains to be seen.

"It is difficult to appreciate the value of initiative while we have it, and while we enjoy its benefits," Prof. Hibbard continued. "We undertook through college, extension workers, and the press, to promote this supposedly rare and desirable quality among our farm people.

Farmers Called Stupid.

"We held schools to develop leadership. Farmers were scolded roundly for their lethargy and stupidity. Not only did these agencies assume the rule of the prophet in preaching enterprise, undertaking to spur to action the plodding farmers, but now and then came unexpected and unsolicited help from outside the ranks of college, government, and press, in the nature of captains of industry.

"One of these business leaders of a quarter of a century ago gave us this choice aphorism, 'land without people is a wilderness, and people without land is a mob.' We were warned that obviously the bread supply and demand will not keep pace through the working of any law of nature.

"About a decade ago another prescription came from one of our leading industrial giants who declared the American farmer was a wretched business man; his plant was absurdly small, and still worse in organization. In the interest of progress and humanity he advised the enlargement of the unit, the complete motorization of the power, the concentration of ownership, the development of outstanding leadership and initiative.

Now Look Amusing.

"We now look upon these views as amusing and wish, as far as land is concerned, we had more wilderness, while as to the mob of people, all we ask is that they be gainfully employed. We look over the six and a quarter million farmers and deplore the degree of initiative the farmer has displayed.

"Of course the real trouble, the initial trouble, was not with the farmer. He was doing his part, possibly a little too well, when it became evident that the demand both abroad and at home had weakened—in fact, had about broken down.

"Farmers are now operating, to a very limited extent, under the allotment plan. It is plainly evident that if this plan is to succeed over any number of years, normal years, with the usual rainfall, that it must become a compulsory, all-inclusive plan.

"If, and when, it becomes all-inclusive, and when it functions as it it designed to function, then prices will be higher by from 25 to 50 per cent, and the farmers will be producing 20 or 40 per cent less than they were producing a year or two ago."

EDITH M'CORMICK MANSION WON'T BE A RESTAURANT

Permission Is Refused by Zoning Board.

The mansion of the late Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick at 1000 Lake Shore drive is not to be used for a wining and dining establishment, the zoning board of appeals ruled yesterday.

The board denied the plea of Mrs. Vera Mcgowan Daro, Evanston restaurateur, that the zoning ordinance be changed to allow the entire property, which extends from Oak street on the south to Bellevue place on the north, to be used for commercial purposes.

Zone Law Passed in 1923.

In 1923, when the present zoning ordinance was passed, it was decided that the commercial zone's farthest point north should be the north side of Oak street. By that ruling, it developed, the garden at the rear of the mansion, as well as about one-third of the house, is in the commercial zone. The remainder is in the residence zone.

Mrs. Daro sought to have the entire property zoned for commercial purposes, and proposed to lease it for five years at a $700 a month rental. The idea was for a restaurant inside the house, as well as in the garden outside.

Trust Officer Is Witness.

One of the witnesses called before the board yesterday was William P. Wiseman, assistant trust officer of the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee of Mrs. McCormick's estate.

He testified that the property now carries a $500,000 mortgage, held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and that the mortgage is in default. He also told of the money the estate had expected to get from the lease to Mrs. Daro.

"Would you say," asked Col. A. A. Sprague, a member of the zoning board, "that it would work a hardship on the heirs if the plea were denied?"

"Well," responded Mr. Wiseman, after a moment's thought, "it would certainly work a hardship on the creditors."

Sexton Asks About Taxes.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, another member of the board, then asked Mr. Wiseman what the appraised valuation of the property was. The witness replied that it was approximately $1,500,000.

"And what are the taxes?" Mr. Sexton asked.

"In 1932 they were $17,000," was the answer.

"Then," went on Mr. Sexton, "the $700 a month rental wouldn't even pay the taxes, would it?"

"Perhaps not," said Mr. Wiseman, "but it would certainly do more than we are doing now."

The board then gave its decision.

Poles Send Many to Prison Camp in Last Two Days

WARSAW, Poland, July 9.—(AP)—The number of persons interned in the Bereza Kartuska concentration camp has risen rapidly during the last two days, the semi-official Iskra agency said today. The agency reported that 210 persons are now held there. Of these, 130 are Ukrainians, 40 radical nationalists, and 40 communists.

tration's corn-hog contracts, agreeing to reduce her corn acreage and the number of pigs on the farm, she may still get enough money to enable her to break even on the twenty pigs.

Prospects for Year.

Farmers who signed such contracts, agreeing to cut their hog production 25 per cent, will get a $5 bonus on each of the hogs that they do raise and sell. The payment, financed by the processing tax, were scheduled to have started some time ago, but Illinois farmers have yet to receive their government checks.

If Mrs. Mosback signed such a contract, her books will show at the end of the year that she made 68 cents by raising twenty pigs, and $100 by not raising six and two-thirds pigs.

the fall elections will terminate the gag rule made possible in the house by the two-thirds Democratic vote used frequently to suspend the rules and shut off debate.

"We will gain between fifty and seventy-five seats," he said. "With even a lesser victory—a total of thirty-one more Republican seats would be sufficient—we will achieve our purpose of putting an end to legislation by dictation by the two-thirds route."

Leaving the Chicago club, a number of Mr. Getz's guests including Mr. Fletcher, went to the A. D. Lasker estate in Lake Forest where they played over the private golf course.

Marshal Young Republicans.

Today the national chairman's time will be occupied particularly with a concentration of "young Republicans" in preparation for making the relatively new voters an effective group in the campaign. This will be done on the theory that it is the younger generations which will foot the bill for the wholesale spending of billions now going on at Washington.

John D. M. Hamilton, national committeeman from Kansas and general counsel for the committee, has undertaken the specific task of studying this problem. He is here now.

After conferring with spokesmen from several states he will submit a report on the subject to the national committee. The "Young Republicans" meeting will be held at 10 o'clock this morning in the Palmer house.

Deny They Seek a Million.

Both Chairman Fletcher and Treasurer Getz decried reports that they were planning to build up a war chest of a million dollars. They said the budget for the election expense probably would not exceed $600,000.

"Possibly I said that I'd like to raise a million," laughed Mr. Getz, "but we haven't seriously contemplated it, although there are increasing signs that as the fall approaches there will be more and more men volunteering to aid us in our task."

Among other visitors from other states who participated in the day's doings of the Republicans were John T. Adams of Dubuque, Ia., former national chairman, and two members of the present committee, George A. Ball of Indiana, and Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa.

Among the Illinoisans were former Senators Glenn and Deneen, Congressman Fred A. Britten, State Chairman Justus L. Johnson, County Chairman William H. Weber, National Committeeman Frank L. Smith, Silas H. Strawn, and former Committeeman Roy O. West.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt Jr. arrived by plane from New York last night to participate in the Republican conference today.

RICHBERG DEFENDS NRA CODES, DENIES THEY'RE OPPRESSIVE

Charlottiesville, Va., July 9.—(AP)—Development of an "economic constitution for the establishment of self-government in industry" today was named formally as the fundamental problem of the recovery program.

Donald R. Richberg, NRA general counsel and executive director of both the national emergency council and the new industrial emergency committee, spoke before the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia.

"It may be worth while to dispel the myth," he said, "that establishing codes of fair competition is a theoretical experiment by a mythical group of youthful brain trusters operating under a presidential dictatorship."

He asserted NRA codes were written by representative groups of trade and industry. He added:

"To claim that such a process of self-government is invalid, under a constitution designed to establish and perpetuate government by the consent of the governed, is to claim that the American people have denied themselves the power to control, so far as necessary in the public interest, the processes of industrial production and distribution upon which depend the political as well as the economic freedom and security of all the people.

"We cannot preserve the constitution of the United States as a charter of political freedom by construing it as a charter of economic anarchy."

G.O.P. HAS ONLY VAGUEST ISSUE, ASSERTS FARLEY

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley tonight replied to opposition criticism with the assertion that because Republicans have no economic issue they are seizing upon the "constitutional issue about which they can be as vague as they wish."

In a statement made on the eve of his departure for a western speaking trip, Farley said:

"The campaign is evidently under way, and I hope the opposition party will be more specific in its attacks. Republicans have no more notion than Republican success is possible next November than I have."

Farley goes to Philadelphia tomorrow and will be in New York Wednesday. That night he will start westward, making his first stop at Indianapolis Friday. All told, he will make more than a score of speeches, has a good time even though its lead-

ICKES TELLS AIDS TO GIVE FRIENDLY PAPERS U. S. ADS

Four Bureaus Ordered to Help with "Subsidy."

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—An attempt by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes to subsidize, in part, Democratic papers with money at the disposal of the department of the interior was disclosed today.

In a series of letters written within the last two weeks Secretary Ickes directed heads of the public land office, the Indian office, the reclamation service, and the Alaskan railroad to place all official notices or advertisments in Democratic newspapers as far as is legally possible.

How much money may have been diverted into newspapers sympathetic with the Roosevelt administration by the Ickes dictum could not be learned. Officials of the various bureaus affected said they kept no record of the advertising done or the amounts of money involved.

Letter Brings Protest.

Copies of Secretary Ickes' June letter have already been circulated among the department's regional offices where the advertising of public land sales, construction projects, and other departmental matters is managed and placed in papers. It has aroused protests among editors who do not favor the New Deal and who have found a source of revenue snatched away from them as a penalty for criticizing the administration. In an order issued a year ago, but not made generally public, inquiry disclosed today, Secretary Ickes decreed:

"Effective immediately, subject to legal restrictions, Democratic papers shall be designated for all publications required to be made in connection with cases arising under public land laws."

Extended to Three Others.

In the recent letters Secretary Ickes extended this requirement to cover advertising done by the Indian office, the reclamation bureau, and the Alaskan railroad. Each July 1, as a new fiscal year begins, Secretary Ickes issues authorizations to these bureaus for their advertising and this year he refused to sanction the authorizing letters unless the restriction against anti-New Deal papers was written in.

In spite of the order issued last year none of Ickes' bureau heads included the designation of Democratic newspapers in the form letters which they sent up for his approval and which gave them power to advertise in newspapers during the fiscal year starting on July 1. He rejected them all. Fred W. Johnson, commissioner of public lands, received his form letter back with the following terse note from E. K. Burlew, Ickes' administrative assistant:

"Will you please redraft this order to include the paragraph regarding advertising in Democratic newspapers which is according to the policy of the secretary?"

"Subsidy" on Other Side.

Disclosure of Secretary Ickes' letters completely turned the tables on the New Dealers. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, has loudly proclaimed that the newspapers critical of the New Deal are "subsidized," never naming the subsidizers. Ickes' letters reveal that it is the New Deal itself which is tampering with the press.

Interior department aids declared that under Republican administrations advertising had been diverted into Republican papers. The fact remained, however, that none of the bureaus' letters authorizing them to insert advertising in papers had mentioned the political attitude of the press until Ickes had the Democratic qualification drafted in this year.

His action was in marked contrast to that of other departments. The treasury, for instance, places advertisments in the paper with the largest circulation in the region affected, regardless of editorial policy.

MOTHER OF TWO ASKS COURT ORDER TO HALT NRA BAR TO HER WORK

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Mrs. Katherine Budd of Brooklyn, who is seeking to have the NRA restrained from interfering with her trade of making artificial flowers at home, her sole means of support for herself and two children, obtained an order today from Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck requiring Elmer F. Andrews, state labor commissioner, to show cause on Wednesday why a license for home work should not be issued to her.

"Unless I am permitted to do industrial work at home," she said in an affidavit submitted to the court, "I shall be compelled to apply to the municipal, state and federal relief agencies for assistance."

Mrs. Budd said that she had been able to earn from $18 to $25 a week by making artificial flowers at her home until the NRA stepped in and said that the administration did not permit persons of her classification to do such work.

MRS. SWIFT GIVES SUPPER AT FAIR FOR MUSIC CHIEF

Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift gave an informal supper party on the Swift Bridge of Service at the World's Fair last night in honor of Karl Krueger, conductor of the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra and guest conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, which is giving concerts on the Swift Bridge.

Among the guests at the supper were Miss Givethalyn Jones, Mrs. George McLaughlin, Mrs. Hugh McBirney, Mrs. William Martin, Mrs. Howard Shaw, Miss Cornelia Scott, Mrs. Mark Cummings, Mrs. C. M. Ely, Mrs. Ernst Freund, Mrs. Oliver Wilson, Mrs. Phelps Hoyt, Mrs. Ezra Warner, Mrs. Albert B. Dick, Mrs. Edward Hasler, Mrs. Walter Kirk, and Mrs. Percy Ames.

HOSIERY OFFICIAL URGES NRA CUT HOURS OF WORK

Also Asks Closing of Mills for Two Weeks.

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Earl Constantine of New York, managing director of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers, urged the NRA today to permit his industry to reduce hours of work, raise minimum wages and shut down for two weeks in an effort to check overproduction.

Constantine said it was a three point program to end what might be termed "a jungle fight."

Would Reduce Work Hours.

The three points included reduction of hours from two shifts of 48 hours to two shifts of 35 hours a week; a shut down for two weeks between July 1 and Sept. 1, consecutive or otherwise, and an increase in the wage minimum "which have proved to be below the established average."

Constantine said it had been the hope of the original code framers to reduce production by 27 per cent, but the actual reduction approximated only 9 per cent.

He attributed that failure to increased machine operation. He cited figures to show machinery in place had increased from 79,700 to 82,200 units. Machines on one shift had decreased from 23,400 to 17,800; machines going from one to two shifts had increased from 27,200 to 42,700 and machines on three shifts had been eliminated, all going to the two shift basis. Idle machines he said decreased from 27,200 to 21,600.

Each manufacturer, he said, sought to offset the decrease from 110 hours before the code to 80 hours under the code by increasing machine operation, thus destroying one of the purposes of reducing hours of work.

Constantine said that in the seamless division of the industry the minimum became the actual wages inasmuch as the minimum represented a great increase above pre-code wages.

In the full-fashion section he said, however, in from 10 to 15 per cent of the industry the actual wage, especially for knitters, was far above the minimum.

Means Sharp Competition.

In the remaining 85 to 90 per cent of the industry, he said, the minimum came nearer to the actual earnings and subjected the high paying mills to sharp competition.

Constantine urged the establishment of higher minimums in order to raise the standard and eliminate unfair competition. He stated the proposals should not react harmfully to the consumer inasmuch as price resistance now came principally from the professional buyer and not from the ultimate consumer.

DIES IN CAB ACCIDENT.

Staunton, Ill., July 9.—[Special.]—James T. Simons, 64, was killed today when a car in which he was riding skidded and overturned.

VICTIMS PARADE TO STAND IN BIG SWINDLING TRIAL

New York, July 9.—(AP)—Federal jurors cocked ears to real life swindle tales today as prosecutors sought to pin the far reaching and effective activities of an international bunco ring on James C. McKay and William J. Graham Reno, Nev., gambling kings.

A parade of disillusioned persons, ranging from middle age to infirmity, warmed the witness stand with voluble and indignant testimony about an alleged systematic, and successful, fraud scheme whose locale extended from Florida to Saskatchewan, and whose operators invariably took its victims to Reno for the "killing."

Chicagoan Loses $150,000.

Edward W. Gilsdorf of Chicago, 70 years old, said he lost $150,000. Judson A. Elston, 83 year old United States commissioner of Caldwell, Idaho, gave up $23,000. Frank Diaute of Randolph, Mass., lost $35,000. Alison Forbes, ranch owner of Victoria, B. C., was loser by $30,000. George Kurchus, Flint, Mich., mechanical engineer, said he was swindled out of $61,000.

Frank Roskwitalski, Buffalo, N. Y., coal and wood dealer, testified he lost $15,000. Frederick Bray of Guernsey, Sask., said his loss was $21,000.

In each case, except that of Kurchus, the alleged swindlers dangled huge but fictitious race track winnings before the victims and told them the cash was theirs if only they put up the necessary "good faith" money.

Last Bet Always Loses.

In each case also the money was put up and "lost" on another horse—always the "wrong horse" on the final bet. In the Kurchus case it was the stock market that was played, and the "wrong stock" was purchased in the end.

In each case, transfer of money or liquidation of stock and bonds for the victims was effected through the Riverside Bank of Reno. George Wingfield, Nevada copper king and president of the bank, has been suspended by the government. Roy J. Frisch, cashier of the bank, is missing.

The victims told the jury the gang was always careful to get them out of Reno after the swindle. Railroad tickets were bought for them. They were told their losses would be made good. They were told to go from city to city and telegrams kept coming to them telling them everything was going to be "okay."

From Tears to Bank Notes.

The guile, described by the alleged victims, included everything from tears to great display of large denomination bank notes.

Gilsdorf met two man in Hot Springs, Ark., who said they were William Hyde and Allen Comer. Comer told him he could collect winnings of $300,000 if only he could establish the proper "credit"—"good faith" credit.

Comer cried, Gilsdorf said, and told of his two lovely children who must be put through college. The Chicagoan was touched. He hurried to New York to get his money from the Chase National bank and take it to the Riverside bank in Reno.

Graham and McKay are accused as the backers of the ring.

VACCINATION FOR PARALYSIS FINAL CYCLE IN BATTLE

Hope Serum Will Stamp Disease Out.

New York, July 9.—(AP)—The New York vaccination of human beings for infantile paralysis marks the final cycle of a long medical battle.

There are four of these cycles. The first is isolation of the cause of a disease. Second is artificial cultivation of this agent. Third, experiments with it on animals. Fourth, transfer of these animal experiments to human beings.

On New Ground.

There have been previously some human experiments, but they were mostly on persons already stricken with infantile paralysis or those risking immediate exposure. The inoculation of the New York physicians, soon to be extended to children, is virtually new ground.

The history of infantile paralysis gives reason to hope that a vaccine ultimately will stamp it out. Every part of the civilized world has it, but never is there a widespread epidemic. The outbreaks are regional and do not spread.

The reason for this is not certain, but medical authorities find in the blood of a majority of the persons tested substances which tend to immunize them against infantile paralysis.

In some experiments this immunizing substance has been found in three out of four adults. It is concluded therefore that these adults must have had the disease in too mild a form to be recognized. If that is so the ground seems ready for an artificial immunizing medicine.

Three Disease Producing Agents.

There are three kinds of disease producing agents. First are the toxic producing organisms, of which examples are the snake, tetanus, and diphtheria. Second, those producing damage by physical presence, tuberculosis being an example. Third are viruses which are invisible.

Medicine's greatest success toward immunity is with the toxin makers and the viruses. Infantile paralysis is a virus disease.

Anti-toxins have been used with success in fighting the toxin-making agents. An anti-toxin is a chemical substance produced in the blood of an animal in the process of recovering from the disease caused by the toxin-producing bacterium.

But against viruses the immunization method is different. It employs attenuation of the virus. That is, the virulence of the virus is weakened.

Two Lines of Work.

In infantile paralysis the experiments of recent years have concentrated upon two lines. One is to produce a serum (the liquid part of an animal's blood) to help a patient already stricken. The second is a vaccine for the healthy individual to enable him to withstand the paralysis.

A serum is supposed to contain an immunizing substance. It is like the sheath of a knife—it doesn't harm the knife, but masks its edge. In paralysis the serum is believed to prevent the virus from entering body cells. Two sources for this serum have been used. One is human beings. The other horses. Other animals might be used.

Study Vaccine Method.

The vaccine method is the one under experiment in New York by Dr. William H. Park. He describes the paralysis virus as "dead" before he uses it.

This is medically interesting, for really dead viruses have not in the past conferred the immunity sought. They had to be nearly dead, that is sufficiently "attenuated." Dr. Park kills his virus with formalin before converting it into a vaccine.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Testing Hay Keeper.

TESTS have been started with a modern galvanized iron hay keeper on THE TRIBUNE'S auxiliary experimental farm at Wheaton, Ill. The first double container type of hay keeper ever built in America has just been installed.

The new keeper will be used to provide feed and to promote the safety of the auxiliary farm's fine herd of thirty-eight Guernsey cows, calves, and herd bulls. These cattle were eyewitnesses to the fire that destroyed 11 valuable horses, six automobiles, a large barn, and a two story home on the farm last March.

This silo shaped keeper, all metal, stands on a concrete foundation just outside the barn, and is directly connected with the feed room only a few feet away from the stanchions of the milch cows.

The two containers will hold a total of 54 tons of chopped hay; the outside container has a capacity of 40 tons and the inside container 14 tons. The structure is 21 feet 6 inches in diameter and 25 feet high. The over all height is 38 feet. The cost of building this keeper compares favorably with that of an overhead mow providing storage for an equivalent amount of hay.

Experienced farmers find that this new kind of hay keeper, put into use three years ago for the first time, eliminates fire hazards common on all farms where hay is stored in an overhead mow.

One of its most valuable features is that it adds to the value of hay. The secret of this modern method of preserving hay is that it enables farmers to retain a much higher percentage of leaves, such as those on alfalfa and clovers ordinarily lost in haying. The handling of hay in and out of this keeper is greatly simplified in comparison to the old system of storing hay in an overhead mow.

Alfalfa hay that is often damaged from exposure to rains during the curing process can be blown into the keeper within a comparatively few hours after it is mowed. This almost eliminates the damage caused by blanching the hay in the sun, drenching with rain, and raking when the hay is so dry that the leaves shatter freely.

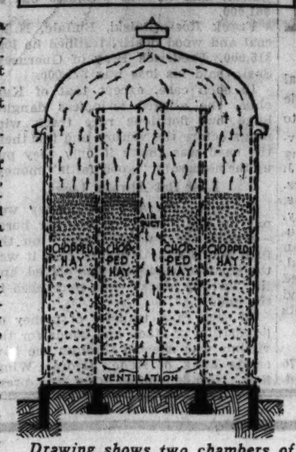
Leaves are the most valuable part of the alfalfa plant. Under ordinary haying conditions in Kansas the loss of alfalfa leaves amounted to an average of about 19 per cent in tests made over a period of seven years. In other alfalfa growing sections the loss is often much greater. This loss is almost entirely avoided if hay is blown into the hay keeper, where it afterwards goes through the final stages of curing. The keeper is so constructed that the hay is completely surrounded by perforated walls. Air circulates through the chambers and draws the moisture out of the green hay just as a lamp wick draws kerosene. The air does not circulate through the hay but the air chambers are not more than two and a half feet from the center of the hay inside the containers.

A large amount of moisture in an alfalfa plant is in the stem and if the hay is left in the field to cure a day or two the leaves shatter. When the stems have been dried out enough to be put in a stack or stored in a barn, the loss of leaves from shattering is excessive. Leaves of alfalfa are nine times as valuable as the stems, according to Wilbur J. Frazier, expert at the University of Illinois.

Alfalfa from the first cutting on the auxiliary farm already has been chopped up and blown into the keeper. Space remains for storing the second crop.

Almost any of the legumes and tame hay crops with the exception of soy beans may be stored in the keeper. This type of hay keeper may also be built so that ensilage can be kept in the inside and hay in the outside container, giving the dairyman an ideal combination of feed.

HAY CHAMBERS



Drawing shows two chambers of new haykeeper and indicates how air circulates around drums of hay, withdrawing moisture.

STRATOSPHERE BALLOON CALLED THE EXPLORER

Rapid City, S. D., July 9.—(AP)—Freaks of the weather, which so far have combined to thwart man's greatest effort to penetrate the stratosphere, were held in abeyance by nature today to afford perfect conditions for christening the craft.

Mrs. Tom Berry, first lady of South Dakota, christened the black and white gondola The Explorer with a bottle of liquid air before scientists, army officers, state and officials, assembled in Moonlight valley, scene of ultimate takeoff for the 15 mile trip upward.

Among spectators at the ceremony were Gov. Tom Berry, officials of the Geographic society, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, Omaha, Seventh corps area commander, who arrived today, and Dr. Lyman J. Briggs, Washington, director of the United States bureau of standards and chairman of the advisory committee for the flight.

HAGUE, AIR RACE PILOT, IS KILLED; 3 HURT IN CRASH

San Bernardino, Cal., July 9.—[Special.]—George E. Hague, noted racing pilot, was killed and three Los Angeles men seriously injured this evening when a plane in which they attempted to take off from Shandin Hills airport for Los Angeles failed to gain altitude, topped some eucalyptus trees and crashed to the ground in a watermelon patch.

The injured are Attorney Richard Hunt Sampson, Attorney Samuel E. Edwards, and Assistant Fire Chief Harry Claiborne, all of whom were said at Saint Bernardino hospital to be in critical condition.

Hague was killed as the force of the ship's crash drove the engine back into the cockpit, crushing him. Attorneys Sampson and Edwards are associated on a trial in San Bernardino county court here. Sampson rented the plane at Los Angeles and engaged Hague, a professional pilot, to fly it.

ROBINSON TO STAY IN CANAL ZONE FOR OPERATION

BALBOA, C. Z., July 9.—(AP)—William Albert Robinson, author and explorer, who was dramatically rescued from the Galapagos islands two months ago, has decided to remain here for an appendix operation, which will be performed within a month.

Robinson has been released from Gorgas hospital, where he was brought on a naval ship, but will return there for the operation.

[RECENT OLD GOLD CONVERT]

See CAROLE LOMBARD in "NOW AND FOREVER" Her latest Paramount Picture

Dear Miss Lombard:—

You will agree that all smokers, both men and women, prefer a cigarette that's easy on the throat . . . rather than harsh and raspy.

But Old Gold's throat-ease has an additional appeal. The absence of artificial flavoring in Old Gold not only makes it a smoother smoke . . . but a cleaner smoke . . . less apt to stain the teeth or to leave objectionable odor in the clothes or on the breath.

We do not say that Old Gold is the only good cigarette for the fastidious woman smoker. But we do say there is no purer or finer cigarette made.

Sincerely,

MRS. ROOSEVELT CHEERED AFTER FAIR RADIO TALK

Spends Her Day Dodging Army of Reporters.

From the setting of an Elizabethan theater, the stronghold of license more than 300 years ago, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt last night hailed as a distinct advance in the campaign for decency in motion pictures voluntary censorship on the part of the industry. She spoke as a news commentator in a commercial broadcast from the stage of the replica of the Globe theater in Merrie England at A Century of Progress Exposition.

The broadcast closed a hectic day for the country's first lady during which she conducted a determined but unsuccessful campaign to dodge reporters and visit the Fair as a private citizen and not as the wife of President Roosevelt. She gracefully admitted her defeat when, with a shrug of her shoulders, her short address was closed with a flare of photographers' flashlights.

Discusses Movie Situation.

In a gown of lace Eleanor blue, Mrs. Roosevelt read her début as a news commentator with the aid of gold spectacles. After remarking on the anachronism of her surroundings and pointing to the President's appointment of the committee on economic security as pointing to solution of the "insecurity of the family and the individual," she branched into the movie situation.

"The matter of moving pictures is very important to the whole country," she began. "I am extremely happy the film industry has appointed a censor within its own ranks. Mr. Joseph Breen, assistant to Will H. Hays, will act as censor in their ranks. It has long been a question of great interest to women's organizations, particularly, of course, because of the fact that moving pictures are so popular with children.

Cites Movies' Coöperation.

"Lately it has been felt that the tendency to glorify the racketeer and criminal, or at least to make him appear a sympathetic character, was having something of a bad effect upon the children of the country. Consequently this new announcement should do much to make these organizations feel that the film industry as a whole desires to coöperate and use its tremendous power for the improvement of the country."

Mrs. Roosevelt commented on the All-Star baseball game to be played today, expressing the hope that "the outstanding heroes of the game will come up to expectations." She called upon her audience to consider what it means for a President to miss a train or change a sailing date for his vacation.

During the last week, she said, this occurred, with the result that thousands of people had to change their plans, while, she added, "If you or I changed our date nothing would happen except we would have to book passage on another vessel."

Gives Pay to Charity.

Her address closed with a burst of applause from a hand picked audience including Mayor Kelly. Later in the hour she returned to the air for a three minute pæon on the benefit of sound sleep to accenuate the desires of her sponsors, the Simmons company, manufacturers of mattresses, who paid her $3,000 for the first of five broadcasts. The proceeds will go to charity.

Following the broadcast Mrs. Roosevelt bowed to gathered crowds outside the theater and, after a strenuous day, went to rest for the night in the Blackstone hotel. She will be up to visit the Fair show of painting at the Art institute this morning and will leave during the afternoon on a motor tour to join her husband after his Caribbean vacation cruise at Portland, Ore., Aug. 1.

Throughout the day Mrs. Roosevelt and her party had played hare and hounds with reporters and photographers. The game began when she dodged in a futile attempt to evade her uninvited followers from the hotel, at which she arrived Sunday night, to an announced press interview in the Furniture Mart.

Flings Challenge to Press.

There she flung her challenge to press representatives with, "This is not in any way an official visit. When I am with my husband I have certain duties and must go through with them, but this time I'm on a holiday. I'm strictly off the record. I'm just a private individual seeing the Fair."

As she posed for photographers she said, "From now on it's a game of hide and seek." She dodged out of the building with her brother, G. Hall Roosevelt, and her motoring companions, Miss Marian Dickerman and Miss Nancy Cook of Hyde Park, N. Y.

At the Fair grounds she was a conspicuous figure in her dress of ribbed brown silk, white collar, brown straw hat, and white gloves. When press representatives closed in upon her she lost her smile and expressed annoyance by dodging out the gates into a cab.

The "hounds" bayed in pursuit and tracked her to the northern entrance by which she returned to the Administration building for lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Rufus C. Dawes. During the meal she abandoned her attempt at complete anonymity and effected a compromise.

She posed for pictures in a lagoon launch and at the Alaskan exhibit at which she greeted her friend "Slim" Williams, Eskimo dog team serum hero of Nome, Alaska, whom she met on her visit to the Fair last year and whom she greeted as a White House guest last winter.

Races Through Grounds.

The game of hide and seek began in earnest. At a hop, skip, and jump pace Mrs. Roosevelt and her companions raced through the Hall of Science, General Exhibits buildings, the Crystal House, the Electrical building, and a bus tour of the grounds.

Everywhere she was hailed and recognized by Fair visitors. As the queue of reporters and photographers, worn by her pace, lengthened, she grinned broadly. But when the pace was maintained she said, "I am sorry for you but don't like you any better."

PUBLIC PARKS PROGRAMS BEGIN AT FAIR TONIGHT

New Entertainment Free; Crowds Keep Up.

BY EARL MULLIN.

The first of a series of programs to be presented by public parks will be given at the Fair tonight. Cornell Square park and Hamilton park will give the inaugural shows at 8 p. m. today in the Court of States. The entire show is free.

Included in the cast are children and adults who will present a program of dances and songs. In outlining the event Fair officials conformed to the previously announced policy of conducting this year's Fair in such a manner that all of Chicago will be able to participate in programs to be given during the summer.

Mrs. Roosevelt Is Visitor.

With the visit of Mrs. Roosevelt as the limelight feature of the day, crowds at the Fair yesterday gave promise of continuing the upward trend in the attendance chart. So far, with only two exceptions, each day has bettered the attendance of the same day in all previous weeks.

During the afternoon yesterday attendance was running ahead of last Monday, which closed with 63,469.

Dedicate New Mexico Exhibit.

The New Mexico state exhibit in the Hall of States was officially dedicated yesterday and presented to the Fair. The highlight of the formal program was a Navajo Indian religious ceremony, with Klah, the medicine man, blessing the building. The exhibit is christened Hozongo Hogan, meaning the House of Beauty and Happiness.

121 YEARS OF AGE, NEGRO EX-SLAVE PAYS FAIR VISIT

"Uncle" Wilson Butler, a Negro who says he was born in 1813, was one of the visitors to the 1934 A Century of Progress Exposition yesterday. He accompanied his patron, Col. M. S. Potter of Nashville, Ga., through the Exposition grounds. Butler's memories of persons and events in the history of the south from 1826 are so accurate that many skeptics have been convinced he actually lived through the times he describes. Col. Potter is taking the old man, whose only physical infirmity is dim eyesight, back to their home within a few days. "Uncle" Butler has his third set of teeth.

World's Fair Notes

THE HARTFORD CHORAL CLUB of the Hartford Fire Insurance company, directed by George Fisher, will give a concert at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Federation Lounge of the Hall of Social Science. They will also present a program in the Illinois Host house at 8 p. m. July 27. Both programs are sponsored by the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs.

Thousands of electricians will visit the Fair Wednesday, July 18, which is to be Electric day. The larger electric companies of Chicago will give their employés a partial holiday. The ceremonies will be under direction of the Electric Association of Chicago. Edward J. Doyle of the Commonwealth Edison company is chairman of arrangements.

The village jeweler of the Dutch Village on the Midway yesterday made an offer of a solid gold wedding ring to any couple who will be publicly married on the village square any night in the week excepting Saturday and Sunday. The Village hopes to have one public wedding each week. The wedding dinner and numerous presents from shop owners in the village are promised to prospective brides and grooms.

Western songs and hill-billy melodies are regular Saturday features at the Reliance Manufacturing company's exhibit in the General Exhibits building.

MARY PICKFORD TO BE GUEST AT FAIR SATURDAY

Hollywood, Cal., July 9.—[Special.]—Mary Pickford will be the guest of honor at the Chicago Century of Progress Exposition Saturday. She will leave here by train Wednesday, having accepted the invitation of officials to spend the week-end at the Fair.

She will be escorted to the Fair grounds by the Black Horse troops, appear at a reception in the Court of Honor, have luncheon with President Rufus Dawes and the trustees in the Lounge, and award prizes of the day at the Lagoon theater in the afternoon.

Traveling with Miss Pickford will be her secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis.

How New Tire SENSATION smashes DEPRESSION BARRIERS!

Tremendous welcome of new "G-3"—marvel tire that gives 43% more non-skid mileage—keeps Goodyear factories and dealers on jump!

A 1934 success story that shows how the American people will buy when you build what they want

LANK and angular he stood there—one of the nation's greatest research engineers. Conviction shone in his eyes as he spoke these words:

"If it were up to me to whip depression, I'd put a big billboard in front of every factory in the land, with this burning message: 'GIVE US SOMETHING NEW AND GOOD AND WE WILL BUY IT'—signed 'THE AMERICAN PUBLIC'."

There is more than psychology in that statement—there is truth—and here's the finest evidence in the world—the evidence of sales.

How a tire started a stampede

Ten weeks ago people opened their morning papers and read the story of a new tire—a spectacular tire—known by the factory job number "G-3".

Eagerly eyes ran through the facts—for here was something the people wanted—a tire proved by grueling days and nights on the test fleet—a tire with 43% longer non-skid mileage than the former All-Weather—a tire that kept its grip twice as long as other tires tested against it.

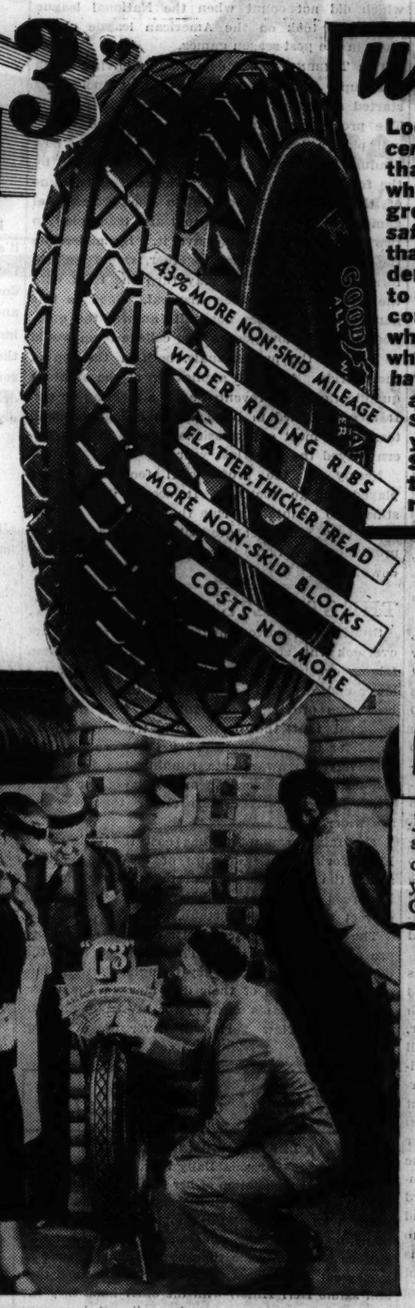
Then things happened! By the thousands and tens of thousands car owners headed for Goodyear dealers. All over the country they demanded the new "G-3".

This is no exaggeration. You should see the reports that rolled into headquarters at Akron. Excited dealers wrote, wired, called in by phone.

"We're breaking sales records!" "We're swamped with business!" "We're having the biggest sales in history!" "We're selling whole sets of the new "G-3"." "Sold 37 tires"—"sold 50 tires"—"sold 200 tires the first day," ran the figures from all over the country.

What you get in the "G-3" All-Weather

Such instantaneous success sprang from this vital fact—Goodyear actually had a wonder tire—had actually spent close to two years developing, testing, perfecting it.



Warning!

Look at the NON-SKID in the center of this tread—the spot that counts, because that's where the tread contacts the ground. When it comes to safety, insurance figures show that 5½ times as many accidents are due to skidding as to blowouts and punctures combined. Remember this when others try to duplicate what the "G-3" gives you: You have to have "NON-SKID" before any tire can give you "NON-SKID MILEAGE" and safety—and you have to have Goodyear Supertwist beneath this type of tread to make it a real success.

The "G-3" is the answer to the motorist's prayer. W. D. W., Salisbury, Pa.

these "G-3" tires have delivered the best non-skid mileage that I have ever obtained. E. M. W., Hartford, Conn.

Just the other day I saved myself from a serious accident because of the wonderful grip on your new "G-3". O. G., Portland, Ore.

These tires have run 21,000 miles . . . the non-skid still appears on the tread. R. H., Orlando, Fla.

After 15,000 miles of hard use, much of it at high speed, these "G-3" tires have plenty of tread left. S. O. S., Portland, Ore.

All over the country . . . car owners headed for Goodyear dealers

To date I have received more than double the mileage . . . and the diamond tread is still showing. A. G. R., Clarksburg, W.Va.

I have received 50% more non-skid from these "G-3's" than I ever got before. H. T. H., Idena, O.

The non-skid stayed on these "G-3's" longer than any tire I ever used. H. S. H., Ft. Myers, Fla.

After 15,000 miles the tread on these "G-3" tires looks almost like new. Any previous tires were smooth or went out of service before 15,000 miles. J. P. S., Portsmouth, O.

And here's what this great new "G-3" gives you:

A broader, flatter, heavier tread—

A tread with 16% more non-skid blocks in the center—

A tread with the extra-durability and extra-resilience of patented Goodyear Supertwist beneath it to stand up under the extra weight and strain—

A tread that gives 43% more miles of real non-skid safety at no extra cost!

Any wonder this "G-3" is a sensation! Any wonder more people are buying the new "G-3" than any other tire in the world!

"Give me but the liberty of the press and I will give to the minister a venal house of peers. I will give him a corrupt and servile house of commons. I will give him the full swing of the patronage of office. I will give him the whole host of ministerial influence. I will give him all the power that place can confer upon him, to purchase up submission and overawe resistance; and yet, armed with the liberty of the press, I will go forth to meet him undismayed. I will attack the mighty fabric of that mightier engine. I will shake down from its height corruption and bury it beneath the ruins of the abuses it was meant to shelter."

—Richard Brinsley Sheridan.

A NAZI APPEAL FOR PEACE.

While Americans who travel in Europe or are otherwise in touch with European opinion have been aware of a very widespread assumption that another European war is on the way, Cabinet Minister Hess' speech at Königsberg comes nearer than any other authoritative utterance to an acknowledgment that war is imminent. The speech is ominously reminiscent of July, 1914.

It is true that even so emphatic an utterance as this cannot be interpreted without reference to considerations of internal politics, and we are aware from the startling events of recent days in Germany that the acute crisis in the Nazi régime may well suggest the expediency of directing public thought in and out of Germany to an external peril. But that suggestion is not very comforting, since it only emphasizes an instability which in past crises has precipitated war. Governments endangered by internal conditions have often preferred external conflict to internal revolt, and the extraordinary measures adopted by the Hitler régime to avoid or quell the latter leave no doubt that a situation exists in which desperate remedies are probable.

As for the ostensible purpose of the appeal, while to American thought it must seem wholly plausible and desirable, it is unfortunate that it cannot have the full force of its reasonableness because of its source, at least with peoples who still cherish the principles and practices of free government. A régime which won its way to power by so much bellicose rhetoric upon Germany's international relations and so much ruthless violence in internal politics must expect to find any pacific appeal discounted, if not discredited. This from the American viewpoint is tragically unfortunate, for it has seemed obvious to us for many years that the only bridge to peace in Europe must rest on a better understanding between France and Germany. Toward that understanding the Nazi movement has contributed nothing, by act or implication.

That French statesmanship must share serious responsibility for the success of Hitlerism, and therefore for the development of a situation which threatens the ghastly catastrophe of another war, most Americans believe, and this opinion will have, we think, a decisive influence upon American policy in case another war befalls. It certainly is to be hoped that French policy will not be optimistically colored by American disapproval of the Nazi régime. A backward glance over European policies and conduct, beginning with the misnamed peace conference at Versailles, has inclined the American nation more and more toward Mercutio's "A plague o' both your houses." And this in spite of an understanding, not credited to us by European opinion, that our own welfare is profoundly involved in the unhappy course of events in Europe. We in America know that we must suffer gravely from a war which must imperil European civilization and we have always been disposed to make any effectual contribution to its avoidance. Yet Europe has exposed to us our inability to influence either her governments or her peoples in any effectual way for the reconstruction of her shattered structure or the creation of a new psychology and morale upon which peace must be founded. We have been left with an alternative of partisanship only, and we have not found it possible with regard to our own conscience or even our own sense of expediency to choose between the belligerents.

If another war occurs in Europe it will be the fruit of incorrigible hostilities and incredibly short-sighted ambitions for which we have no responsibility and which we have been left no hope of ameliorating. In such a situation, in spite of our full recognition that we must share heavily in the consequences of the disaster to Europe, our common sense must warn us to keep out and try as effectually as possible to limit as much as we can its consequences to us.

Meanwhile, we cannot think that Herr Hess' appeal is likely to relieve or better the relations between France and Germany. We only hope that it will not worsen them and that it may be taken not as prophecy but as a not very tactful resort of internal politics.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

There is a kind of grim humor in the conflict between the housing authority in New York and the housing authority in Washington. Both are presumably determined to replace slum dwellings with model apartments, yet they have been unable to come to terms. Secretary Ickes has the money to spend and Commissioner Post in New York wants it spent, but they can't get together. A situation similar in outline if not in detail has developed in Chicago.

The explanation is to be found in the circumstance that the money in question is other people's money. Ordinarily those who administer such funds are likely to be wildly extravagant, but sometimes they develop the most exaggerated temperamental difficulties. They become prima donnas. They alone are honest men in a world of cheats and liars. They alone are prudent in a world of butterflies. All the glory which is to come from the expenditure must go to them or there will be no expenditure. The consequence is that there is no expenditure.

THE PRICE OF MILK.

A few weeks ago the price of milk delivered to householders in Chicago was raised to 10 cents. The AAA authorized the increase because pastures in the Chicago milk shed were burning up and the outlook for all kinds of hay as well as for corn was becoming desperate.

The drouth has been broken but the price of milk has not come down. If a price of 10 cents was justified during the drouth a price of 9 cents or perhaps even 8 cents is fair today. If the farmers were warranted in resenting the slowness of the AAA in raising prices the consumers and dairy farmers as well are now warranted in resenting the delay in restoring prices to a level at which the market will consume the available supply of milk.

THE ALL STAR GAME.

Last year THE TRIBUNE sports department suggested to the managers of the major leagues a midseason game to be played by stars selected by the fans. The immediate success of the idea guaranteed that there would be a repeat and that the game might become a permanent feature. The American and National league players meet again today, this time in New York. The game is sufficiently distinctive and different from the world's championship series to justify itself on its own.

Although it lacks the quality of play obtainable in a team in which the players have developed a particularity of team work, it has the compensating advantage that every position is played by a star, and the best pitching is served to the best batters and heaviest hitters. Last year the American league took the game, an omen which did not count when the National league champions took on the American league champions in the post-season games.

THE TRIBUNE sports department, having given this super game of baseball to that sport, has started something like its equivalent in football. The professional champions, the Chicago Bears, will play a team of last year's collegians, now graduates, selected, as in the case of baseball, by the followers of the sports. The collegians, some of them potential recruits to the professional game, will need to hustle to learn team play in two weeks. The Bears have it. By midseason the amateurs, if coached together, would make a formidable team. They may turn the trick with the limited time at their disposal. Good as this game will be, it does not quite answer the question, which is how good a fine college team would be against the professionals, both at the top of their stride. A foolish application of the amateur qualification has prevented such a meeting so far. It is not applied in baseball. A college baseball team may meet a professional team. Northwestern played the Cubs last year.

Nearly all the professional footballers have played college football. It seems illogical obstinacy to maintain a rule that a college football team may not meet graduates who are playing professionally. Some time the rule may be broken down.

THE STREETS OF NEW YORK.

Students of government planning should not overlook the streets of New York. Manhattan Island, except for the original settlement at the lower end, was laid out about the time the steamboat was proving its usefulness. The planners assumed that the north-south trafic would be cared for by steamboat. They therefore provided relatively narrow streets running the length of the island and spaced them relatively far apart. The east-west streets are closer together and are wider.

The false assumption has cost the citizens of New York countless hours of delay in getting about the city and necessitated the spending of hundreds of millions of dollars in the attempt to correct the original mistake.

The planners of New York did what planners are always prone to do. They suffered from the delusion of the apex. They thought that the mechanical progress of their day marked the uttermost limit of man's capacity for invention and improvement. New York will never cease paying for the error.

Editorial of the Day

A LESSON FROM GERMANY.

[Arizona Daily Star.]

The virtual repudiation of her commercial debts has destroyed whatever credit Germany has had in the past. Who again will want to lend money to Germany, or deposit money in Germany? Even her own citizens have for some time been sending their own money out of the country. While with one hand they still salute Herr Hitler, with the other hand they are quietly and by devious methods sending their savings to the banks of other nations. For many years to come, regardless of the form of government Germany may have in the future, Germany will lack ability to negotiate those short term credits so necessary for the facilitation of her commerce. This alone will be a tremendous obstacle for future Germany to overcome.

If some one had had the deliberate desire and power to ruin Germany, he could have not done worse than Herr Hitler has to date. Not only has every ambition of the German people been frustrated, but their position made more perilous and more unequal. Distrusted by the world, feared by the nations of Europe, her commercial credit destroyed, her position today is more desperate and ignominious than ever it was under the kaiser or the republic. So serious has Germany's position become a complete change in both her foreign and internal policies is her only hope.

The world and the United States can profit by the German revolution. For one thing, it shows how one man, even when he is sincere, can, when he holds unlimited power, bring disaster to his country when he adopts wrong policies. Secondly, it shows how freedom of speech and thought is vitally necessary to give those in executive authority a warning of the consequences of their acts. Thirdly, it shows that armaments may harm rather than help the position of a nation in the world. Finally it shows the disastrous results that patriotism can bring when it is aroused to an almost insane pitch.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HERR HITLER reminds me of the somewhat querulous Gen. Braxton Bragg, foremost among the leaders of the late lamented Lost Cause. When Gen. Bragg was a captain in the United States army some years before the Civil War he was stationed at a western frontier post of which he was commissary officer. A company commander made a requisition for some much needed supplies, but Capt. Bragg ruled that the company had already received its full quota of the stores desired and could be given no more. The matter was taken up to the colonel, who ruled that the company, having lost its supplies while in action with the Indians, should be given the extra supply. Capt. Bragg said those supplies should go out of his warehouse only over his dead body. Then the colonel was called away on special duty and Capt. Bragg took his place as commanding officer as well as continuing as commissary officer. As colonel he opened the letters regarding the furnishing of supplies to the company needing them, investigated the matter and sent an order to the post commissary to issue the supplies at once. Then Capt. Bragg went back to his commissary office and wrote a violent letter declaring he would not supply the company with the supplies asked. Then he returned to the commanding officer's quarters, opened his own letter and immediately wrote a reply ordering the commissary to deliver those supplies at once. He returned to his old office, opened the letter and replied with an indignant refusal. The matter was taken up by department headquarters, who read the letters written by Capt. Bragg as commissary officer and as acting commander of the post. "Great God!" exclaimed the reviewing officer, "Bragg has quarreled with everybody in the United States army and now he's fighting with himself!"

COMPENSATION.

The silken sound of trees wind tossed,
The silver song of water,
The humming tune wires sing to frost,
The melody of laughter
Are rhythms now of memory;
Tones lost in a muted symphony.

But movement gains a smoother grace
And eyes and mind grow avid
When music, stilled, concedes its place
To pattern flowing, vivid.
Framed in silence, lovingly,
Your smile surpasses melody.

L. W. G.

EVERYBODY has some great fear. With some it's snakes, with others it's hay fever. Some people can't bear to sit with their backs to an open door. Some people won't start a journey on Friday and others will turn right around and go back home if a black cat crosses the road in front of them. I haven't got any of those fears, but I sometimes wake up screaming at night because I dreamed I had to listen to a New Dealer speak on "The More Abundant Life."

EMERGENCY RELIEF.

"I see by the paper," said Hiram the Man of all Work, "that this here Emergency Relief has hatched up another project to help the unemployed. Since they can't find enough work to go round, they're going to learn folks how to play."

"What do you mean, play?" I asked.

"They're opening up an Amusement Center," he explained, "bringing in a college trained expert to learn them how to pitch horseshoes, for one thing. Another professional for ping-pong, I reckon, and maybe they'll give a course in mumbly peg, and one in marbles and blind man's buff. Poker, too, on the side, more than likely.

"It's a great idea. People's got to do something to work up an appetite to keep down the surplus, you know. The horseshoe plan is a good one for another reason, too. Right now I don't suppose you could find fifty horseshoes in this here whole county. But get folks interested in horseshoes and they'll naturally become horse-minded. Farmers will take to using horses again, instead of these confounded tractors, that eat no oats and raise no colts. And buggies. Somehow, I got a notion that old-fashioned buggy riding would be a great boost toward better times. Buggies and buggy whips. Recollect when farmers used to ride into town in buggies and surries and spring wagons, and hitch their teams around the courthouse square, and carry their buggy whips with them as they shopped, for fear they'd be stolen? All kinds and colors of buggy whips. And they often came in handy in the home, too. They had a wholesome influence."

"But about this Emergency Amusement Center—are you going to join it, Hiram?" I asked him.

"I'd like to," he responded doubtfully, "but I don't see how I can spare the time. You see, with my garden and chickens and chores to do, and mowing lawns and helping farmers with their wheat and hay and chinch bugs, it keeps me pretty busy and my appetite plenty good. And I don't suppose they'd let me join, anyhow, for this Emergency Amusement Relief is being got up to help the unemployed."

"And the unamused," I suggested. "Well, Hiram, what do you think this country is coming to?"

"To the end of the A B C's," he said.

EOLUS.

Place pennies on the eyes of those who weep.

ROSA ZAGNONI MARINONI.

AND WITH the long drouth all over most of the country it does seem that we showed wonderful vision and good sense in repealing the 18th amendment when we did. For, anyhow, we've got something to drink.

POISON IVY.

CERTAIN plants fairly common in woods and fields are responsible each season for thousands of cases of poisoning characterized by inflammation of the skin and swelling of the parts infected. Occasionally there is a reaction severe enough to bring on a serious illness.

Two such plants are known as poison ivy and poison oak. Neither is a true ivy. Both belong to the genus Rhus and are really sumacs. Both plants may be recognized by the character of the leaf, which is divided into three distinct leaflets. The leaves of certain harmless plants may resemble those of the poison variety, but show a division into five leaflets. Those who are interested can get from the department of agriculture at Washington farmers' bulletin No. 1,166. This booklet gives illustrations.

The poison is found in the resinous sap of the plant and this sap must come into actual contact with the skin before it can cause inflammation. The sap will retain its poisonous properties for some time and is readily transferred by the hands to other parts of the body. An exceedingly small quantity only is needed to bring on the skin inflammation. Instances have been noted where the poison has come into contact with gloves and weeks later has caused a true skin irritation when the gloves were worn. Shoes that are handled following an outing in the woods may transfer the poison to the hands.

Symptoms of ivy poisoning come on usually within a few hours after contact. The skin is generally red, giving the appearance of inflammation, small blisters may develop and the parts affected become swollen. There is usually intense itching or smarting. When symptoms develop the inflamed parts should be washed thoroughly in hot soapsuds and water. This will remove a portion of the poison.

McNair believes that ferric chloride has the property of neutralizing the poison and he advocates bathing the entire body with a dilute water solution of this substance. No article of clothing that was worn during the period of contact should be used for quite some time. Care must be taken not to scratch the parts with the fingers, else bacterial infection may complicate the picture and retard recovery. If watery blisters appear these should be opened under sterile precautions.

Literally hundreds of remedies have been proposed and used. Potassium permanganate has proved efficient in many cases. A five per cent solution in water will stop itching and relieve irritation. The brown stain caused by permanganate may be removed by washing thoroughly or by a weak solution of hyposulphite of soda. Oils or ointments should not be used during the acute stage.

Prevention consists in learning to recognize poisonous plants and avoiding them. In individuals who are unusually susceptible, gloves may be worn on outings, care being taken not to allow the gloves to come into contact with the skin if the poisonous plant has been touched. McNair believes that bathing exposed parts of the body with a water solution of ferric chloride will serve as a protection against Rhus poisoning.

BLISTERS ON FEET.

R. J. writes: Every year at the first approach of warm weather I begin to get water blisters beneath the surface of the skin on the soles of my feet and the palms of my hands. The warmer the weather becomes the more blisters I get until in the hot weather they are very numerous, especially on my feet. They become very itchy if scratched, but if left alone they do not annoy. When cooler weather comes they dry up and go away. I have had them now for quite a number of years, but never previously had them.

1. Could this have been caught from some one?

2. What is it and how can I get rid of it?

REPLY.

1. I don't think so.

2. Your description fits pompholyx, a well known skin disease. It is annoying and inconvenient, but not otherwise serious. Your observation that exposure to heat causes attacks suggests the way out.

SKIN IS SENSITIVE.

W. W. writes: Could you tell me what is wrong with my skin? If I am scratched or slapped the least little bit the spot swells up and resembles hives. This condition lasts only a short time and then disappears. The harder the scratch or slap the worse the swelling and the longer it lasts.

REPLY:

The condition you mention is known as dermatographia. The resulting wheals resemble urticaria. It is a vasomotor phenomenon. You have a self-embossing skin. Your name traced on your skin with a dull pencil will remain legible for several hours.

COTTAGE INSURANCE.

Chicago, June 28.—[Friend of the Insured.]—I have a summer cottage on a river bank in southeastern Michigan. It is used for week-ends and vacation time only. Would you please inform me if it is possible for me to obtain fire insurance on same with such an occupancy? I have been told that unless a caretaker or watchman were employed I could not get this covered for fire loss. J. G. P.

Fire insurance is available on seasonable summer cottages whether looked after by a caretaker or not. The rates on this class of property are usually based on a certain type of construction with approved composition roof. For example, a frame cottage with composition roof may call for a rate of 88 cents per hundred of insurance, with a credit of 24 cents if building contains no chimneys or stovepipes, and a credit of 10 cents if building has a solid foundation. Additional credits of 10 cents and 4 cents, respectively, are obtainable for private or community caretaker. Where property is situated within the jurisdiction of a certain classified fire department, credits are also available for fire protection. In other words, the basic rate on summer cottages includes all the common hazards of construction and occupancy, with the above credits for superior construction and protection.

AIRPLANES AND CONCERTS.

Chicago, July 6.—H. E. S.'s letter of protest against the noise interference with the symphony concerts at the World's Fair, as published in your column on July 1, gives opportunity to say that the interference with these concerts has caused the management of the airplane concession deep concern. Perhaps the other side of the question has not occurred to H. E. S.—that the airplanes operating under the concession were flying all during 1933, before concerts were considered.

The difficulties of reconciling 450 horsepowered engines with symphony concerts are legion. The passengers in the planes are entitled to the view of the Fair grounds, for which they have paid $3 each. This view cannot be obtained satisfactorily from a distance farther off shore than a quarter mile. In an effort to reconcile the interests of these passengers with those of the patrons at the concerts orders were issued to the pilots on June 30 that the aircraft shall be flown at least one-quarter mile off shore except when landing and taking off.

It appears that these orders have partially remedied the situation, although under certain wind conditions the engines still create interference when the ships are well off shore. Everything possible is being done to assure patrons of the symphony concerts full opportunity to enjoy the music, but, in justice to all concerned, responsibility for the situation must be placed upon the authorities of A Century of Progress, who approved an application to place a symphony concert within a few hundred feet of an airport. SPEAKING OF CRITICISM.

Evanston, Ill., July 2.—I notice your correspondent Arthur Hayes says that when you criticize English sports, etc., it is done on the basis of a well known psychological principle of "compensation for a sense of inferiority."

Perhaps Mr. Hayes will be good enough to explain whether it is the same w. k. psychological principle that leads the majority of English travelers to criticize America. Of course, the vehemence and totality of the criticism is so much greater that a still more intricate principle may have to be invoked.

SOPHISTRY.

Chicago, July 5.—The President's speech was one of the most outstanding pieces of sophistry I have ever heard or read. It was listened to most attentively by millions of people who, like myself, yearned for the sturdy, manly assurances that were not forthcoming. Millions of us who are so afraid of being "cracked down" upon and whose slender resources would not stand so great a strain must look, hopefully and gratefully, to you and the other really American newspapers of our country for making our protest articulate and for giving coherence to those of us who sense the trend toward the destruction of all our American traditions, but who, through fear of reprisals or lack of leadership, cannot reach the ear of the man and party drunk with power.

Never before would I ask you not to publish my name. Isn't it significant that I do so now? O.

THE LAST STRAW.

Ashland, Wis., July 2.—I want to compliment you on your editorial, "A Warning from Germany," in today's paper. The control of communications bill is the most un-American bill, I believe, the congress has ever passed. From now on we common people will never know whether we are getting both sides of a matter or not. And now the President is framing the legislation for congress to pass next winter. The President seems to have taken all lawmaking into his own hands instead of being the enforcer of laws.

Really it looks as if we are in the infancy of a despotism. Can we not shake ourselves out of it? I believe this communications bill is the last straw that should be permitted.

A JUDGE REBUKED.

Chicago, July 5.—Now that the Appellate court has told Judge Thomas A. Green to mind his own business and has prohibited him from further persecuting the Checker Taxi company and its officers, who is to repay the company and its officers for the embarrassment caused them and the unfavorable publicity given them?

Scallions to Judge Green and shame on him. CLAUDE DAVIS.

BAD TASTE IN SELF-DESTRUCTION.

Chicago, July 2.—The government should confiscate all property, both real and personal, as well as all proceeds of life and accident insurance of persons who have the bad taste to jump from buildings. These people, whether sane or not, are a very serious menace to the peace of mind, as well as to the person whose duties compel him to be out on the street. There are many more effective and less gruesome means of destroying one's self without making life miserable for others. H. B.

HEIGHT OF HEDGES.

Chicago, July 1.—[Friend of the People.]—Will you please see what can be done to make our next door neighbor cut his hedges down to the required height? My friends are afraid to pass by them when returning to their homes. The hedges are higher than the average person and it is very easy for any one to hide without being seen. L. K.

An officer was assigned to interview the owner of the premises in question and said owner promised that he would comply with police request to cut his hedges to three feet at once, so that there would be no further cause for complaint.

LEGAL TITLE.

Arcola, Ill., July 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Father died some years ago leaving property to his son, same to be his property while he lived and at his death to revert to his heirs. He paid taxes on land before the will was made until now. 1. Can he get a title under tax laws or not? 2. If so, how should he proceed? L. S.

1. If you mean that your father had no right to the land other than the fact that he paid taxes, then his heirs would not be in a position to make a good title. Additional facts would need to appear, such as that your father had a deed or that he was in adverse possession.

2. Submit the facts to an attorney in a personal interview.

GANG WITH BODY BATTLES POSSE AT FOND DU LAC

Fire of Machine Guns Halts Pursuit.

Fond du Lac, Wis., July 9.—[Special.]—Armed posses tonight were marching over a wide area in southeast Wisconsin for a gang of gunmen who shot and apparently killed a man on a roadside east of this city and drove away with his body in their car.

The scene of the shooting was a deeply wooded section in which, it has been reported, some of the John Dillinger gang had hidden out. There was a possibility, slim to be sure, that some of the Dillinger mob was involved. This theory was strengthened when the occupants battled with peace officers here who tried to halt them.

Headed Toward Minneapolis.

It was reported that the fugitives, who were in a gray car, were headed toward Minneapolis. Highway deputies around Milwaukee were sent out to patrol the roads, with instructions to halt their car, a gray sedan, at all costs.

The victim of the gunmen was riding in a small sedan, which was stolen from a salesman of the Century Paper company of Indianapolis at Neenah, Wis. Witnesses who were along the road, about five miles east of Fond du Lac, asserted that the carload of gunmen drew up beside this small car and poured a murderous fire upon it.

When the small car swerved into a ditch two men leaped from the other machine, dragged out the man who had been shot, tied him on the running board of their car, and sped away.

They took a southerly direction that carried them into Eggersville, Wis. Undersheriff Gilbert Booth and Trafic Policeman Anton Raffenstein, although unaware of what had occurred, tried to halt the car to investigate the man on the running board.

There was a prompt burst of fire that seemed to come from machine guns. Booth and Raffenstein pursued, also firing, but were distanced after a chase of several miles.

Sets Fire to Auto.

When the car stolen from the Indianapolis paper firm was examined it was found that the front seat was covered with blood. The gunmen who had dragged out the shooting victim had poured oil on the car and set fire to it, but it was not completely consumed.

Several farmers in the neighborhood who had been attracted to the spot by the shooting saw the departure of the gray car. They asserted that there were three or four men and a woman in it.

During the chase by the Eggersville officers bullets from the gunmen's machine punctured the tires of Booth's car and brought him to a halt.

AGENTS SENT FROM CHICAGO.

Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the Chicago office of the bureau of investigation, last night sent two of his agents to Fond du Lac, Wis., to investigate reports that a man who might have been John Dillinger had fought a running gun battle with police officers in that city.

BUYER OF PISTOL FREED.

Peter Corniewicz, 23 years old, 821 North Wood street, was freed on a charge of carrying concealed weapons yesterday, when he told Judge Joseph H. McGarry that he had just purchased a revolver which was found in the rear seat of his automobile.

Two Condemned Dillinger Aids Raise "Politics" Cry

Columbus, O., July 9.—(AP)—In their death cells at Ohio penitentiary, Harry Pierpont and Charles Makley, condemned Dillinger gangsters, "talked" today for the first time since they were sentenced to be electrocuted for the slaying of Sherif Jess Sarber at Lima.

Pierpont, defiant and bitter, and Makley, calm and collected, declared, "We did not do the Lima job."

Indiana authorities, they said, made a political issue of their case.

Asked if they had heard, directly or indirectly, from John Dillinger, the mob leader, they replied in the negative, Makley saying, "We have heard nothing from Dillinger since they kidnaped him out of the Tucson, Ariz., jail and took him to Indiana."

The condemned men dismissed with laughs reports that Dillinger was robbing banks in the midwest to obtain funds for their defense.

"They say Dillinger is sending me $15,000," Makley declared, adding, "I wish he would send me a few 'finns' right now so I could buy cigarets."

Both joined in this statement:

"The Indiana authorities, from the statehouse down, know who did that job, but they built up the case against us because we were 'hot.' They made a political issue of our case. Indiana authorities know who has been robbing banks while we were in jail at Michigan City."

Asked if Dillinger had engineered the Michigan City prison escape when Pierpont, Makley, and others got away, Pierpont replied:

"How could he have delivered us when he was in jail at Dayton? The Indiana officials know who smuggled the guns into the prison and they know who got the money for doing it. They have been over here in this death house getting down on their knees and begging me to tell. They need some proof, but they know who engineered the job."

"They know, too, why Dillinger got loose from the escape proof Crown Point, Ind., jail with a wooden gun, just fifteen minutes before he was to make a deposition in our case. He was to tell who delivered him. I can tell you it was not us."

Of the gang leader, Pierpont said, "I wish Dillinger all the luck in the world. We don't expect any help out of him."

"Why should we?" Makley added. "I wish they never catch him."

35,000 GRANTED $325,000 SLASH IN ELECTRIC RATE

I. C. C. Orders Reduction in Western Suburbs.

The Illinois commerce commission yesterday ordered reductions totaling $325,000 a year in the electric rates of the northern division of the Western United Gas and Electric company. About 35,000 customers in the western suburbs of Chicago will be affected.

Attorneys Irvin Rooks and Harry Booth, counsel for the commission, said the reductions to domestic customers would vary, since the order eliminates the present "room rate structure," but that the new schedules which the company must file will mean an average of saving of about 20 per cent in electricity bills.

"This decision is one of a series of orders entered by the commerce commission compelling the utilities of the state to charge fair and reasonable rates to their customers," said Chairman Benjamin F. Lindheimer. "It is another demonstration of the effectiveness of utility regulation under the program and policies established by Gov. Horner and this commission.

"The action brings the total reductions to customers of various Illinois utility companies to $6,924,220 annually. In addition, the companies have been required to assume the 3 per cent federal tax, making a grand total of $9,434,503 in rate reductions ordered by the present commission since it was organized."

Chairman Lindheimer said that $240,000 of the $325,000 saving would go to domestic consumers, $60,000 to commercial consumers, and $25,000 to large light and power users. Of the 35,000 customers, 32,214 are domestic users living in Aurora, Belmont, Clarendon Hills, Downers Grove, Elgin, Eola, Glen Ellyn, Kaneville, La Fox, Lily Lake, Lisle, Montgomery, North Aurora, Oswego, South Elgin, Sugar Grove, Virgil, Warrenville, Wasco, Westmont, Wheaton, Geneva, St. Charles, Naperville, and territory adjacent to Batavia.

SUIT AGAINST EX-MRS. BENDIX IS WITHDRAWN

A $40,000 suit filed against Mrs. Elizabeth Channon Blake, former wife of Vincent Bendix, wealthy manufacturer, by W. C. Dannenberg, private detective, was stricken off with leave to reinstate yesterday by Superior Judge John C. Lewe.

Although none of the principals would be quoted, it was indicated that a substantial out of court settlement had been made.

The suit, which was filed two years ago, charged that Dannenberg had been hired by Mrs. Blake—then Mrs. Bendix—to trail Bendix and get information on which she might base a divorce action. The $40,000 asked was alledged to be for expenditures made by Dannenberg in his "shadowing."

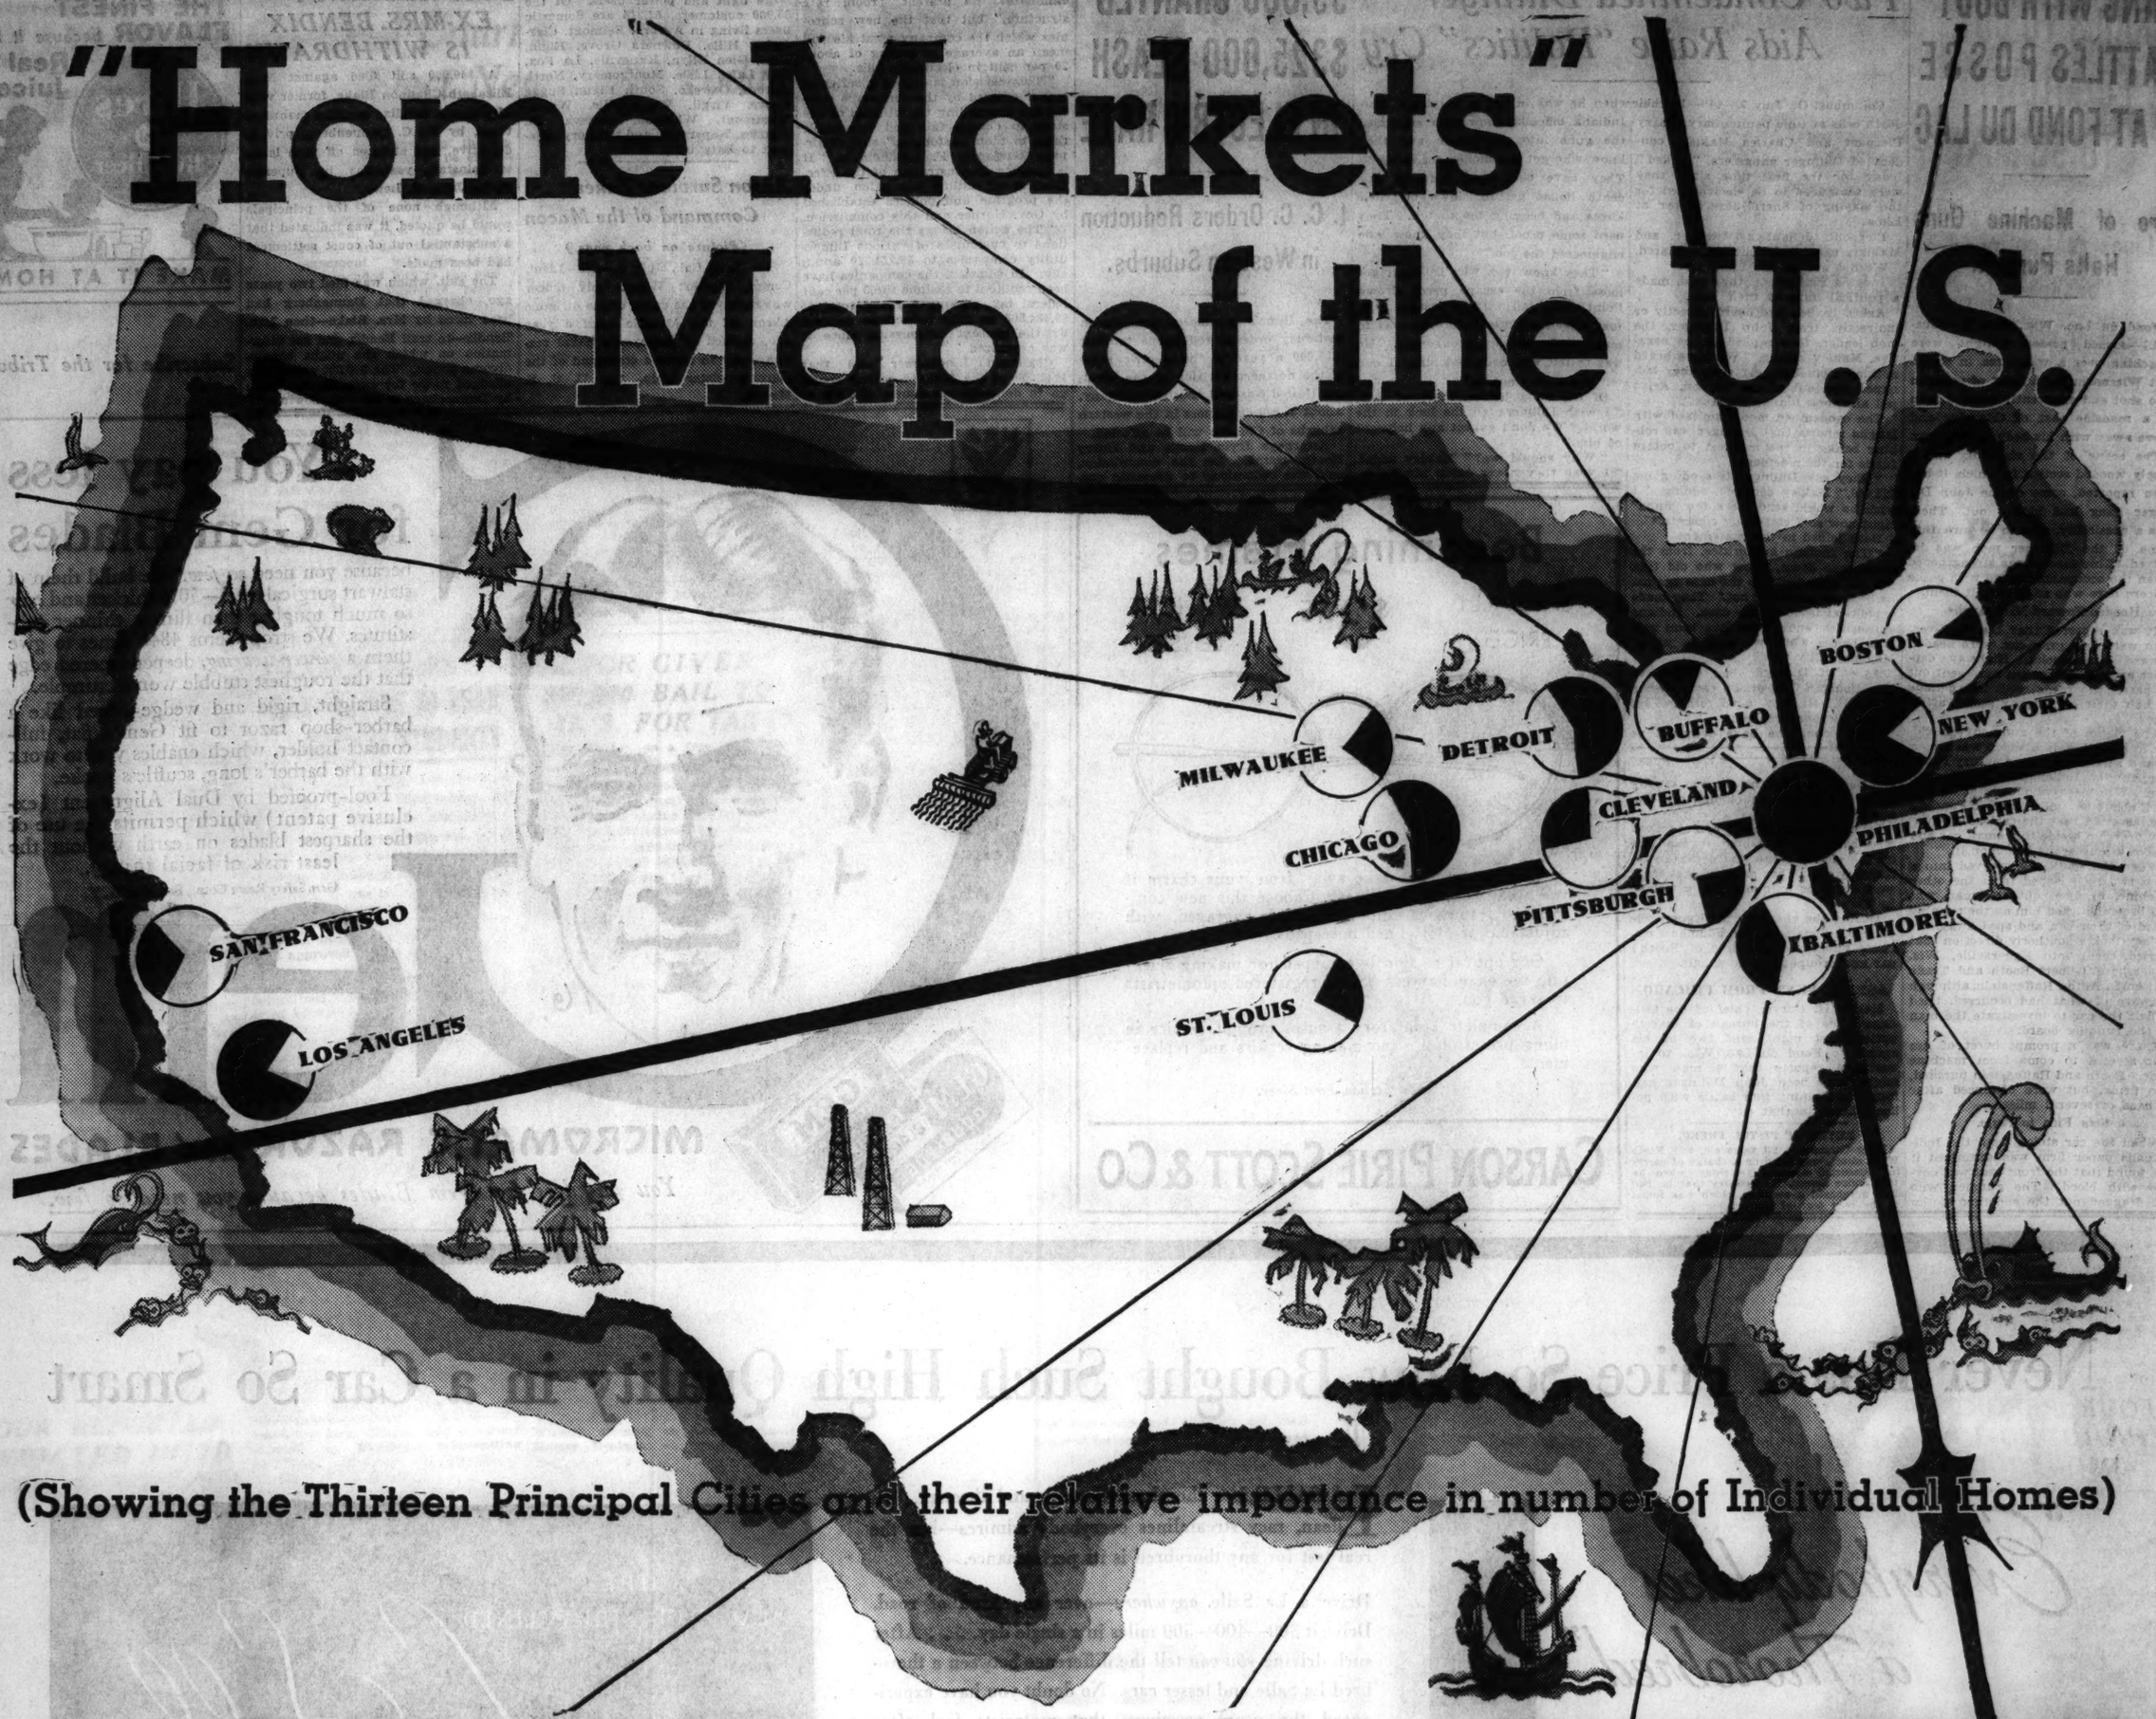
"Home Markets" Map of the U. S.



(Showing the Thirteen Principal Cities and their relative importance in number of Individual Homes)

Here is a sales map for manufacturers who have a product to sell to the home. It shows every city in the U. S. with half a million population or more. It shows the relative importance of each city, as compared with Philadelphia, in number of single-family homes. (Based on U. S. Census figures for 1930).

Philadelphia has more single-family homes than any other city in America; more than New York and Boston combined; more than Detroit and Cleveland put together; more than the combined total of Chicago and St. Louis.

Philadelphians must be interested in home-life to have built this greatest City of Homes . . . where nine out of every ten dwellings are single-family homes; where four out of every five families have their own private home; where 86% of the housewives have no employment outside of the home.

This home interest is a powerful factor in the sale of any product used in the home: Modern heating plants, laundry equipment, mechanical refrigerators and other kitchen appliances, furniture, rugs, draperies, awnings, paints, screening, porch furniture, lawn and garden accessories—and a long list of other home needs which apartment dwellers seldom or never buy.

This same home interest is a powerful factor in building newspaper circulation as well. In Philadelphia, it has built The Evening Bulletin from a small daily to the third largest newspaper in America.

It has given The Bulletin an acceptance in nearly every home, by every member of the family, in Philadelphia and suburbs. It has built for The Bulletin a circulation that is two and one-half times that of any other Philadelphia evening newspaper and more than all morning newspapers combined.

Result: America's greatest City of Homes may be covered thoroughly by a great home newspaper, at one of the lowest advertising costs among all newspapers, anywhere.

1930 Census figures show Philadelphia's dominance as a City of Individual Homes

Philadelphia	364,457	San Francisco	105,351
New York	294,037	Cleveland	100,684
Los Angeles	282,382	Pittsburgh	90,708
Detroit	209,981	St. Louis	90,410
Chicago	209,685	Milwaukee	87,809
Baltimore	141,085	Buffalo	60,972
Boston	44,115

One newspaper for thorough coverage
One low advertising cost . . . . .

The Bulletin's circulation is 504,822 daily. (1933 average.) It reaches nearly every home in Philadelphia and Suburbs. Its circulation is all net paid, all the result of reader interest and confidence. Premiums, prizes, coupons, or other artificial means of stimulating sales have never been used. Its advertising rate is 62½c an agate line—one of the lowest costs of any newspaper, today. National advertisers, during 1932, 1933 and the first 5 months of 1934, placed more advertising in The Philadelphia Bulletin than in any other six-day newspaper in America.

RAILS TO CUT RUN TO MILWAUKEE TO 90 MINUTES

Lines to Continue Lower Passenger Fares.

A reduction in train time between Chicago and Milwaukee, a move toward bringing the two cities closer together which long has been a plank of THE TRIBUNE'S editorial platform, will be made next Sunday, according to announcements yesterday by the North Western and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads.

These lines plan jointly to cut the time for their fast trains to one hour and 30 minutes from station to station.

It is the fastest running time ever scheduled between the two cities and, according to both railroads, is the fastest regularly scheduled time between any two commercial centers in the west.

Tests Show Workability.

The trip is 85 miles and it is to be made in 90 minutes. The railroads point out that these 85 miles include two long and busy terminals which necessarily slow up trains, compeling faster time on the clear ways. Trains will run faster than a mile a minute most of the way.

Recent test runs have been made which make it clear that the new time is practicable. The present running time on most trains is one hour and 45 minutes, and until a few years ago, when THE TRIBUNE began to publish a daily demand to cut the time between the two cities, it was two hours and had been two hours for a generation or more.

The North Shore has one train daily making the trip in one hour and 40 minutes.

Extend Low Rates.

Theo Gnevo, North Shore passenger agent, said tonight they had tested the practicability of hour and a half schedules on several special runs and probably would reduce the running time on their road soon to meet the schedules of the steam lines.

Because passenger business has picked up materially, western railroads announced yesterday that the present schedule of reduced rates will be kept in effect for another year, or until September 30, 1935.

An announcement from the Western Association of Railway Executives stated that the number of passengers carried in the first 6 months of 1934 is [illegible].7 per cent higher than in 1933.

The cut-rate schedule ranges from 1.8 cents per mile for short-limit round trip tickets good in day coaches, to 3 cents per mile for one-way tickets good in any class of equipment. It was adopted as an experiment on Dec. 1, 1933, extended to Sept. 30, 1934 and the new extension carries it until the fall of next year.

Criminal Court's Judges Elect New Chief Today

Judge Denis E. Sullivan of the Superior court is expected to be elected chief justice of the Criminal court for the coming year at a meeting of the new Criminal court judges at noon today. No opposition is expected to Judge Sullivan, since the Superior court judges, through their "gentlemen's agreement" with the Circuit court, recommended him to the post.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan, present chief justice, called the meeting in his chambers. The newly assigned judges to the court will participate in the election, which is scheduled to be the mere formality of voting on Judge Sullivan's name. There are no other candidates.

Work Through Summer.

Assurance that the Criminal court would continue to operate through the summer vacation period with almost a full complement of judges to keep the calendar clear, was made to Chief Justice Finnegan yesterday in a letter from Judge James J. Kelly, head of the law division of the Superior court.

Ordinarily the Criminal branch of the courts is closed from the middle of July until Labor day. But because of the drive of the last two years to keep pace with indictments returned, the judges have agreed to arrange their vacation schedules so a sufficient number to handle the calendar will always be sitting.

Summer Term Assignments.

Judge Kelley in his letter stated that Judges T. Walter and Peter H. Schwaba will sit from July 18 to the 28th; Judge E. I. Frankhauser from Aug. 20 to Sept. 1; and Judges Joseph B. David, Michael L. McKinley, and Charles C. Williams, from Sept. 1, until the third Monday of the month when the civil courts open.

Two other judges, as yet unnamed, will also relieve during this last period. In addition, Judges Finnegan, Harry B. Miller, and Michael Feinberg, assigned to the Criminal court this last year, will spend the entire summer in the courts without vacation.

Full List of Judges.

The judges selected by the Superior and Circuit court executive committees to sit in the Criminal court next year, and who will vote in the chief justice elections this noon, are:

Circuit: Walter J. LaBuy, Hugo M. Friend, Cornelius J. Harrington, and William V. Brothers. Superior: Denis E. Sullivan, John C. Lewe, Donald S. McKinlay, Harry B. Miller, Grover C. Niemeyer, and Walter P. Steffen.

M. E. MINISTERS HEAR NEW HEAD OF DRY LEAGUE

Haffke Addresses Session of Camp Meeting.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Since the repeal of prohibition Uncle Sam has been on a big spree and it's having a bad effect on his judgment, Charles H. Haffke, new superintendent of the Illinois Anti-Saloon league, told Methodist pastors yesterday at the Des Plaines camp meeting.

"Uncle Sam will soon return to sanity, but with a big headache," Mr. Haffke prophesied.

Haffke Describes Himself.

"I am a lawyer, a Dutchman, a Democra-, and a Methodist," he went on. "I know there are thousands of other Democrats beside myself who have never bowed the knee to Tammany or John Barleycorn."

Another speaker at the ministers' meeting was the Rev. Dr. Carl R. Stolz, dean of the school of religious education, Hartford, Conn. Dean Stolz lamented the decline of youth interest in the church. He explained this loss as the result of lack of an adventurous spirit in church circles. His subject was "A Negected Dimension in Religion."

Women to Give Pageant.

The remainder of the sessions, which close on Sunday, will be devoted to the Chicago Methodist Women's institute. The institute will end with the presentation of a historical pageant, "A Daughter of the Dawn," which will depict women's place in the 150 years of American Methodism.

The annual session of the camp meeting association yesterday disclosed a greatly improved financial condition over previous years. The Rev. Charles H. Draper, manager of the camp meeting, said that the 1934 camp meeting has been the largest in many years.

STRANGE DISEASE TAKES ALL THREE BABIES IN FAMILY

Dr. Herman A. Jacobson, coroner's physician, determined yesterday by autopsy that a little known disease called "status thymolymphaticus" had been a contributing factor in the death of Betty Annabelle, 28 months old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Scholl, 1437 South 18th street, Maywood.

The child played in the Scholl yard on Sunday with a neighbor's dog, the excitement making her ill, Dr. Jacobson was told. She developed a high temperature and died early yesterday morning. Two years ago James Charles, a 1 year old son, was suddenly seized with the strange ailment and died before medical aid arrived. Last year Robert James, the couple's 2 year old son, died of the same disease. No children remain.

"The disease is unusual, and little is known of its cause or cure," said Dr. Jacobson. "All we know is that the thymus and lymph glands which normally become smaller as a child grows older become larger in the presence of this disease. X-ray treatment is the only known specific and was being used in this case. The condition is dangerous until the age of puberty."

MICHIGAN STATE OFFICIAL SEIZED ON BRIBE CHARGE

Lansing, Mich., July 9.—[Special.]—M. Thomas Ward, 49, of Grand Rapids, an assistant attorney general, was arrested this afternoon by state police after being indicted on a charge of attempting to bribe John K. Stack Jr., state auditor general. He was indicted by the Ingham county grand jury investigating graft in state government.

Ward's indictment was the third returned by the grand jury, which has been in session several weeks since the inquiry was ordered on petition of Patrick H. O'Brien, attorney general and Ward's superior. Two witnesses previously were indicted on charges of perjury in connection with their testimony before the jury.

Ward is the first state official to be indicted by the jury, although the arrest of Representative Tracy W. Southworth, speaker pro tem. of the house of representatives; A. J. Tobin, Detroit lobbyist, and Joe Stein, Detroit, on charges of conspiracy to bribe, preceded the formal investigation, which is expected to last at least two more months.

The assistant attorney general was arrested by a state trooper as he left the capitol building for lunch. After being booked and finger printed at police headquarters he was held pending arraignment before Judge Leland W. Carr.

DAHLBERG SUIT ENDS; INDICATE A SETTLEMENT

The $41,250 suit of Mrs. Mary Dahlberg Chapin against her former husband, Bror Dahlberg, head of the Celotex company, was dismissed yesterday by Circuit Judge Walter J. LaBuy on agreement of attorneys for both sides.

Mrs. Chapin had sought that sum on the ground that it was owed her in temporary alimony on a court order entered when she was suing Dahlberg for divorce. Permanent alimony, ordered when the decree became final, has been paid up to date.

Judge LaBuy dismissed the suit when Attorney Samuel A. Rinella, representing Mrs. Chapin, and Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson, representing Dahlberg, presented a stipulation signed by both parties.

It was indicated that a settlement had been made out of court, but that Mrs. Chapin was given less than $2,500.

FACTOR GIVES $50,000 BAIL TO U. S. FOR TAXES

John Factor, as a free man, conferred yesterday morning with officials of the United States district attorney's office and the internal revenue bureau concerning tax claims totaling $528,423 which the government has levied.

After the conference, attended by Assistant United States Attorney E. Riley Campbell and C. A. Plamondon, chief of the field division of the revenue department, it was announced that Factor had agreed to sign over to the government the $50,000 in Liberty bonds which he used as bail during his fight to escape extradition to England. Factor was recently released from jail and freed of an extradition order through habeas corpus action when the state department failed to issue the necessary warant within a stipulated time.

The $50,000 bond, now held by the clerk of the United States District court since the government filed a lien against it, will be turned over to Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue. Meanwhile Factor said he will continue his efforts to win a reduction in the claims from the board of tax appeals at Washington.

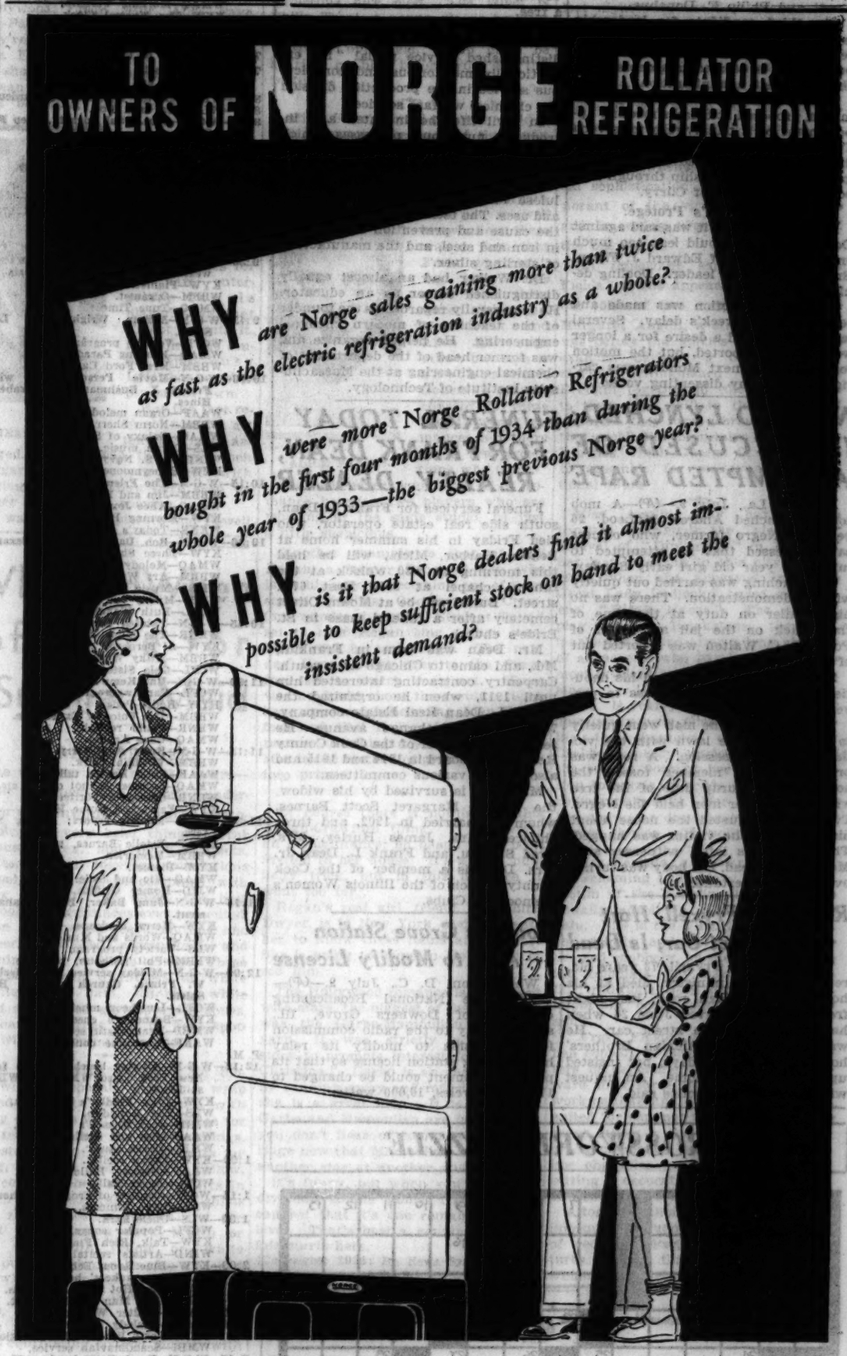
TO OWNERS OF NORGE ROLLATOR REFRIGERATION



WHY are Norge sales gaining more than twice as fast as the electric refrigeration industry as a whole?
WHY were more Norge Rollator Refrigerators bought in the first four months of 1934 than during the whole year of 1933—the biggest previous Norge year?
WHY is it that Norge dealers find it almost impossible to keep sufficient stock on hand to meet the insistent demand?

If you have Norge Rollator Refrigeration in your home, you know the answers to these questions. You know the reasons for this tremendous wave of popularity. Tell us. 106 cash prizes given for best letters. Ask the Norge dealer for details.

No wonder Norge is the most copied refrigerator! No wonder it is being imitated in every way possible! It's the old story of "follow the leader." Look at these figures.

■ Sales of all electric refrigerators for the first three months of 1934 were 139% greater than the same period in 1933. ■ Norge sales for the first three months of 1934 were 330% greater than the same period of 1933. ■ In other words, the Norge percentage of gain is almost two and a half times as great as the percentage gain of all makes of refrigerators combined.

Why? Why this spectacular swing to Norge Rollator Refrigeration? Is it because of its lasting beauty? Is it because of its many conveniences? Is it because Norge is the most economical refrigerator? Is it because Norge—and only Norge—has the famous Rollator cold-making mechanism, surplus powered, economical of current, almost everlasting? If you have Rollator Refrigeration in your home, you know why you would recommend it above all others. You know how Norge effects savings up to $11 a month.

DOOLING SEEMS LIKELY LEADER FOR TAMMANY

Roosevelt O.K. May Name Him on Monday.

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Tammany's district leaders agreed this afternoon to elect next Monday afternoon a new leader of the hall to succeed the ousted John F. Curry. All indications tonight pointed to James J. Dooling, youthful choice of the Roosevelt-Farley wing.

At today's meeting it was acknowledged the absence of the women coleaders, and of Edward J. Ahearn, one of the three leading candidates for the post, who was ill, prevented action. It was indicated, however, that there is an alliance between the Dooling backers and those of Ahearn.

Claim Dooling Majority.

Friends of Dooling claimed thirteen and one-third votes in the Tammany executive committee, which has a total of 25 votes, divided between the 70 men and women leaders, and the two ex-officio members, David H. Knott and Philip F. Donohue.

The third candidate for leadership is Stephen A. Ruddy of the 16th Assembly district. Though personally popular he is deemed unacceptable to the Roosevelt administration.

Knott, chairman of the county committee, proposed at today's meeting appointment of a triumvirate to govern Tammany hall, but that plan was dropped. Ruddy denied attempting to gain the hall's leadership through support of the friends of Curry.

Called Flynn's Protégé.

At another point, it was said against Dooling that he would lean too much on the shoulders of Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic leader. Dooling denied that.

Finally the motion was made and seconded for a week's delay. Several leaders expressed a desire for a longer wait, it was reported, but the motion for a meeting next Monday was carried without any dissenting votes.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: That's What She Thinks

WILLIAM WALKER, NOTED CHEMIST, KILLED IN CRASH

Newburyport, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—Col. William Hultz Walker, 65, of Pasadena, Cal., and Bridgeton, Me., high officer in the chemical division of the United States army during the world war, was killed as his automobile left Lafayette highway in Seabrook, N. H., today and crashed into a tree.

Dr. Walker was honored by the United States government with the distinguished service medal "for exceptionally meritorious and conspicuous service in the production division the chemical warfare service."

In civil life, he invented and introduced numerous processes which have revolutionized the chemical industry, making particularly noteworthy contributions in the chemistry of cellulose and its industrial application and uses. The technology of petroleum, the cause and prevention of corrosion in iron and steel, and the manufacture of sterling silver.

Dr. Walker had an almost equally distinguished career as an educator. He is generally regarded as the founder of the teaching of modern chemical engineering. He helped organize and was former head of the department of chemical engineering at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

NEGRO LYNCHED; IS ACCUSED OF ATTEMPTED RAPE

Bastrop, La., July 9.—(AP)—A mob tonight lynched Andrew McLeod, 26 year old Negro farmer, who officers said confessed that he attempted to rape a 19 year old girl early Sunday.

The lynching was carried out quietly without demonstration. There was no night jailer on duty at the time of the attack on the jail and Chief of Police B. C. Walton was reported out of town.

Sheriff Fred Carpenter and his deputies said they were powerless to prevent the lynching.

Witnesses said the mob went quietly to the courthouse lawn with the victim in their possession. A rope was produced. One member tossed the noose over a sturdy limb of the tree while three other men held the Negro. Two others adjusted the noose about his neck and the victim was hanged. Thirty minutes later, witnesses said, McLeod was dead. His body was turned over to an undertaker.

He was taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital for several days, but insisted upon going to his home. An inquest will be held today, police said.

The Goldbergs went on the air last night for the first time from Chicago studios of NBC. Mrs. Gertrude Berg, who writes the popular sketch, and the principals of the cast arrived over the week-end from New York to begin rehersals for their stage presentation beginning at the Chicago theater next Friday. The dress rehersal will be presented from the stage of the Marbro theater next Thursday.

The concluding radio presentation of the Goldbergs until fall is set for Thursday evening. After a week on the stage here the troupe will go to Detroit for a similar engagement and then disband for the summer. Mrs. Berg will devote her vacation to completing a play about the Goldbergs which Max Gordon may produce on Broadway in the fall. There are also some plans for screening the doings of the Goldberg family.

The Goldbergs will be heard over W-G-N on the Chicago theater of the air program Tuesday, July 17, and Mollie plans to help Uncle Quin read THE TRIBUNE comics next Sunday over W-G-N.

Ray Perkins, who has just finished the Palmer House series; Mrs. Perkins and their children, Ray Jr. and Wendy, will leave for the east Thursday after a visit here of several weeks. Ray and his wife will start on a vacation motor trip that will take them to the Adirondacks and the Maine woods. The tour may be cut short because of auditions for fall programs.

Mrs. Roosevelt's premiere on her new broadcast series yesterday cut short the sleep of at least one radio man. He is Lawrence Holcomb of the radio department of Fletcher & Ellis, the agency handling Mrs. Roosevelt's new program. Holcomb had to put on a broadcast from New York Sunday evening and was due at local NBC headquarters yesterday morning for a rehersal at 9:30. He made it by flying with a couple of hours to spare.

Jules Verne's "The Mysterious Island" made its radio appearance yesterday afternoon at 5:45 over WMAQ. The adventure tale will be presented in serial form—an episode every afternoon except Saturday and Sunday. Players include Art Jacobson, Art van Harvey, Bill Baar, Sidney Elstrom, and Phil Lord.

Billy Mills yesterday became the director of the WBBM-CBS studio orchestra. He was with Ted Fiorito and Isham Jones before joining the CBS staf as producer-arranger-supervisor. Joseph Engelhardt, concert violinist, will be associate conductor.

AUTHOR OF 'THE FACE ON THE BAR ROOM FLOOR' VISITING HERE

John Henry Titus, who wrote the famed saloon ballad "The Face on the Bar Room Floor" more than 62 years ago, visited the Open Air Art fair in Grant park yesterday and reminisced about his celebrated poem while his portrait was being painted.

Now 80 years old and in retirement for a score of years, Titus lives in New York. He brought the original draft of the poem with him and hopes to have it exhibited at the World's Fair.

Titus wrote the much quoted verse with the Old Pine tavern at Jefferson, O., in mind as background for the barroom in which the vagabond told his sentimental tale and sketched "the face that drove me mad" on the floor, falling dead as he completed it.

The old saloon still stands, the poet said, but he does not know its current use. Titus added that another lachrymose piece of Americana, the story of "Ten Nights in a Bar Room," was also folklore in the same Ohio community when he was a boy.

Six Debutantes to Bow at Teas September 15

Dance at Club to Follow Busy Afternoon.

BY JUDITH CASS.

PITY the society editors and the "tea hounds" on Sept. 15, for six young ladies are going to make their formal bows to society that afternoon, and how any one is going to manage even to drop in on each one is a mystery that will be almost unsolvable on that busy afternoon, I'm afraid.

Two of the teas will be in Lake Forest and the other four in Winnetka, which isn't as bad as if they were scattered all along the north shore from Lake Forest to the near north side, but, even so, it will be difficult to attend six between the hours of 4 and 7.

Miss Caryl Ely and Miss Priscilla Morse are the two Lake Forest girls and Miss Deborah Butler, Miss Frances McPherson, Miss Miriam Fetcher, and Miss Barbara [illegible]rsbach are the Winnetka ones.

Miss Ely will be introduced to society at a tea at the house at 121 Sheridan road in Lake Forest that she and her mother, Mrs. Jay Morse Ely, and her younger sister and brother are occupying this summer, and Miss Morse will make her bow at a tea at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Morse of 495 East Deerpath avenue.

Butler Party Will Be Garden Affair.

Miss Butler's debut tea will be a garden party at Hillrise, the residence of her great-aunt, Mrs. Hermon Beardsley Butler, in Winnetka. Fanny McPherson will be introduced at a tea at 644 Pine lane, the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson; Miss Fetcher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Fetcher of 822 Bryant avenue, and Miss Bersbach's mother, Mrs. Frank J. Bersbach of 30 Indian Hill road, also will present their daughters at teas at their respective homes.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham Chandler had planned a tea for that afternoon, too, at which to introduce their daughter, Charlotte, but wisely they have changed her debut to a dance that night, so the debutante crowd will be assured of a gay evening after the busy afternoon. The dance will be at the Indian Hill club, on the grounds of which the Chandlers have their home.

The dinner dance that will mark Miss Gwendolyn Bowen's debut will be given on the 22d of September instead of the 15th as planned first by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen Jr.

Mrs. Ely and her family will be in the Charles G. Cushing house in Lake Forest until the first of January when they will go south to their plantation at Thomasville, Ga., but during the peak of the season Mrs. Ely and Miss Ely will have a small apartment in town.

Mother-Daughter Tennis Tourney.

Onwentsia's splendid tennis courts were the scene yesterday of the opening match in the mother-daughter-sisters tournament, an unique affair instigated by Mrs. Robert J. Thorne and [illegible] Hermon Dunlap Smith. Mrs. Edward Harris Brewer and her daughter Louise, merrily trounced Mrs. S[illegible] Keith and her daughter, Betty, 6-[illegible], 6-5. The tournament is expected to reach the finals late in the summer.

Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire of Lake Forest broke an ankle last Friday. The break is not a bad one, however, and it will not delay her departure for the Proxmire home at Desbarats more than two days. She is going up by train Thursday night. Dr. Proxmire and the sub-debutante daughter, Adele, will drive north Saturday. The younger Proxmire boy, Bill, is already at Desbarats, staying with the James B. Forgans, and Theodore Jr. will not go up this summer for he is in business.

Mitchells Going to California.

Lake Foresters will be sorry to say "au revoir" to the popular William H. Mitchell family, but say it they will near the end of this month, for Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell and their children are planning to go to California for the summer. They have taken a house in Montecito and unless the infantile paralysis epidemic that already has scared away at least one Lake Forest family [the Russell Kelleys] from that place on the Pacific coast, grows worse they will leave on the 24th.

Mr. Mitchell's sister, Mrs. John P. Kellogg, and her three children left yesterday afternoon by train for Camden, Me., where they will be joined for the summer by Mr. Kellogg, who left early yesterday morning to motor east.

Recent additions to the Chicago colony at the Biltmore in Santa Barbara are Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, who have joined Mrs. Strobel's sister, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase has gone east for a fortnight of visits, beginning at the home of her brother and sister-in-law, the Walter Ayers in Bar Harbor. She will be missed at the tea that Mrs. Dexter Cummings is giving Friday afternoon to collect odds and ends to be resold later at the White Elephant Rummage shop, for Mrs. Chase is one of the shop's most indefatigable helpers.

Philip S. Owens Here for Visit.

The Philip S. Owens, who arrived Sunday to visit the former Lillian Dudley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Dudley of Lake Shore drive, for a month, will have a busy four weeks here, for all of the recent bride's friends will want to entertain for her. The Owenses will be the guests this week-end of Mr. and Mrs. Prentice Porter in Lake Forest.

The C. Frederick Childses and their son, Newell, who have been in Europe for a month on their annual

Enjoy Summer on North Shore

'British Agent' Faces a Storm on Movie Seas

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., July 9.—[Special.]—Sailing a new picture over the stormy film seas into a secure box office haven has become an increasingly complicated task for movie skippers. Warner Brothers has just completed "British Agent" at great expenditure and everybody concerned vows it's a fine, clean picture, perfectly acceptable for the American public, which is all very fine, but now arises the question what Russian and British official agencies—both of them deeply interested—are going to think about it. If there's thumbs down on "British Agent" in London or Moscow, it's going to cost Warner-First National money, for there is close to $400,000 tied up in this picture.

The hint of some ticklish work ahead in getting the film properly welcomed into the British market has been spread in Hollywood, but at the Warner studio they feel they have the situation under control.

Leslie Howard, outstanding British actor, is the star in the adventure story knit together from situations plucked out of Lockhart's stirring volume. What Howard personally thinks about the picture he didn't say before going abroad recently. He was asked some questions along that line, but didn't say much.

Evelyn Venable spent the day preparing nineteen turkeys—one of them weighing thirty pounds—cranberry sauce, pies, and similar fixin's to deliver in market baskets to the poor in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Nothing but real food filled each basket. After the sequence the studio delivered everything to Uncle Tom Liddecoat's Midnight Mission on a side street of the poor section in downtown Los Angeles, and 400 floaters couldn't believe their eyes when they were served with Thanksgiving dinner in place of bean soup.

Shots of the St. Louis Cardinals baseball club in training quarters are being used in M. G. M.'s world series murder thriller, "Death on the Diamond." Paul Kelly, the actor who came back from prison, has been cast as the reporter. Nat Pendleton, ex-wrestling pro, also is in it. Madge Evans provides the eye and heart appeal. Pat Flaherty, former New York Giants pitcher, is actor, trainer, and instructor in this film.

Greta Garbo is on her twentieth film in eight years in "Painted Veil" at Metro. Jean Hersholt is playing her father; the Danish star was Greta's father once before in "Susan Lenox." Every picture in her eight years in this country has been made for the same studio by Garbo. Few film players stick as close to the original pay window as that.

There's a tentative new title on Mae West's new picture, "The Belle of New Orleans." No matter how disturbed everybody else is about the official resistance to public release of her film in some quarters, Miss West remains utterly serene. Says she's been through the rigors of official disapproval before and this time they're not even trying to throw her in jail.

Metro Goldwyn-Mayer is having a tough time deciding whether to film "The Good Earth" with a Chinese or occidental cast. They've taken so many film tests of almond eyed players that the place looks like a news reel of the nineteenth route army.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

MRS. ROOSEVELT, the First Lady, was pretty active in Chicago yesterday. A reporter covering her doings for one of the papers kept telephoning the city desk constantly, giving a report of her activities. "She's at the Colonial Village," he would bulletin, or five minutes later "Mrs. Roosevelt's at the General Motors building now."

The rewrite man handling the story told him not to keep calling every few minutes.

"Wait until just before the deadline, then give it all to me at once," he counseled. "Of course, if anything unexpected happens—if Mrs. Roosevelt should break a leg, for instance, get right on the wire."

"She might at the rate she's going," answered the reporter cheerfully before he hung up.

HELEN HAYES was here last week-end, as you probably know, on her way from New York to Hollywood to make a new picture, "What Every Woman Knows." She and Ruth Gordon, escorted by J. C. Hemphill of Chicago, went to the Fair, and Miss Hayes was asked by A Century of Progress attaché to have her picture taken in Merrie England. As the party entered the village a pageant was going on, and the first sight Miss Hayes, who has been playing in "Mary of Scotland" in New York, laid her eyes on was the scene of Mary being sent to the tower by Elizabeth.

She will open in "Mary of Scotland" in Chicago in the autumn.

Miss Hayes and Miss Gordon were photographed in the Colonial Village, too, on the steps of Old North church, and then they visited the Spanish Village and the Black Forest Village. In Paris, Miss Hayes went into the life class and made a very creditable drawing, which she sent on to her husband, Charlie MacArthur.

ONE day last week Jimmie Matthews had to go to Zion, Ill., on business. When dinner time came he sought dinner in the one and only eating house, and he got into a chat with the waitress. Life in Zion was discussed and Mr. Matthews commented that the place appealed to him.

"I'm considering moving here," he concluded.

The waitress picked up her tray and as she walked off shot back: "You wouldn't want to come—to Zion for living!" she punned.

THE same Mr. Matthews is a director of the Chicago Drama guild and is called into consultation on various manuscripts. The other day a young man brought in one and threw it in his lap.

"There," he said, "is what you've been waiting for."

Mr. Matthews picked up the big bundle and began to look through it dutifully.

"Is it good?" he asked doubtfully.

The man stared at him for a moment, then said:

"Is it GOOD? Why, that play will make "Grand Hotel" sound like a blackface monolog."

THE latest piece of nonsense that is attracting Fair goers is the latest thing in silhouettes. Cecil, the silhouette artist in the Dutch Village on the Northerly Island, makes them. She cuts a tiny silhouette of the patron out of black paper, pastes it on the thumbnail, then paints over it with dark red nail polish to keep it safely in place.

This summer it isn't the heat, it's the nudity.

At least, that's the conclusion reached by the National Costumers' association, in convention this week at the Hotel Sherman. The gradual casting off of clothing is being viewed with alarm.

Lester Essig of Lester's, Ltd., Chicago, one of the country's largest costumers, says that there is more nudity among the entertainers in Chicago and elsewhere this year than ever before. "Last year," he said, "the style was a 'smart' nudity, with small brassieres and trunks. This year a 'big spread' with a peacocklike headdress and train is in vogue, and, following the French style, the brassieres have been removed.

The trend to lesser clothing has reached beyond the night club and theater, Mr. Essig added, as witness the diminishing bathing suits and the "shorts" for cycling.

In fact, the latter has brought about a new problem to worry about. Just like the chicken and the egg puzzle, the question now is: "Did the bicycle bring back the shorts or the shorts bring back the bicycle?"

Too Much Mitchell-Durante in This One.

Produced by Fox.
Directed by George Marshall.
Presented at McVicker's theater.
THE CAST.

Larry Wilson	Lew Ayres
Jean Legal	Alice Faye
Peanuts	Frank Mitchell
Eddie	Jack Durant
Jose Rubenstein	Harry Green

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Somebody labored under the extraordinary idea that Mitchell and Durant, a pair of tumbling, socking, slapstick comedians are funny. Somebody with influence. SO—the two fairly glut this picture with their wearying antics and rob it of such interest as it might otherwise have had.

[At least they bored me to tears.]

She who "learned about sailors" is a torch singer in a Shanghai café—a product of Canada, who, while touring the orient with a vaudeville act, found herself stranded and did the best she could for herself.

The sailor is Larry Wilson, an American. While on shore leave he meets, falls in love with, and decides to marry Jean Legal. . . .

Again aboard ship, sailing away, Larry consults an officer as to the advisability of a man of the sea being a benedict. The officer shakes his head. "Not fair to the girl," sezzee.

Result—Jean lands in Los Angeles at the same time Larry's cruiser puts into port, all set to become Mrs. Wilson. . . .

Complications. . . . Stupid to the 'nth degree. . . .

You will like Alice Faye, competent as well as decorative, and be rather fond of Lew Ayres—fine young actor—miscast this time as he usually has been since his memorable performance in "All Quiet on the Western Front." You will appreciate their efforts and those of that smart character player, Harry Green, to put the piece over.

With which kind words I close—they constituting positively the only complimentary things I can think of to say re "She Learned About Sailors."

Sally's Guests Will See Zoo at Brookfield

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Remember that song about—
"I went to the animal fair—
The birds and the beasts were there?"

Well, that's just where all you boys and girls have a chance to go if you're smart. I'm going to take a group of 50 girls and 50 boys to the Chicago Zoölogical Gardens at Brookfield on Thursday, July 19. This is the newest and one of the largest zoos in the world, as well as one of the most beautiful.

We're going to have a pleasant ride out there, too, you know, in two of the big buses provided by the Chicago Motor Coach company. You've probably all ridden on them at one time or another, but this is going to be a private trip out to the zoo just for us. The Motor Coach company is expert in handling such trips—they carry millions of passengers per year, and a great number of them are children, so you know we'll have a safe, comfortable ride.

If you'd like to come along on this party write me a letter and let me know. Each child must write his or her own letter—it will not be considered if you have any other person write for you—you must include your name and address, and it must be on my desk next Thursday. If you fail to observe these rules your letter will not be acceptable. A great many of you have been forgetting one or another of them and spoiling your chances for an invitation.

Address your letters to Sally Joy Brown, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

Hollywood

Not to Be Told:

BY SIDNEY SKOLSKY.

Hollywood, Cal., July 9.—The Hollywood romances: The majority of the Hollywood romances are phoney. Don't believe, for a moment, that I mean there is no such thing as a genuine romance in the cinema town. There is. But in many instances the love matches are arranged and planned. They are part of a great publicity plan. Love is just another of the rackets to keep a player's name before the public.

A new actor or actress arrives in Hollywood and immediately the publicity ball must start rolling. The new performer, unknown to the movie fans, must be fairly well known before he or she even appears on the screen. You must be well acquainted with them by the time their first picture appears.

Love is the surest and safest get acquainted quick method. And the studio sees to it that you are well informed of the dueting.

Take any new player arriving in Hollywood: Jean Muir, Alice Faye, Pat Patterson. Take any young player they're trying to build up: Mary Carlisle, Florine McKinney, Nick Foran. I'll show you the machinery at work.

Jean Muir, before she was given her first big rôle, got into print when her name was linked in romantic fashion with Dick Powell, one of the two big ladies' men on the Warner lot. He and Lyle Talbot are used as companion pieces for the new, enterprising female players—not that Talbot resents it, for when the studio isn't busy Lyle has a supply of his own.

JEAN MUIR.

But the fact remains that matches are arranged. There was the time when Margaret Lindsay was linked with William Powell. They were seen together at a picture opening.

It was a Warner picture and Powell was asked if he would take Miss Lindsay to the opening. It is usual for a studio to ask their stars to be present at an opening. It gives them a good turnout and makes a good appearance. The item makes the columns and the magazines.

MARGARET LINDSAY.

Now William Powell is no longer under contract at Warner's and his name is no longer linked with Margaret Lindsay's. But then George Brent and Ruth Chatterton separated and soon Miss Lindsay and Brent were bracketed in type. Catch on?

Forine McKinney, a young starlet, has her share of companions. She has been seen dancing and dining with numerous nice men. The latest is Philip Trent, a young player brought over from England to appear in "David Copperfield." You must be hearing of him before you see the picture.

Alice Faye's build-up was sudden and unexpected because of the Rudy Vallee case. Nick Foran, a very promising lad at the same studio, was not so well known. Soon there was a yarn that Foran was courting Miss Faye and that there were objections. Now Nick and Alice like each other, but love is another word. Generally players consent to these Hollywood romances, but there are a few exceptions who don't.

ALICE FAYE.

But whenever you read of a romance between two players who are working at the same studio, be just a little suspicious.

Another example is that of Phil Regan, a former Brooklyn cop who is on his way to becoming one of your screen favorites. One day Joan Crawford wandered on the "Student Tour" set to hear Regan sing. They were introduced to each other. The next day Regan went over to the Crawford set to watch Joan act. There was no doubt about the result. Items have appeared concerning Joan Crawford and Phil Regan hinting at romance. Hitching a young player to a star is one method of getting his name into print.

Of course there is nothing to this Regan-Crawford thing. It is merely an acquaintance: he hasn't even been invited to her house. It's a good publicity trick, but in this instance it went too far.

Regan's real girl friend, Josephine Dwyer, is in New York, and he wants her to know those items are phoney. She is going to come to Hollywood to see him.

The Hollywood romance is even used with stars, the biggest of them. There was the Garbo-Mamoulian marriage yarn. It was strictly a publicity story to promote interest for "Queen Christina." Garbo is an easy foil, for by running away and refusing to talk she is a great help. It is true that Garbo and Mamoulian are friends, but you don't hear of romance and marriage now that Mamoulian is directing another star at another studio.

It's funny, but when you read of a divorced couple going together you can bet that it's one romance on the level. That's how a genuine love affair starts here.

What and When of Style for Summer Maid

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The summer maid of 1934 wears—

FOR COMFORT—the coolest underlayers ever invented for warm weather. Scanty, very brief things of tub cottons, lastex, and mesh. Corsets, girdles, and all together foundations of cool mesh weaves combined with lastex, also full of holes, the best air cooled contrivances ever presented.

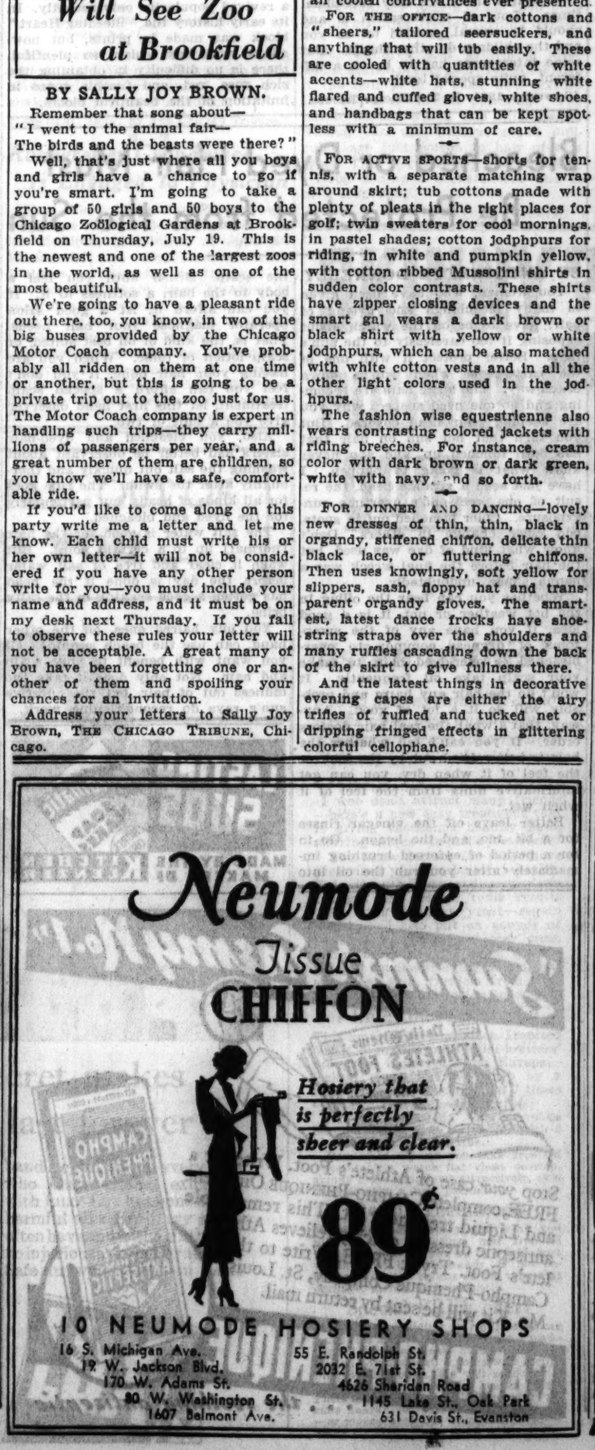
FOR THE OFFICE—dark cottons and "sheers," tailored seersuckers, and anything that will tub easily. These are cooled with quantities of white accents—white hats, stunning white flared and cuffed gloves, white shoes, and handbags that can be kept spotless with a minimum of care.

FOR ACTIVE SPORTS—shorts for tennis, with a separate matching wrap around skirt; tub cottons made with plenty of pleats in the right places for golf; twin sweaters for cool mornings, in pastel shades; cotton jodphpurs for riding, in white and pumpkin yellow, with cotton ribbed Mussolini shirts in sudden color contrasts. These shirts have zipper closing devices and the smart gal wears a dark brown or black shirt with yellow or white jodphpurs, which can be also matched with white cotton vests and in all the other light colors used in the jodhpurs.

The fashion wise equestrienne also wears contrasting colored jackets with riding breeches. For instance, cream color with dark brown or dark green, white with navy, and so forth.

FOR DINNER AND DANCING—lovely new dresses of thin, thin, black in organdy, stiffened chiffon, delicate thin black lace, or fluttering chiffons. Then uses knowingly, soft yellow for slippers, sash, floppy hat and transparent organdy gloves. The smartest, latest dance frocks have shoestring straps over the shoulders and many ruffles cascading down the back of the skirt to give fullness there.

And the latest things in decorative evening capes are either the airy trifles of ruffled and tucked net or dripping fringed effects in glittering colorful cellophane.



Drama Drouth Broken with "Fresh Fields"

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The drouth in drama was broken last night with the first performance of a comedy called "Fresh Fields" at the Blackstone theater. This event was something more than the average first night; it was an American première, if you please, for the play, a success in London with a year's history behind it, is now to this nation, Broadway, whence all of our theatrical sophistication springs, is still ignorant of the virtues of this piece and is wiring urgently for news of the opening.

An important aspect of "Fresh Fields" is the appearance in its leading rôles of two eminent actresses—Margaret Anglin, a star of the great age before the movies came, and Alexandra Carlisle, a comedienne of many distinguished achievements. Brought together in rôles well suited to their high skill in the comedy of manners, they form a brace of co-stars that recall the impressive casts of celebrities which George C. Tyler used to assemble for well-trumpeted national tours.

Miss Anglin may have flitted through Chicago in the Tyler all-star revival of "Diplomacy" in 1928, but her last long run in this city was in 1924, when she appeared in "The Great Lady Dedlock," based on Dickens' "Bleak House." The current play at the Blackstone, therefore, marks the return after a long absence of an actress who has had one of the most brilliant careers on the American stage.

She is carrying the weight for dowager comedy rôles now, and is acting the character of Lady Mary Crabbe, a needy patrician who rented the second floor of her London mansion to a trio of crude colonials, with consummate skill. Her touch is crisp; her character drawing is shrewd; her humor ripples with polite irony.

Miss Carlisle, as sister and foil of the scheming Lady Mary and innocent victim of the boarding house plot, is equally adroit in a more fluttering vein. She is the Victorian member of the family and her agonies of repressed snobbery, as she sees the visiting colonials play havoc with Mayfair traditions, form some of the most important comic situations in the story.

"Fresh Fields" is the typical English comedy of class contrasts in matters of deportment, with a trend toward mild farce in its plot. It is a workmanlike and diverting piece, well suited for summer theater-going. The seven others in the cast are able players, each clearly projecting an amusing character, and the single stage setting is decorative in the right mood of London dignity.

Altogether this production is a vast improvement upon the general trend of recent Chicago theatrical adventures. It has that admirable quality which is vaguely called "style."

THE WRONG MAN

BY MAY EDGINTON

SYNOPSIS.

Cara Follette, only daughter of a Canadian business man, anticipates becoming her father's partner. While traveling in Europe she meets Jerry Flint, a poor young singer. She shakes him in Toronto, where she can get him auditions impossible for him to gain abroad. Benjamin Follette and his wife, Anny, had grown apart in the years he was busy becoming successful. Now Follette is about to lose his business to his rival, Redman Harmer. Harmer recently returned from Europe, where he saw and fell in love with Cara. He tells Follette. When Cara returns home her father tells her of his failure and urges her to meet Harmer. It would mean much to him and his sister, Harmer. Cara thinks she loves Jerry. She decides to go up northwest to Mulligan's camp for a month to think it over. Meanwhile no one is to get an inkling of their business troubles. Jerry follows and joins her on the way. Harmer hears of Cara's plans from her father. He flies to Mulligan's ahead of her and hires the place from Dan Mulligan for a month and the use of his name. He meets Cara and Jerry as Mulligan. After three days Jerry is fed up with camp life. He tricks Cara into leaving with him. They become lost in the wilds. Jerry's true character is revealed to Cara when she confesses her father's failure. Harmer comes to their rescue. He sends Jerry on his way back to Toronto. Harmer, as Mulligan, wins Cara's love. Cara is anxious to overtake Jerry for fear of harm to Follettes by what she has told him. Harmer starts on the return trip with her. Cara tells him she is going to marry for money.

INSTALMENT XLIV.

A MARRIAGE DEAL.

It was blazing hot in the town. Cara and Harmer were very quiet together now, entirely businesslike. He said, eyeing the linen suit that she had donned again for traveling:

"We'll go to an hotel, Miss Follette, and you can get that pressed."

They went to the same hotel where Jerry Flint had surprised her, and he arranged the use of a room and bath for her. She let him do it all. As the elevator gates clanged behind her she looked out through the grill and saw him sit down, beckon to a waiter. She observed his every movement despairingly. In her room she rang for the chambermaid and gave her suit to be pressed. Under the shower she felt unrefreshed. She savored the helpless amazement of the young when the world turns them about and about, and will not let them go upon their own way. And all she knew for certain was that she must go back upon the next express for Toronto, must hurry home and throw her arms about Benjamin's neck and comfort him—now she saw again his bleak face as he bade her farewell with the unaccustomed tribute of flowers—and she must say to him in a voice that he could believe: "Here I am. I couldn't stay away from you. I wanted to come home. And I will . . . talk to Redman Harmer. And perhaps Anny is right."

"Anyway," she would try to say to him, "It is for Follettes'. And I'm not the kind of girl to fall in love, so I can't marry for it, can I?" A faint hearted joke. . . . Somehow like that.

He smiled a little because she was natural, childish, and dignified at once.

She had not up till now wondered very much as to the personality of Harmer. What kind of a man was he? Now, lying for a few minutes on the couch of that bedroom of the Edmonton hotel till her suit was returned to her, she tried to imagine him. She thought she did not want to meet him at home, under the eyes of Anny and Benjamin, all knowing what was afoot, and all on edge. And perhaps every one would be very gentle and comforting and tactful with her—when she would fly out at them in a passion as never before! She thought that possibly she would ring up this Redman Harmer or wire to him from the train, and suggest calmly that he take her to dinner at a restaurant. She would not be shy with him, nor nervous, but would tackle the business in hand like another man . . . only that she had learned, lately, so well how to be a woman.

Of course she had heard people speak, now and then, of Harmer, and they spoke well of him. That did not ease her repugnance of the situation.

A knock at her door. The suit was back. She put a dollar into the hand of the valet who brought it, and took it in through the crack of opening, standing behind the door in her flimsy undergarment. The suit looked quite well again, sponged and ironed. She grudged the way this day went by, though all the time she reminded herself of the need for urgent haste because of Jerry Flint.

Almost she thought she would wire to her father from here: "Coming home instantly. Would like to see Harmer at once," but she refrained, because of the decision she had just taken to do her own business with the enemy. From the train, however, she would wire to Harmer at Montreal.

Perhaps she would go on to Montreal, not telling Benjamin, and arrange the whole thing there.

It would perhaps be a little embarrassing for a man—even a hard case like Redman Harmer, for hard case he must be—to have his proposition met and confirmed so swiftly by the young woman whose participation—so intimate and delicate—in the business, was the crux of the whole matter.

She would not mind embarrassing him. It would show him, as probably nothing else would, the sheer savagery of his way of dealing. It would also show him the type of girl he was marrying. Gloves off, and have it out!

Downstairs, Harmer had washed and brushed, and ordered a luncheon as delicate as could be provided. And in spite of the roughness of his riding clothes, he was a figure at which many eyes turned to look. He saw Cara coming towards him at length, in her trim suit, her mop of hair beautifully tidied. She gave her hat to a passing servant with the simple royal air of one brought up not only to obey, but to command, and said, "Please hang it up." It hung on a hatstand with a couple of dozen or so hats of men.

He smiled a little, because she was natural and childish and dignified at once, and because he knew that under that boyishness was the deep and burning heart of a woman.

"Ordered your lunch for you," he said.

They went into the dining room together.

"You know, Danny," she told him as they sat at table, "I've forgotten that my visit to your camp was on a business footing. I've forgotten everything like that. I owe you——"

"A hundred dollars."

She flushed a little as she fished for her wad of notes in a pocket case.

"It seems so strange—doesn't it——"

"It would seem very strange, Miss Follette. Too strange, really. Please let your little visit be Danny Mulligan's gift to you. A wedding gift."

She pushed the notes back.

"Thank you," she said chokily.

"The trout is good?"

"Very."

"Your train leaves at 3:30."

"I have made up my mind about everything, Danny," she said. "Upstairs when I was waiting for my suit, I thought it out. I shall wire from the train to Redman Harmer at Montreal. I suppose 'Redman Harmer, Montreal,' will find him?"

"I think it would."

"Do you know him? Has he ever hunted with you?" she asked quickly.

"Why . . . yes."

"I wished I'd asked before," she said. "what's he like?"

"I'd rather leave that for you to judge. A woman thinks differently from a man."

"I daresay we do."

"Why. . . . Frightened, Ca—Miss Follette?"

"Not frightened at all. What has to be done, has to be done. If he isn't at home, the wire will follow him. I shall suggest to him that we meet alone. He can take me to dinner, in a restaurant—somewhere impersonal. I want to tell you all this, Danny."

"Then tell me, Miss Follette."

"Should I call you Mr. Mulligan again?"

"It means as much to me as Danny, now that you're really going."

"Then . . . Mr. Mulligan . . . don't you think I'm right?"

"Don't let's bother about right and wrong just now. Eat some chicken."

"I want to get it all over and done with. You understand?"

"Best way," he said succinctly, "all over and done with. Although even such a hard case might like a little courtship, you know, and a woman generally expects it."

"You're being awfully sensible, and you're helping me to be sensible, too."

"What else is there for me to be? Who am I? Just Danny Mulligan, who's fallen in love with a girl he mustn't think of, who adores and worships her and will go on adoring and worshiping all his life."

Children Often Need Mother's Whole Interest

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"Mommie, you're not listening to me," said the accusing young voice.

The mother of the little girl talking so earnestly looked up from her sewing with a guilty smile.

"Yes I am, dear," she said and repeated the words which were still echoing in her ears. But she hadn't been really listening. She'd been thinking that she'd have to take the sleeve out of the yellow organdy and put it in all over again and that she wished she'd gotten cornflower blue, anyhow.

How often do you give your undivided attention to your children? How often do you mentally drop away other thoughts, close your mind's door on chores and give your entire attention to your child—to what she may be saying, which reveals what she is thinking or feeling at the moment? We do this with older people, but many of us never do it with our children. Yet they need it and crave it.

When you give your undivided attention to a child you give something of yourself, and he senses it. Many of the things he has to tell you or show you are important to him. They are important to you often, too, in revealing your child to you—if you did but know it.

Sometimes you can give your attention to your young companion when you are doing other things that are quite mechanical, like preparing vegetables or sewing. But sometimes even that gets in the way of a real communion of spirit. I remember, when everybody used to knit during wartime, that I thought it a detriment to anything but the most detached and casual sort of conversation.

When you're having a real talk with your child often empty hands enrich it. To look into your child's eyes, to see his changing expression, to observe how his posture and gestures reveal his inner self all sharpen your awareness of him as a person. It satisfies a need in him, too. Where there are other members of a family home, young or old, one has to stage-manage sometimes to give this sort of attention to a child.

Of course these are only occasional times. Lots of conversation is and should be casual, carried on as you and the children do other things. But some intercourse has to be on a different, quite special level.

In the garden bleeding hearts have been ever popular, but in quiltdom this block has been among those enjoying a revived popularity only recently. In its early history the "Bleeding Heart" block was made in prints, but nowadays, with fast colors so plentiful, there is no difficulty in obtaining the rich rose, red, and fuschia tones in imitation of the beautiful bloom.

Bleached or Dyed Hair Must Be Protected from the Sun

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

You women, who have been given to many bleachings and dyeing of hair, have to be on the watch about exposing it too carelessly to the sun's rays. Better protect it with one of the cartwheels when you're down beach-way. The large hats are becoming and no one need suspect why you are keeping your head covered. But you turn that hot sun on hair that has been touched up, and you never know what is going to happen. I have just seen a strange head, the result of one week-end's overtime sun-exposure. Color bleached out in spots, odd color change in others. Don't know what kind of dye was used, but the hair before the final wreck was a henna shade, undoubtedly.

Whether you can bear the oiling in the hot weather or not, it is a good idea, if you have any of the symptoms of dryness common to over-bleached or over-dyed hair, to make your scalp take oil frequently. It won't do the hair any harm and probably will do it a lot of good. Anyway, that's what the real hair doctors order. If you can't tell whether the hair is being dried out by the look or the feel of it when dry, you can get informative hints from the feel of it when wet.

Better leave off the vinegar rinses for a bit, too, and the lemon. Go in for a period of enforced brushing immediately after you rub the oil into the scalp. Brush until you feel a body to the hair, a softness to it. If you can afford it, let a good salon operator diagnose your hair needs. That is, the kind of oil best suited, or scalp lotion or tonic. When you are having your hair done, if you don't feel you can afford a special scalp treatment, let this first hand observer give you a hint or two.

Also, you bleached and dyed-hair sisters had better be observant about washing the salt out quickly and thoroughly after the swim. The rule goes for all kinds of heads, but particularly for the dyed and bleached.

The salt water is good for the hair [normal] up to a certain point. But wash it clear and free of salt water before the day is done if the head has gotten a good soaking in the salty brine.

You oily haired ones, on the other hand, can use the beach sunnings all you want with benefit to your scalp and hair. Not only does it take the oiliness out of hair, but the curative sun's rays do reconditioning work.

Man Plus Two Women Equals Plain Rivalry

Natural Feminine Trait Is Immutable.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

What's the best attitude to assume toward that girl the boy friend had before you came into his life?

It's Wondering's question, and one that confronts many other girls.

Wondering's beau was nearly engaged to this other girl. But that was more than a year ago. In the meantime Wondering seems to fill the bill perfectly, but that old girl never did anything to offend, and pleasant memories are still associated with her in the man's mind. She calls and asks the man to occasional parties. She still cares and the man, while caring more elsewhere, is not ready to hurt this old friend by ignoring her completely. The new girl, of course, cannot see why the old friendship should not be cut off completely.

Into which we read a characteristically male optimism about being able to handle two women with ease and grace. An optimism, we might add, with very little substance to support it. Maybe one time in fifty million a man might succeed in finding his new girl so understanding and generous a soul as to meet the old girl situation with perfect peace and quiet. But the odds are so strongly against the success of the venture, we believe that men should make up their minds that women aren't made to meet as in any other frame than as rivals.

On second thought, we question if it is a male characteristic entirely. Women, trying to cling to an old opposite sex friendship, do not find the current boy friend particularly amenable to the continuance of that friendship. It's probably just an old human custom to resent these earlier associations. It would be more agreeable all around if men and women could be indulgent toward the earlier romantic association, but, as hinted, human nature being the ornery, jealous, proprietary and, sometimes, cussed thing it is, we're not optimistic about there being much change in the attitude toward a suspected rival.

Until a man can look with perfect equanimity upon his girl's dating with an old sweety, we think he must not expect indulgence granted him.

Pineapple Has Valued, Health Giving Vitamins

But It Mustn't Be Eaten Until Fully Ripe.

BY MARY MEADE.

Pricked ladies have been known to wonder, after paring a sticky pineapple, whether there wasn't some missing link between porcupines and pineapples. But family tree experts say no, so that settles it.

But we are left to wonder why the "pine" apple? And the answer seems to be that the fruit won its name from its likeness to the shape of a pine cone, although actually it grows on a low spreading plant rather than on a tall waving tree.

Back in the yesterdays when men started their pineapple eating they knew the meat and the juices of pineapples felt good within them, but they didn't know why. Today in this fact finding age we discover that there really are digestive properties and medicinal virtues in the pineapple which puts it decidedly in the class of the health foods. It boasts an array of vitamins, with the anti-scorbutic vitamin C in the lead. This acts as appetite piquer and protector against certain infectious diseases and dental troubles. When digested, pineapple juice has an alkaline or basic action which helps to offset the effects of the necessary acid producing foods and thus to keep the balance between acid and alkali in the body, which balance is necessary for perfect health.

But time out for a tip. Like many other fruits, pineapples should not be eaten until fully mature, as the unripe juices are too acid and may be irritating to the coating of the stomach. Natives of south China, India, and the South Sea islands know all about this and always eat their pineapples ripe. They even use the juices as a cure-all for diseases, grating the ripe pineapples just as they come out of the fields. They squeeze out the juice into earthenware crocks or calabash gourds, wrap wet cloths about them, and hang them on palm trees in the sun. When the heat gets to work the evaporation cools the juices and you have perfect little refrigerators ready for thirsty tipplers.

Hawaiian Refrigerator Pie.

Crust.
20 graham crackers, rolled fine
4 tablespoons sugar
5 tablespoons melted butter

Filling.
1 package lemon flavored gelatin
1¾ cups boiling water
1 cup grated pineapple and juice (canned or fresh scalded)
1½ cups cream, whipped stiff
8 graham crackers, rolled fine
1 tablespoon confectioner's sugar

Combine the ingredients of the crust, blending well. Pat the mixture firmly over the inside, bottom, and sides of a ten inch pie pan. Chill this while you make the filling.

For the filling dissolve the gelatin mixture in the boiling water, then add the pineapple, which, if fresh, must be scalded. Chill this combination and just as it starts to thicken add the whipped cream, graham crums, and the sugar. Pour the mixture into the cracker shell and chill until set.

Or will you take your pineapple in slices? Then sail to the dining room on a hot Sunday night with:

Shrimp and Pineapple Supper Plate.

2 cups large shrimp, cleaned
1 cup chopped celery
1 green pepper
6 slices pineapple, fresh or canned
Crisp lettuce
French dressing
Mayonnaise

Combine the shrimps and the celery. Let them marinate in French dressing for one hour in the refrigerator. Have ready a large supper platter with six separate nests of lettuce along its two sides. Down the center line up the chilled pineapple slices, overlapping each other and each one ringed about by strips of green pepper. Now divide the shrimps into the lettuce cups and serve all very cold. Offer mayonnaise for those who wish it.

And as a curtain act let there be:

Pineapple Milk Shake.

1 cup pineapple juice
2 tablespoons lemon juice
½ cup ice water
1 tablespoon sugar
¾ cup chilled evaporated milk
Crushed ice

Mix together the fruit juices, sugar, and water. When the sugar is all dissolved add the evaporated milk and shake lustily with crushed ice.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

With too dry hair as devastating and widespread a difficulty as the eternal dry skins, we women oughtn't to choose our shampoos by the eenie-minie-minie-mo method. We're fussy about soaps and creams for parched skin and we ought to be equally vigilant to use cleansers on our hair that don't contribute further to its dryness.

There are the soapless shampoos of course, and very slick they are, too. But many women have told us that the shampoo without the good old sudsy soap doesn't feel quite right. They want a soap, but a bland one.

There's a fairly new cocoanut oil soap shampoo in the shops right now that will fill the bill adequately. It's a rich, mild liquid soap, product of a firm that has given us a couple of other good beauty aids.

All the women whom we asked to experiment with it found it excellent; it seems to do nobly by both fine and coarse and dry and oily hair, but we were most interested to find that it was rather exceptional when used on hair that is fine, dry and of delicate color.

Several fond mammas with blonde darlings who treasure their children's locks as they would precious stones have declared themselves addicts of this shampoo for life. It seems to break mothers' hearts to see their little blonde beauties' tresses turning darker.

For children and grownups alike this shampoo is especially recommended if the hair is of a color and texture that requires careful handling. The harsh soaps, which the oily haired woman can use without much difficulty, are just poison to hair of this type. They actually dry and streak it.

Good shampoo seekers will find it in a loop shop.

Rockefeller Grandniece Is Engaged to Physician

New York, July 9.—(AP)—The engagement of Miss Geraldine Rockefeller McAlpin, grandniece of John D. Rockefeller, to Dr. Jerome Pierce Webster, a physician on the staf of the hospital where Miss McAlpin is head of a department, was announced tonight by her mother, Mrs. D. Hunter McAlpin. Miss McAlpin in 1930 organized and became the head of the department of educational therapy at the Babies hospital, Columbia-Presbyterian medical center. Her grandfather was William Rockefeller.

summer trip, are returning next Tuesday.

They will spend the rest of the summer in their Lake Forest home.

An attractive visitor in Chicago is Mrs. Max Von Schlegell of Baltimore, who is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm Le S. Harris. Mr. Von Schlegell was here for a few days, but he returned to Baltimore last week, and his wife will follow him at the end of ten days. Dr. Harris, who has been ill, is convalescing slowly.

Another out-of-town married daughter who her Chicago friends are always glad to see is Mrs. Samuel Frothingham Jr. of Belford Hills, N. Y. She is arriving next Sunday to visit her parents, the Donald R. Weggs. Mrs. Frothingham is bringing her little daughter with her and they will be here for two weeks.

Louise Haynes to Be Bride.

An engagement announcement of interest to Chicagoans that was made yesterday in Greenwich, Conn., is the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. Hasbrouck Haynes made of the engagement of their daughter, Louise Covington, to Edward Almar Twerdahl Jr. of Evanston. The Hayneses are former residents of Winnetka, and all of their friends will be pleased to learn that the wedding is to take place here.

The ceremony will be read in the chapel of St. Mark's church in Evanston on July 28 and a small reception will follow at the home of the Percy B. Eckharts in Kenilworth.

Miss Haynes attended Miss Madeira's school in Washington, D. C., and Northwestern university, and Mr. Twerdahl is a graduate of Beloit college.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zaring are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter Sunday at the Wesley Memorial hospital. The baby probably will be named Marion Martin after her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. George W. Dixon. She is the newest addition to the distinguished and large Dixon clan, being the first grand-daughter of George W. Dixon. The Zarings have a son, Stanley Jr., who is four years old.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Fentress have gone to their home at Ludington, Mich., for the remainder of the summer. Their niece, Miss Harriet Fentress, accompanied them

N. Y. Couple Guests at Arlington.

Two visitors at the Post and Paddock club at Arlington yesterday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Thieriot of New York. Mrs. Thieriot, who is a handsome woman with silvery hair and brown eyes, wore a simple blue gown and a white panama hat with a blue band. She and her husband are leaving today with the William R. Coes for the Coe ranch in California, where they will spend two weeks.

The Vocational Society for Shut-Ins is holding a sale today in the home of Mrs. Philip T. Starck at Lake Geneva, beginning at 10 o'clock and continuing until 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Ross J. Beatty, new president of the northern Illinois branch of the League of American Pen Women, is entertaining at a tea tomorrow afternoon in her Highland Park home for Mrs. Franklin Miller and Mrs. Webb L. Gibbs. Mrs. Miller and Mrs. Gibbs, both members of the northern Illinois branch, were recently appointed national chairmen of drama and radio, respectively, for the league.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., July 9.—[Special.]—The Belgian ambassador and Mme. May returned today from Hot Springs, Va., where they have been vacationing and where the Argentine ambassador and Mme. Espil are spending the greater part of the summer. They are dividing their time between Washington and Hot Springs.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Col. Anthony J. Drexel, who was at the Ambassador hotel for several months, sailed to pass the summer abroad. He was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson and the latter's two children, Angier B. Duke and Anthony D. Duke.

Chanel Makes Tailored Suits of Lackered Satin

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Chanel has a yen for black lackered satin and likes to use it in unexpected ways. This summer she is making tailored hot-weather ensembles of it for her pet clients. Our sketch shows you how she does them. She puts no jacket on, for when the weather is really warm the jacket is a handicap. The wrap is a wisp of a cape, which covers the shoulders but lets you see a wide swathe of the blouse between the cape and the skirt. The cape is cut circular and has no collar. In front it is considerably shorter in a whimsical suggestion of the vest and jacket at the bottom.

The black lackered satin skirt is strictly tailored and buttons in front at the center front seam. There is a tiny yoke at the waistline, and below that the skirt is cut on the bias.

The blouse is made of white organdy with broken lines of black stuff that looks like jet and is probably cellophane woven into the goods. It buttons up the center front like a shirtwaist on white buttons and has a scarf collar with flaring jabot-like ends. The sleeves are long and straight.

A tiny pancake hat goes with this ensemble, made, also, of lackered satin and bordered with loops of the shiny cellophane stuff that appears on the blouse.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

SLAM TRIES AFTER A NO-TRUMP OPENING BID.

Continuing the subject of yesterday's article, you will now see clearly why it is safe to make the slam try on a slightly weaker hand with the 5-5-3-0 distribution, when your void suit is the lowest ranking suit that you will have occasion to name in your bidding. For instance, I would respond with three diamonds on

Sp. K J x Di. K Q x x x
His. A x x x x Cl. —— because if my partner were unable to make other than minimum responses, the bidding would go: one no-trump, three diamonds, three no-trumps, four hearts, four no-trumps, five clubs by me. Now my partner could sign off in either five hearts or five diamonds and I would accept his decision and not bid the slam.

An Informative Raise.

If the bidding went as above up to my bid of four hearts, but my partner then bid five hearts instead of four no-trumps, I would read this bid as meaning sound heart support [K Q x or K J 10 or K 10 x x] and would bid six hearts. Assured of no red losers, the slam contract becomes obligatory. Only an adverse 4-1 or 5-0 holding in a red suit will endanger it. Partner undoubtedly holds at least the queen in spades. Definite information about the heart support supplies the slam key for this hand.

With a 5-4-4-0 Distribution.

Take the same standards as for 5-5-3-0 regarding primary tricks for jump take-outs. Remember that whenever you bid a four card minor suit secondarily, after a major, your partner knows it is the start or continuation of a slam try and that you have at least one other bid in reserve. With

Sp. K Q x x x Di. ——
His. A x x x Cl. K J x x

you could safely bid three spades over one no-trump. When you show your void, it will be by bidding five diamonds over four no-trumps or four spades, and if that information does not enable your partner to come to life and bid the slam for you, he has a safe sign-off in five spades. However, if spades were the void suit, you would need three primary tricks for the same reason as with 5-5-3-0 hand pattern—you will be showing your void at five spades, so it will be impossible to stop short of slam if you bid your hand to its proper limit. Consequently, I would need as much as

Sp. —— Di. A x x x
His. K Q x x x Cl. K Q x x

to bid three hearts over one no-trump. Change the club holding to K J x x and I would bid at first only two hearts, but would make a later slam try in this fashion: the bidding having been one no-trump, two hearts, two no-trumps, three clubs, three no-trumps—I would now bid four spades. My partner could not read this as anything but a cue bid. If my black suits were each of four cards, would I not have bid spades before clubs? If my clubs were five in number and my spades were four, I could have had no right to bid hearts at all on the first round, as I could only hold four of them and must then bid them only after bidding spades. One would have to hold fourteen cards for this bidding procedure to cause any confusion.

If my partner signed off by bidding four no trumps over four spades, I would sign off at five hearts, an easier declaration to handle. A diamond and a club [we are now considering the weaker hand with K J x x in clubs] might well be lost if opener's bid were

Sp. K Q x Di. K 10 x x
His. A x x Cl. A x x

Experimental Bus to Have Engine in Rear.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pontiac, Mich., July 9.—[Special.]—A new double deck bus is under construction in the General Motors Truck company plant here for the Chicago Motor Coach company. The vehicle, a demonstration model, will incorporate engineering advancements designed to better the service for patrons and, perhaps almost as important, it will incorporate engineering improvements designed to abate the public's complaint against the noise and furor caused by the big carriers rumbling through residential districts.

The technical experts here are making a material contribution to the movement underway in Chicago to reduce the noises of motor transportation which have become a disturbing element in urban and suburban life. While the Chicago police have promised arrests for motorists and motorcyclists using unmuffled engine exhausts, the engineers in this truck factory are perfecting a bus of quieter operation. The old double deckers that now groan and grumble over Father Dearborn's streets are causing many headaches.

Three Years of Research.

This demonstration model, to be delivered in September, represents three years of research by the General Motors and the Chicago Motor Coach staffs. An outstanding innovation is the location and position of the engine, lying crosswise in the rear of the bus. The radiator is flush with the left side of the coach. A short drive shaft extends from the left rear corner of the vehicle forward to the center of the rear axle.

The elimination of the conventional long drive shafts from the engine up front to the rear axle will dampen some of the sounds of operation. Valve noises, common on heavy duty engines, are minimized on this six cylinder, 150 horse-power job by means of a patented mechanism that removes clearances.

Test Two Transmission Types.

Two types of transmission are being tested for the new bus. One is automatic, the shift being made by centrifugal governors, while the other is shifted by compressed air.

Regardless of which design is adopted, the new bus will have a quieter transmission, free from the crash and grind heard on Chicago's motor coach routes. General Motors has developed a synchronizer which for the first time will give a heavy-duty transmission the freedom from noises found on passenger cars of the last few years.

All gears and gear housings have been quieted. Shorter and heavier shafts assure alignment.

The compressed air brakes on the new buses will have four shoes for each drum rather than the usual two, minimizing drum distortion. This will prevent brake squeal and chatter.

Body Made of Aluminum.

C. O. Ball, chief engineer for the company, took the reporter to his research laboratories—a large factory and garage in itself—where the aluminum body for the bus is being built. Sheets of paper-thin aluminum hung loose between the outer and the inner shells of the coach insulators. The floor is low, thirteen inches from the ground, and a six foot man could stand erect.

"You will notice," said Mr. Ball, "that in this crosswise position the engine occupies but twelve inches of the length of the bus. The coach is thirty-five feet from bumper to bumper and thirty-two feet are available for the seventy-six passenger seats, except for the space occupied by the wheel wells."

HIS QUICK TEMPER GETS A CHANCE TO COOL IN POLICE CELL

Because he's a little quick tempered by his own admission, Vincent Bozick, 23 years old, 216 West 33d street, was in a cell at the detective bureau last night charged with assaulting a woman.

Until that episode Bozick was a bus boy in the first floor restaurant at the Palmer house. As he told the story last night, he broke his left wrist Sunday while swimming and was somewhat hampered in his work. For this, he claimed, he was fired yesterday and promptly went to see Miss Ruth West, manager of the restaurant.

"Who got me fired?" he demanded.

"I can't tell you," she replied.

"So," Bozick told police, "I'm a little quick tempered and I hit her." The house physician found she had a broken nose and had lost one tooth.

"You can cool that heated disposition in here," the sergeant told Bozick, opening a cell door.

Missing Dancer at Fair Found Dazed in Street

Princess Ahi, dancer at the Hawaiian village at the World's Fair who vanished last Thursday, appeared on the street in front of the Sherman house early today in a dazed condition. She was clad only in a pink slip and house slippers, crying incoherently for "my darling." She was taken to the county hospital, where she became unconscious. Attendants there said she probably was suffering from poisoning by some undetermined drug. She lived in a hotel at 1117 North Dearborn street.

YOUTH IS KILLED IN CRASH OF TWO TRAINS AND AUTO

David Port, 16 years old, a resident at the Crane farm for widows and children at Wheeling, was killed early today when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train on the Dundee road crossing in Northbrook. The train, northbound, carried passengers. It tossed the car over into the path of a southbound freight train, which also struck the vehicle. Robert Wolf, 15 years old, and Allen Hitler, 17 years old, both of the Crane farm, were in the car, but escaped with slight injuries by leaping from it.

Two women were injured late last night when a bus carrying twenty-one passengers, all colored, overturned as it was rounding a sharp curve at 105th street and Archer avenue. The injured are Mrs. Sarah Anderson, 5106 South Park way, and Mrs. Susie Meyers, 5616 South Michigan avenue. The bus passengers were all on the way to a convention of the Federation of Colored Women in St. Louis.

Hanzel Mannette, 18 years old, 2851 Emerald avenue, died yesterday in the county hospital from injuries incurred Sunday when he was hurled through the windshield of an automobile. The driver Charles Gregg, 20 years old, 2817 Emerald avenue, lost control and the car crashed into a tree at 3716 South Union avenue. Gregg said he recognized the youth as a neighbor and gave him a "lift."

The deaths of Fort, Mannette, and two others brought the total fatalities in the county for 1934 to 631. The other victims were:

Unidentified man, about 38 years old, fatally injured at 47th and Ada streets when he was struck by an automobile driven by Aaron Zomick, 32 years old, 1505 South Spaulding avenue. He died at the county hospital.

Edward Hildebranski, 32 years old, 2860 Hillock avenue, a milk wagon driver, died early yesterday in the Holy Cross hospital of injuries received on June 24 when his wagon was struck by an automobile driven by Joseph Barckus, 3129 Lowe avenue.

Injuries received in an automobile accident in Manteno, Kankakee county, June 30, 1932, proved fatal to Tony Evangelatos, 15 years old, 1009 West Harrison street, yesterday in the county hospital. At one time he was thought to be convalescent, but a brain abscess developed and he was admitted to the hospital a week ago.

POLICE OF DETROIT LAUNCH DRIVE ON RECKLESS AUTOISTS

Detroit, Mich., July 9.—[Special.]—Facing the highest death toll in the city's history, police here have launched a drive against reckless motorists by doubling the number of men assigned to the traffic detail.

Since the first of the year 215 persons have been killed and 6,684 have been injured in 5,604 automobile accidents. Police Commissioner Heinrik Pickert termed the situation an emergency.

Speed limits of 15 miles an hour in business districts, 20 miles an hour on side streets and 30 miles an hour on through streets will be enforced, he announced.

HUEY COMPELS HOUSE TO PASS ADVERTISING TAX

Baton Rouge, La., July 9.—[Special.]—As in the good old days of the silent movies, the director bellowed orders to do thus and so, and his actors humped themselves to do it, so at today's session of the Louisiana legislature Senator Huey P. Long shouted his voting orders when three tax bills came up.

The house passed, with thumping majorities, the bills slapping a 2 per cent gross advertising tax on all newspapers whose circulation runs to 20,000 or more per week, a 2 per cent gross tax on all utilities, except natural gas pipe lines, ferries, ice plants, and street railways, and a 2 cent tax on every $100 of cotton futures transactions.

Senator Long paraded or leaped about the chamber and shouted: "Vote yes, vote yes!" He didn't need a megaphone.

Some representatives, who had told the world they were against the measures way back to the last ditch, helped to swell the Long majority.

When several substitute motions created some confusion some one shouted to Representative Wimberly of Bienville, Long leader: "I wish the senator would make up his mind, so Mr. Wimberly would know what to do."

Once Senator Long interrupted his "vote yes" theme song to shout to Representative Guillory of St. Landry, "Sit down!" Guillory, his floor leader, was attracting too much attention in a debate with another representative.

The newspaper advertising tax bill was amended to include all newspapers with a weekly distribution of 20,000 or more. In the original form it applied only to those that had a daily circulation of 20,000—the six newspapers of Shreveport and New Orleans which have been leading in the attacks on Long.

"I'm taxing 'em 2 cents a lie," declared Long.

"O yeah?" shouted Representative Peyton of Caddo. "If the senator publishes his 'American Progress' in Louisiana, instead of Mississippi, the 2 cents per lie coming from it will fill the state treasury."

During the debate a Long leader interrupted Representative Bauer of St. Mary parish, who was opposing the bill to tax newspapers, to ask:

"How does this bill strike at the freedom of the press?"

"Because the administration tells the papers," Bauer replied, "that if they don't get in line they will be clubbed out of existence. This bill serves notice on the small papers what will happen to them if they don't behave themselves and support the Kingfish."

From back of the hall came another shout:

"Vote yes, vote yes!" That was the Kingfish shouting. The legislators did as bidden, 56 to 38.

SLAIN HERMIT'S ESTATE IS $80, TRUSTEE SAYS

Officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee of the estate of Abner Taylor Hinckley, "nude hermit of Thornton," reported to Probate Judge F. O'Connell yesterday that the estate now consists of $80. Hinckley, a ward of the Probate court, was shot to death last June 5 while prowling on a Hazel Crest farm. He had lived for years in a Thornton shed on money remitted by the trust company from the estate, which was bequeathed to him by his father, a Hyde Park real estate dealer. The inheritance was reported to have been in the neighborhood of $25,000. Trust company officials told Judge O'Connell they would give him a full accounting of the estate's funds this week.

KILLS SELF IN CEMETERY.

Marlboro, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—The body of Frank J. Tynan, 40, was found hanging from a stone cross on a grave next to that of his estranged wife in a cemetery today. Police said he had committed suicide.

YOUTH IS HELD ON 3D RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

A third charge of reckless driving, all growing out of the same automobile accident on June 20, was lodged yesterday against Harold Wagner, 18 years old, of 2508 Thornwood avenue, Wilmette, before Justice of the Peace Albert L. Sengstock of Maine township. Bond was set at $2,000. Wagner recently served a jail sentence for theft.

The accident occurred when Wagner's speeding car allegedly sidewiped another machine, and collided with still a third near the village limits of Kenilworth. Five persons were hurt. Yesterday's complaint was made by Clarence Roessner, 401 Fullerton parkway, a passenger in one of the cars Wagner's machine hit.

Others who have complaints against Wagner are Samuel Hirsh, 155 Carl street, in whose car Roessner was riding, and Adam Bernarde, 1124 Greenleaf avenue, Wilmette, driver of the third car.

BASEBALL'S GREATEST STARS BATTLE TODAY

TRIBUNE GOLF SCHOOL HOLDS COMMENCEMENT

23,000 Take Tests Tonight.

The second annual commencement exercises of THE TRIBUNE'S free golf school, which has been conducted for the last five weeks with an enrollment of 23,000 men, women, and children, will open tonight, when 114 prize students are chosen on the 19 member courses of the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association, sponsor of the project.

Every golfer who has attended the lessons, either as a pupil or a spectator, and the professionals teaching the school have reported hundreds of the latter, is urged to attend this final rallying of all the classes. The students, in particular, are asked not to overlook the opportunity to be named among the 114 who will advance to the two finals, the first of which will be an 18 hole medal play tournament to be played Saturday at Mission Hills, and the second a general form contest to be held at Mid-City on the night of July 19.

Six Winners at Each Course.

Each of the 19 association courses tonight will name a winner in all of the five divisions for which classes have been held—one each in the men's, women's, boys' and girls' classes, and two in the couples' division. Each of these winners will be presented with a playing membership good for the remainder of the season at the course from which they are chosen.

All are asked to appear at their respective courses tonight a trifle earlier than previously in order to facilitate the judging. Classes at the six inner courses—Mid-City, Harlem, Evergreen, Chicago Meadows, Golfmoor, and Big Oaks will open at 7:30 p. m., and at the 13 outlying courses—Vernon, Mission Hills, Westgate Valley, Cog-Hill, Indian Head, Twin Orchard, Oak Hills, Hickory Hills, Walnut Hills, Big Run, Elmgate, Northbrook, and Techny Fields—at 8 p. m.

Relatives of professionals and employés of THE TRIBUNE who have been taking the lessons will not be eligible for any prizes. All winners of last year's medal play tournament and form contest were automatically barred at the outset of the school.

Pros to be Judges.

A number of the professionals who have been instructing THE TRIBUNE classes will do their own judging tonight, while others will call upon professionals from courses in their vicinity to name their sextet or finalists. Charles Nash, president of the Daily Fee association, will pick the winning six at his club, Vernon. Bob MacDonald will name the best students in Mid-City class, taught by Frank Springer and his assistants, Ralph Chrissie of Big Run will have Vic Soltz of Southmoor as his guest judge, and Jack Daray of Mission Hills will preside at Elmgate.

Three leading Chicago district professionals will constitute the jury at Golfmoor. They are Bruce Herd of South Shore, George Knox of Calumet, and Hack Patterson of Midlothian. Tom Walsh of Westgate Valley will call upon Wally Appel of Ravisloe to choose his winners, and Bert Coghill will do the honors at Coghill. Les MacArthur and Joe Chamberlain will be in charge at Chicago Meadows, and Stanley Pelchar will turn the Twin Orchard class over to Vic Tonneson and Bert Herbster. Hap Martin and Harry Moroney will be the judges at Mission Hills, and Dave Tosh of Sunset Ridge will have the final word at Techny Fields, where Jock Anderson gave his students a final rehersal last night.

Golf Outfits for Winners.

The winners of the medal play tournament at Mission Hills Saturday will find a handsome collection of prizes awaiting them at the end of the 18 holes of play. To each of the low scorers in the five divisions THE TRIBUNE will award a golf bag and a set of clubs, while the Daily Fee association will present each victor with a playing membership good for the rest of the year on all 19 of its courses. It also will award a dozen best grade balls to winners of second and third places.

Another set of prizes awaits the same 114 in the form contest at Mid-City on July 19, when Horton Smith of Oak Park, Harry Cooper of Glen Oak, Tommy Armour of Medinah, Jock Hutchison of Glen View, Frank Walsh of Bryn Mawr, and Dick Metz of the Mill Road Farm course will sit in judgment.

GARNER RIDES THREE WINNERS AT ARLINGTON

High Quest Lame; Out of Classic.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Brookmeade stable and its famous jocky, Mack Garner, celebrated in Roman holiday fashion as Classic week opened at Arlington Park yesterday afternoon.

Brookmeade silks—that white jacket with the blue cross sashes—were carried to victory twice. Garner, the old fellow of the saddle called "Uncle" by most of the jockys in America, kicked home both of the Brookmeade color bearers with spectacular rides in the stretch.

Garner didn't stop there. He hopped aboard Miss Melody from Stuyvesant Peabody's stable and as a result of another great ride in the stretch, in which he came from behind, scored his third victory of the afternoon.

Boots Good Goods In.

All the young bucks seeking a place in the spotlight at Arlington had to take a back seat while "Uncle" Garner was putting on his spectacular exhibition.

The most important Brookmeade triumph came in the Elmwood purse at a mile. Good Goods was the winner of this race, due to the confident ride Garner gave him. Garner rushed him up from last place on the turn into the stretch, then went on to conquer the early pacemakers by three-quarters of a length.

Carbina, from the Audley farm stable, finished second and Red John, owned by Mrs. John Hertz, landed in third place after Good Goods had stepped the mile in 1:37.

High Guest Out.

Just before the running of the Elmwood, announcement was made by Bob Smith, the trainer of the Brookmeade stable, that Good Goods would be Cavalcade's running companion in the Classic on Saturday. At the same time he declared High Quest, winner of the Preakness stakes, would not start in the Classic because of lameness. According to Trainer Smith, High Quest was hurt in the hind quarters ein a nearly engagement this year. Lately he had indiccated he had recovered, but during a workout yesterday morning he was favoring his left hind leg again. This caused his withdrawal from the Classic.

Good Goods demonstrated yesterday he will be a worthy running companion of Cavalcade. He possibly could have galloped the eight furlongs in faster time had Garner brought him up a bit earlier and urged him on to greater deeds in the stretch.

Good Goods was one of the heavily backed favorites of the Arlington season and paid $3.76 for a two-dollar ticket. The people who wagered on him became a bit nervous as he trailed in the early stages, but later decided betting on him was the safest investment that has bobbed up since the Chicago racing season opened.

Special Agent Very Special.

It was the most interesting weekday program offered at Arlington this season. The better horses began going into action as early as the fourth race, which was the Exmoor purse at 5½ furlongs engaging several eligibles to the Arlington Futurity.

The winner was Special Agent, a son of Sir Gallahad III.-Malvina B., from the Brookmeade stable, which under Garner's able ride won so handily that he gave the impression he will take up in 3 year old battles next year where Cavalcade leaves off.

Garner let Special Agent trail Col. Edward R. Bradley's Born Happy until the field headed into the stretch. Then Garner picked up Special Agent much as he does Cavalcade in all his famous stretch runs. Special Agent ran the last furlong like Cavalcade, and he won by five lengths with Born Happy second and Wild Pigeon from the C. V. Whitney stable third.

Big Beau Wins.

This was Special Agent's second start. He skipped over the 5½ furlongs in 1:06, which wasn't particularly fast, but he didn't have to run any faster.

The Deerfield purse over the turf course also was a thriller with Big Beau, the winner, coming from behind to conquer Watch Him from Mrs. John Hertz's barn by half a length. Pot au Brooms, never a dangerous threat for the lead, came up in time to finish third. This was one of the most lively betting races of the season, and Big Beau was one of the outsiders at 5 to 1.

Talking It Over

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

NEW YORK, July 9.—Several gentlemen of the press have become exercised over the fact that Bill Terry and Joe Cronin, managers of the National and American league teams which clash tomorrow at the Polo grounds in the second annual All-Star game, have announced lineups that do not adhere strictly to the nation-wide poll of the fans. . . . Some of my colleagues go so far as to say this is an affront to the public and destructive to the purpose of the game.

BILL TERRY.

JOE CRONIN.

. . . If any one has a right to be outraged I am the guy, because it was my idea in the first place. . . . It happens that this department is a dissenter from this general concept and out of sympathy with those who contend that the managers have no right to give their cerebral muscles a workout. . . .

Obviously, a player who receives the greatest number of votes for his position should be included in the squad, but after that it ought to be up to the manager to decide whether he is the best man on the day of the game. . . . Physical condition must be taken into consideration. . . . So must a man's strength or weakness against left handed and right handed pitching. . . .

If Terry, for instance, does not start Chuck Klein of the Cubs in the event Cronin uses a southpaw, this should not be construed as an affront to Klein or to the fans. . . . Every one knows the Cub slugger is not himself against left handers. . . .

The fact that the leagues are determined to present their strongest lineups means that there is real rivalry and it takes rivalry to perpetuate an event like the inter-league all-star game.

Only a few of the cheaper seats at the Polo grounds were unsold tonight. . . . A sellout will mean a crowd of 53,000 and receipts of approximately $60,000. . . . Attendance last year was 49,000, capacity at Comiskey park, and the receipts were $56,378. After paying all expenses there was a net of $46,501 for the destitute players' fund. . . . Comiskey park was sold out a week in advance and at least 75,000 tickets could have been disposed of had they been available. . . . No standing room was sold last year and there will be none this year. . . .

Doc Shaeffer, trainer of the New York Giants, said today there was little possibility that Travis Jackson, Giant shortstop who was No. 1 man in the fans' vote, would be able to play. . . . He has an infected eye. . . . Floyd Vaughan of the Pirates probably will start and Billy Urbanski of the Braves will be held in reserve. . . . Two hundred winners of voting contests will attend the game as guests of various newspapers throughout the United States. . . .

Commissioner K. M. Landis and his secretary, Leslie O'Connor, who arrived from Chicago this morning, will have a conference tomorrow morning with the umpires, Dolly Stark and Cy Pfirman of the National league and Brick Owens and George Moriarty of the American. . . . The official scorers will be Harry Salsinger of the Detroit News, William Slocum of the New York American, and Daniel M. Daniel of the New York World-Telegram. . . . The American league team will be first at bat because this is the National league's home game. . . .

Graham McNamee and Ford Bond, who handled the broadcast of the Baer-Carnera fight, will be on the air for NBC, but Tom Manning of WTAM, Cleveland, will do the play by play, so the fans may have a pretty fair idea of what is going on. . . . Ted Husing and France Laux, the latter of KMOX, St. Louis, will work the game for Columbia. . . .

Writers, players and officials connected with the game today were guests of the New York chapter of the Baseball Writers' association at the Crescent Athletic Hamilton club, Huntingdon, Long Island. . . . The program included a golf meet for the Miller Huggins trophy and a ball game between the members of the New York and Brooklyn chapters for the John McGraw trophy. . . . John Heydler, president of the National league, who was too ill to attend the all-star game in Chicago last summer, took part in the day's festivities. . . . He is feeling chipper since recovering from an operation for gallstones. . . . Henry P. Edwards, service director of the American league, represented his organization. . . . President William Harridge was too busy to attend. . . . The busiest member of the American league party, however, was Miss Dorothy Hummel, Mr. Harridge's secretary, who had charge of the ticket allotment.

The president of every major league club except the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns will be here. . . . Tom Yawkey, owner of the Boston Red Sox, and Eddie Collins, general manager, are bringing over their squad as well as the complete office force. . . . President William Walker will represent the Cubs. . . . Last year this assignment was handled by the late William L. Veeck. . . . It would be a fine tribute if the 50,000 fans would stand a moment in his honor tomorrow, because without his support the all-star game never would have been realized. . . . He was the second man who heard about the idea. . . . The first was Will Harridge, American league chief. . . . Both pledged their wholehearted support from the start and they never wavered. . . . For a time it appeared the National league would back out, but due largely to Veeck's persuasion other magnates gradually saw the tremendous exploitation value the game would develop and one by one they gave their consent. . . .

Buck O'Neil will do the announcing over the loud speaker system. He doesn't need an amplifying system to make himself heard. . . . The National league will hold its annual midsummer meeting Wednesday. . . .

Joe Cronin will hold a conference with his players at the Commodore hotel tomorrow morning. . . . Joe McCarthy, manager of the Yankees, and Connie Mack of the Athletics, who managed the American league all-stars last year, have been invited to attend. . . . Mack will be absent, for he is taking his ball club to Brookfield, Mass., his home town, for an exhibition game. . . . The National league players will meet with Bill Terry in the Polo grounds clubhouse at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. . . . Bill McKechnie and Casey Stengel, coaches, will assist Terry at the session.

Ten Years Ago Today—The U. S. track team strengthened its hold on first place in the Olympic standings by winning two events. . . . Emil Thiery was chosen referee of the Lewis-Romano wrestling match. . . . Francis T. Hunter was lost to the U. S. Olympic tennis team when he suffered a fractured hand. . . . Johnny Dundee, featherweight title holder, was ordered by the New York commission to box Kid Kaplan. . . .

Boston, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—Patsy Perroni, former Cleveland heavyweight, now operating out of Boston, defeated Jack McCarthy of Boston tonight in a 10 round bout which opened the outdoor season. Perroni weighed 135½, and McCarthy, who did not win a round, came in at 190.

LONDON, July 9.—Primo Carnera will be offered a bout with the winner of the fight to be held July 11, between Jack Peterson and Larry Gains, Jeff Dickson, European sports promoter, announced today. Dickson will sail for New York Wednesday to meet with the deposed heavyweight champion.

TORONTO POUNDS TINNING IN NINTH, WHIPS CUBS, 5-4

National Leaguers Held to Eight Hits.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toronto, Ont., July 9.—The Toronto Maple Leafs of the International league scored three runs off Bud Tinning in the ninth today and defeated the Chicago Cubs in an exhibition game, 5 to 4. Toronto scored all its runs in the last three innings, overcoming a four run lead which the Cubs held at the end of the sixth.

The Cubs started Roy Joiner, their only southpaw pitcher. He was succeeded by Guy Bush in the sixth, and Bush gave way to Tinning, the losing pitcher, in the eighth.

The National leaguers scored three runs off Al Hollingsworth, Toronto pitcher, in the fifth. In the sixth the Cubs added another tally, but Hollingsworth was a puzzle to them in the other innings. Hollingsworth yielded eight hits while the Maple Leafs gathered one more off the three Cub pitchers. Score:

Chicago	000	031	000	4	8	0

Batteries—Joiner, Bush, Tinning and Tate; Hollingsworth and Crouch.

VACATION FOR SOX

The White Sox, after taking three jolts on the chin in four chances at Cleveland, returned home yesterday morning for a three day vacation. Except for a little practice they have nothing to do until Thursday when the Athletics appear here for a five game series which will terminate with a double header next Sunday.

Manager Jim Dykes, who is busy with the all-star affair at New York, hopes that upon his return he'll find among those available an able bodied infielder, so that Joe Chamberlin can be returned to the bench. Dykes' only chance to realize this hope is Luke Appling, who has about recovered from a sprained ankle. The team owns no other extra infielder.

If Appling should play Thursday, or whenever he does play, he probably will go to second base instead of his old job at short. There are excellent reasons for this. Dykes, who has been playing second, prefers to go back to third to end Chamberlin's agonies. The manager also prefers to let Bob Boken continue at short, where he performs fairly well. At second he was almost a total loss.

George Earnshaw, who pitched well enough against the Indians last Thursday but was the victim of the poor team support, will throw the opener against the Athletics.

CHOCOLATE ASKS RESTORATION OF CHAMPIONSHIP

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Lou Chocolate, Cuban prize fighter, today asked the New York state athletic commission to restore his title as featherweight champion. The commission last winter withdrew its recognition of Chocolate as titleholder in the division.

The request was made as Chocolate visited the commission offices to be examined for his bout with Petey Hayes at Brooklyn Wednesday. The Cuban was assured his application would be considered at the commission's meeting to be held the day of the Hayes fight. The reason given for the withdrawal of recognition was that Chocolate had made no effort to fight within the prescribed time limit.

HARVARD STARTS JAPAN TRIP BY BUS TO CHICAGO

Cambridge, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—Harvard's first baseball invasion of Japan and way stations will start Wednesday night when a party of 14 players, Henry Chauncey, coach and faculty representative, and Manager Hugh Tatlock board a Chicago-bound bus.

The Crimson players are scheduled to arrive in Chicago Friday. After being received by the Harvard club there the team will entrain for San Francisco. They expect to reach the coast July 17. After working out twice on the Stanford diamond at Palo Alto, Harvard will sail for Honolulu on the Tatsuta Maru of the N. Y. K. line July 18.

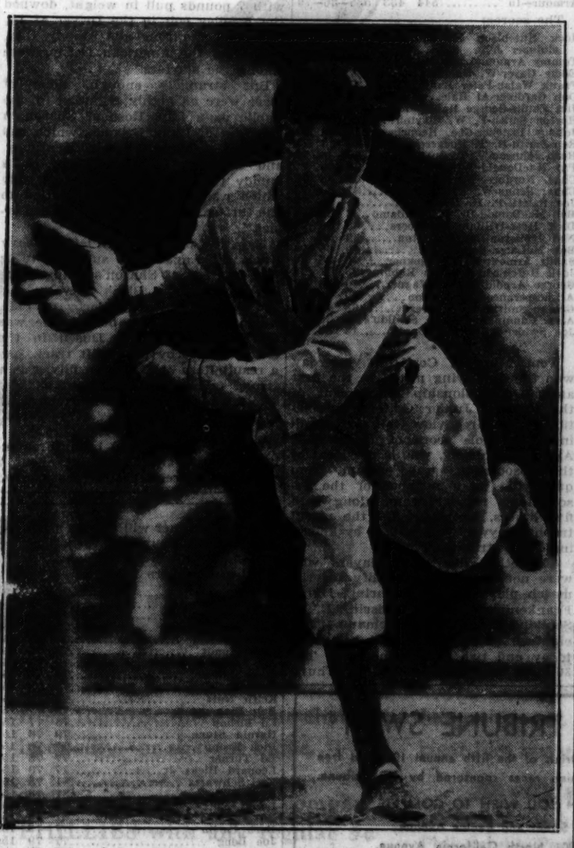
Carl Hubbell, New York Giants' southpaw, will start game for National league all-stars against American league at the Polo Grounds today.



Another lefty, Vernon Gomez of the New York Yankees, will be on the mound for American leaguers. Gomez has won 14 and lost 2 this year; Hubbell 12 and 5.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—Two great left handed pitchers, Vernon [Goofy] Gomez of Rodeo, Cal., and the New York Yankees, and Carl Owen Hubbell of Meeker, Okla., and the New York Giants, are scheduled to be the opposing pitchers at the outset of the all-star baseball game between the American and National leagues at the Polo grounds tomorrow afternoon.

Advance ticket sales tonight indicated a crowd of 53,602, the capacity of the park. Last season 49,000 filled Comiskey park in Chicago to see the first all-star game, won by the American league, 4 to 2.

Hundreds of thousands of fans in all parts of the country will listen to broadcasts of the game over NBC and CBS radio hookups. There appeared to be no favorite in the betting; while every baseball follower had his choice, they seemed to be evenly lined up on each side of the fence.

Don't Look the Part.

Neither Gomez nor Hubbell conforms to the story book conception of a high powered pitcher. Each is a skinny guy. Gomez looks and dresses like a movie palace hoofer and Hubbell looks like young bank officials used to look when the bankers' trade was happy and dignified. The San Francisco club had to send Gomez to a health resort and fatten him up a few pounds before they put him on the market in 1929. Hubbell carries only 170 pounds on his six foot frame, but never has been fed by force as Gomez was.

These two little men will face the beef, strong men of baseball tomorrow afternoon. And each is unafraid. Each has learned that strength availeth a hitter nothing unless he hits the ball squarely. Vernon and Carl both have discovered artifices through which they have been able to prevent large, muscular fellows from hitting with any success whatsoever.

What a Record!

Gomez, who has won 14 games this year while losing 2, is a speedball pitcher, despite his lack of heft. But he has a wide assortment of stuff, including that asset so elusive to many left handers [and right handers], control.

Manager Bill Terry of the National league team is being quoted as telling how his team loves speed of the Gomez brand. Gomez was the winning pitcher in the first all-star game, in Chicago July 3 last year, and none of the National leaguers showed any great brutality toward the slight Californian. Chick Hafey, who is not on this year's squad, made the first of two hits allowed by Gomez. Terry made the other one, a slice to left field. The National leaguers did not score during Gomez's tenancy.

Carl's Plenty Tough, Too.

Hubbell, who has won 12 games while losing five, relies a great deal on his screw ball, but he also has a variety of less tricky speeders. He usually has great control.

Carl pitched the last two innings in the Chicago Game of the Century. He allowed only one hit, and that by Jimmy Dykes, who has been given the go-by as a starter tomorrow, despite an overwhelming fan vote. In the game last year Hubbell walked Lou Gehrig on four pitches, but he checked this off later by fanning Ben Chapman on three pitches.

Terry Starts Right Handers.

MISS WILLIAMS LEADS WESTERN JUNIOR WITH 80

Shoots 2 Over Women's Par to Set Record.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Ellamae Williams, whose father is Eddie Williams, the tall River Forest Country club professional, caused eyes scanning the scoreboard at the Park Ridge Country club to blink yesterday, when she turned up with a dandy 80 to win the qualifying medal in the 15th annual Junior tournament of the Women's Western Golf association. The 80, worth a few blinks on any golf course, considering that Ellamae is only 17, was just two strokes over women's par and established a qualifying record for the event.

That wasn't the only record shattered, either. Proof of the constantly increasing interest in women's golf and an indication that a new generation of par shooters is in the making was shown in the number of players —46—the largest entry in the history of the association. The field was so large, in fact, that the board decided to include 16 in the championship flight, instead of eight, as originally scheduled. Three other flights also will begin match play today, with the losers entering consolation play.

Four Under 90.

In addition to Miss Williams' 80, three other cards under 90 were submitted, all by players under 18, the tournament age limit. These included an 83 by Eleanor Dudley of Ridge, an 86 by Hilda Livengood, the Danville girl who registers from Flossmoor, and 88 by Josephine Souchek of Big Oaks, the new fee course champion.

Par—Out	555	534	454—40
Par—In	543	535	535—38—78
Williams—Out	456	526	463—41
Williams—In	444	536	535—39—80
Dudley—Out	548	634	544—43
Dudley—In	453	345	745—40—83
Livengood—Out	657	655	452—45
Livengood—In	553	435	655—41—86

In her first match today, Miss Williams will meet Alice Ann Anderson of Kenosha, Wis., the defending champion, who shot a 92 yesterday. The River Forest girl trimmed her 1933 score, a 92, by 12 strokes yesterday. In a recent practice round for the tournament she went around in 83, shooting a 38, 2 under par, for the first 9. Yesterday she scored 4 birdies and was over par on 5 holes. She clipped par at the 1st, which she reached in 2; deuced the 5th with a 20 foot putt, and drove the 210 yard 9th for another birdie. She was a yard from the pin with her third shot on the 10th. She dubbed shots to the 3d and 6th and three putted the 8th. Coming home, she dubbed her drive to the 12th, and was in a trap at the 15th.

The pairings for the match play in the championship, first and second flights, today follow:

Hutchison and Leininger Win Medinah Event

Jock Hutchison Jr. of Glen View and Walter Leininger Jr. of Westward Ho defeated a big field of professionals and amateurs in the Chicago District Golf association's monthly pro-amateur tournament over No. 3 course at Medinah yesterday. They shot a best ball of 34—33—67.

Tommy Armour, Medinah pro, and Larry Rutherford, one of Medinah's best amateurs, had 34—36—70, to tie for second and third with Eddie Gayer and William Goldman of Westmoor, 37—33—70.

Tommy Armour was the best individual scorer, carding two under par with his 34—36—70. Young Jock had a 73. Leininger was helpful to his team, winning four holes. At the 308 yard 15th Jock drove eight yards past the pin and got down for a par 3. The two youngsters had six birdies, three on each end. At the first, Hutchison ran in a 25 foot putt for the first birdie. The others were made on short putts.

Tom Murphy, Cog-Hill, yesterday won the qualifying medal in the first annual championship tournament of the Chicago Junior Golfers' association at the Greenview Golf club, carding a 36 hole score of 71—74—145. Although Murphy, who is president of the association, was exempt from qualifying as a member of the association's regular team, along with five others, he played for the medal trophy, anyway. He won it by knocking three strokes off par.

The other five team players who were not required to qualify for the match play are Art Doehring, Harry Frankenberg, Frank Ghiselli, E. O. Schildberg, and Ken Heilemann. Two eighteen hole matches will be played today and two more tomorrow. The 36 hole final is scheduled for Thursday. ARLINGTON CLASSICS—1929.

To that end it was determined $60,000 should be added to nomination and starting fees with $10,000 bonus if the winner also was winner of the Kentucky or American Derbies or Belmont stakes. This was the largest added money stake in turf history for 3 year olds.

Then came discussion of a name. The race, in reality, was a Derby as we know Derbies in this country, although few of them are at the true Derby distance of one and one-half miles. But already there were half a dozen Derbies being run at various tracks. Moreover, the name American Derby, feature of the old Washington Park meeting, was not available. So it finally was decided to name the event the Classic stakes, now commonly called the Arlington Classic.

Usually by July, form of 3 year olds is pretty well established unless some late comer enters the scene. Through fortuitous circumstances the title claims of 1929 were topsy-turvy. Clyde Van Dusen had surprised by beating E. R. Bradley's Blue Larkspur in the Kentucky Derby over a muddy track. Dr. Freeland had won the Preakness. Meantime Blue Larkspur had taken the Belmont and seemed in a fair way to regain his prestige when Gray Coat, with 7 pounds pull in weight, downed the Bradley colt in the Dwyer at 1½ miles. These four and Windy City, winner of the American Derby, were among the starters.

But strangely enough, none of these were as highly regarded by the public as a filly, Rose of Sharon, a daughter of Light Brigade, which had won the Ashland, Illinois, Kentucky, and Latonia Oaks, the latter on a muddy track. Here then was a filly which was to prove the exception to the turf axiom, "Fillies don't win Derbies."

Rain the previous day left a heavy track. This again was supposed to be just to Rose of Sharon's liking. Blue Larkspur, son of Black Servant, second in the Kentucky Derby of 1921, was under suspicion because he was fourth to Clyde Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby on a soft track. As a result Rose of Sharon, a filly, was a strong favorite at equivalent odds of 3 to 2 when the field of fourteen went to the post.

Classic morning had been threatening, but the sun came out about 2 o'clock to greet the largest crowd attracted to a Chicago course since the old days, probably the largest in local history up to that time. The racing surface was sticky and holding rather than sloppy, a trying course for the thoroughbreds.

On this kind of a track Rose of Sharon never was a serious contender, finishing twelfth, just ahead of the American Derby winner, Windy City. Blue Larkspur early showed he could negotiate the sticky loam. Once Jocky Mack Garner gave him his head he showed convincing superiority by romping to a five length victory with Live Oak, a field horse, in second place two and one-half lengths ahead of Clyde Van Dusen which had three lengths over Dr. Freeland, Preakness winner.

Blue Larkspur paid $7.20 on a $2 ticket to win, Live Oak $8.30 for place, and Clyde Van Dusen $5 to show. The mile and one-quarter was run in 2:14 2-5, evidence of the holding character of the racing strip. Net value of the stake to the winner was $59,900. As turf followers remember, Blue Larkspur became 3 year old champion of 1929 with total winnings of $153,450.

LITTLE RETURNS HOME TWICE TO SAN FRANCISCO

San Francisco, Cal., July 9.—(AP)—Lawson Little, British amateur golf champion, returned home today to receive the city's welcome for winning the oldest and most coveted links crown.

What escaped the knowledge of the official greeting party of civic and sporting leaders was that the chunky, curly haired youth had set foot in the city twice within 12 hours.

He rambled into town last night in his dust covered coupe, unheralded and unsung. Not wishing to spoil the party arranged for him, Little recrossed the bay this morning and returned on the ferry on which he was scheduled to arrive. He had driven the 1,400 miles from Colorado Springs in two days, leaving Saturday.

Mayor Rossi presented Little with a huge gold colored key to the city. The speech makers all had their say. When it came Lawson's turn, with the huge British amateur championship cup behind him, he said: "I'm glad to be back home. This is the greatest reception I've had."

200 Open Play in Western Amateur Golf

Oklahoma City, Okla., July 9.—[Special.]—A field of more than 200, one that may establish an all time record when the late entries are listed, will begin play tomorrow over the Twin Hills Country club course in the 35th annual amateur tournament of the Western Golf association.

The field includes some of amateur golfdoms Four Hundred. Heading the list are Jack Westland, the defending champion and member of America's Walker cup team, of Sunset Ridge club, Chicago; Charley Yates, Atlanta, national collegiate champion; Leland Hamman, the Waco, Tex., mite who won the trans-Mississippi title last week; and Rodney Bliss, Omaha, the Nebraska state champion.

Goodman Pulls Out.

Little and Johnny Goodman, 1933 National Open champion, were expected to compete, but did not enter. Little is out on the Pacific coast where he is being given a belated celebration for winning the British amateur crown, while Goodman, after playing a practice round here last week, left without filing an entry or explanation.

The tournament will open tomorrow with the first 18 holes of qualifying play. A second 18 will be played Wednesday and match play begins Thursday. The championship will be decided after Sunday's 36 hole final.

Officials predict it will take a score of 152 or better to qualify, despite the many hazards on the course.

Some of those who have played practice rounds over Twin Hills say it is extremely difficult. It measures 6,280 yards, par 70, with trees and gorges forming the bulk of the hazards. The fairways are narrow and lightning fast from the long drouth, and it will require accurate tee shots to accumulate low scores.

Westland Shoots 74.

Westland, who does not have to qualify, shot the course in 74, par 35, going out, and 39 on the return trip, in a practice round today. Johnny Lehman of Olympia Fields, Chicago, 1930 champion, playing with Westland, turned in a 76.

In addition to Westland and Lehman, Chicago is represented by Art Sweet, Hank Bowbeer, and Jimmy Gerard of Skokie Country club. Johnny Dawson, Glen Oak veteran, played several practice rounds yesterday and today, but has not yet entered.

Sonny Manarchy, young Italian from Rockford, Ill., hitch-hiked his way to Oklahoma City to play in the tourney. He "rode the rods" to Springfield, Ill., two weeks ago, for the state amateur tournament.

The best practice score turned in was that by Grabel Duvall of Kansas City, who toured the course in 69. Spec Stewart, the New Mexico champion, had a 70; Hamman, 73; Bombeer, 72; Sweet, 75; Yates, 77, and Walter Emery, 1933 national collegiate champion and one of Oklahoma City's outstanding contenders, 72.

SPALDINGS IN LEAGUE.

A. G. Spaldings' softball team has replaced the Retail Clerks' Union team in the Chicagoland Major Softball league, it was announced yesterday by the National Softball association.

Black and Gibbs Battle Tonight in Western Ring

George Black, Milwaukee, Wis., 155 pound boxer, will make his second Chicago appearance in an eight round bout tonight against Jack Gibbs, Orange, Tex., at Western stadium, Western and Devon avenues. Black impressed fans when he held Solly Dukelsky to a draw at Northwest stadium last month.

Lou Taylor, Davenport, Ia., lightweight, will meet Lou Terry, St. Louis, Mo., for five rounds. Terry whipped Danny Neenan last week at Western. Taylor is lanky and possesses a left jab to the head which is expected to cause Terry considerable distress.

Curtis Brown, who quit boxing to become a promoter at Milwaukee, will return to the ring tonight against Joe Serletic in a four round encounter at 150 pounds. Steve Pajdo will face Vincent Satkoff, and Sammy Donnell will clash with Farmer Lons in two of three other contests.

Golden Gloves and Catholic Youth organization boxers will appear in eight amateur bouts tomorrow night at Ashland arena, George Holden, Geneva, Ill., welterweight, is paired against George Nelson for five rounds. Walter Matthys, St. Charles, Ill., featherweight, will meet Tony Caputa. Other matches will involve Charles Wozniak, Paul Shinks, Ray Wozniak, Joe Minnecci and James Doyle. Frank Talaber will wrestle Stan Smik.

An Illinois athletic commission physician yesterday pronounced Stanislaus Loayza in fine physical condition for his 10 round main bout with Davey Day at Sparta stadium tomorrow. The examination is a usual procedure when a boxer appears for license renewal. Loayza engaged in an encounter here four years ago against Tony Canzoneri. His manager, Charlie Rose, said that the veteran Chilean retains his old skill and will surprise Day tomorrow.

Jackie Sharkey, Minneapolis, Minn., 128 pounder, and Sammy Mosco, Omaha, Neb., were signed yesterday to engage in the eight round semi-final.

Steve Halaiko, Buffalo, N. Y., welterweight, who will meet Harry Dublinsky in a 10 round bout on the benefit card at Wrigley field July 18, was a member of the American boxing team which competed in the 1928 Olympic games at Amsterdam, Holland. Halaiko, winner of the National A. A. U. lightweight title, reached the semi-finals. He turned professional the following year. Steve has engaged in 61 pro contests, winning 47, 16 by knockouts, and losing 11. He has fought three draws.

Otis Thomas, 1934 Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, will meet Ivan Green in a five round amateur bout tonight at Savoy arena, 47th street and South Park way. There will be seven other contests.

King Levinsky, Chicago heavyweight, who was suspended by the California boxing commission after a fight with Art Lasky at Los Angeles, remains in good standing in Illinois, Chairman Joe Triner of the state board announced yesterday. The Illinois commission, which has a working agreement with California, refused to concur in the suspension, because Levinsky did not violate any rules or regulations, Triner said.

ENTRIES CLOSE TONIGHT FOR 2 TRIBUNE SWIMS

California, Sherman Park Events First.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

This is the last opportunity for boys and girls to enter the 100 yard swimming races sponsored by The Tribune at Sherman park and California park. Entries for these sections of the fifth annual meet closes tonight at midnight.

Entries will be accepted until midnight next Monday for the preliminaries at Cermak pool and Whealan pool.

The Sherman park races will be held Saturday in the pool at 52d street and Racine avenue. This is the natural place for entry of all south side contestants, although they are welcome to compete in any other section of the city if they wish to make the longer trip. On Sunday afternoon, the north side trials will be held at California park, 3901 North California avenue. In both cases, however, the losers in the races at these two parks cannot enter the meets at Cermak and Whealan pools.

Free Admission to Pool.

Notices will be mailed not later than Thursday to all contestants who have entered the races this week. The trials will start at 2 o'clock each afternoon and the swimmers will be assigned to preliminary heats an hour earlier. The instructions also will include permission to use the pools without charge.

Each contestant who reports and proves his ability to swim 100 yards will receive the official merit badge. Those who qualify in the ten age classes for the finals at Lincoln park lagoon on July 29 will be awarded gold badges. The usual gold, silver, and bronze championship medals are the awards for the finals. No swimmer can enter the meet at Lincoln park, which will be held in conjunction with a water carnival of crew and canoe racing, exhibitions of diving, and other aquatic feats, without qualifying at one of the four preliminary centers.

Everybody Is Welcome.

Regardless of residence, all boys and girls from 11 years of age upward are eligible to compete for these prizes. The entry list to date indicates widespread interest, comparable with other years, and when final returns are in six days from now it is likely that this year's number of contestants will exceed the 1933 record.

Most important now is the entry blank which appears daily in this section. If you think you can swim faster than any one in your neighborhood, or if you wish to win a merit badge to prove you can swim 100 yards, mail your entry today. It's the last chance to swim at Sherman park or California park.

Iowa May Name New Athletic Director Today

Iowa City, Ia., July 9.—[Special.]—An athletic director to succeed E. H. Lauer at the University of Iowa will be appointed tomorrow by the state board of education. It was learned tonight. The appointment will be made by the state board at its meeting in Ames, Ia.

Ossie Solem, head football coach, is the popular choice for the position, but there was some doubt that the board of education would burden him with two positions. Members of the athletic board have expressed their preference for Solem, but his appointment has met with some opposition among the university deans.

The athletic director's position includes the duties as head of the department of physical education and the dean's opposition has been based on what they call Solem's lack of "academic accourtrements" for the latter job. It is possible the state board will appoint Solem an athletic director and name an assistant to take charge of the physical education work.

Lauer will leave the university Aug. 1 to become dean of liberal arts at the University of Washington.

MAJOR LEAGUE ALL-STAR TEAMS BATTLE TODAY

It now appears that Terry will have one companion in his left handed swinging in Arky Vaughan. Arky, who has a batting mark of .355 as compared to Travis Jackson's .281, is expected to start because Jackson is suffering from an eye infection which kept him out of the Giants' game yesterday.

The two starting lineups are about on a par in batting power, whatever edge there is going to the American league. The combined average of its eight regulars is .344, while the National's average, exclusive of the pitcher, is .341.

The extent to which substitutions will be made by the two managers is highly problematical. Cronin has said he will make no substitutions except those dictated by normal, everyday strategy. It is not held likely, however, that he would request Gomez to go all the way unless Gomez and the Yanks asked for the assignment. And it's a cinch Manager Terry is not going to overwork Hubbell, mainstay of his own team. Terry yelled murder at Hubbell's appearance in last year's game, and probably would have kept Carl out of it had he been as big a shot as he thought he was before he was ordered to have Hubbell on the ground ready to pitch.

How Are These for Subs?

The two managers have little to worry about when they do need replacements, however. Here's the list of stars who will be on the bench:

American league — Jimmy Dykes, White Sox; Mickey Cochrane, Athletics; Jimmy Foxx, Athletics; Rick Ferrell, Red Sox; Ben Chapman, Yankees; Sammy West, Browns, and Earl Averill, Indians, for field and bat duty. Charley Ruffing, Yankees; Mel Harder, Indians; Tommy Bridges, Tigers, and Jack Russell, Senators, for pitching duty.

National league — Billy Herman, Cubs; Al Lopez, Dodgers; Chuck Klein, Cubs; Pepper Martin, Cardinals; Mel Ott, Giants; Paul Waner, Pirates; Travis Jackson, Giants, and Pitchers Lon Warneke, Cubs; Dizzy Dean, Cardinals; Van Mungo, Dodgers, and Fred Frankhouse, Braves.

Terry spent an hour today working out with the New York Giants, while Cronin was in conference with William Harridge, president of the American league.

Players began arriving from major league cities where they played yesterday. The American league team will meet with Cronin at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Commodore hotel, while Terry has ordered the National leaguers to report at the Polo grounds at 11 o'clock.

Gate To Reach $60,000.

The National league, being the home team, will bat last. In the event of rain, the game will be played Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, eastern standard time.

Gross receipts are expected to exceed $60,000. The net proceeds will go to the fund for needy and disabled players.

President Harridge, spoke his piece for the supporters of Gomez, Ruth, Simmons, et al. "With the lineup that we have, I can't see how the American league team can lose," he said.

But John Heydler, National league president, was equally unable to see how Hubbell, Terry, Traynor, and the rest could be defeated.

Judge K. M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, had to take a middle course. Asked if he had any preference, Landis said: "I'm the one person in 120,000,000 who can't express himself on that. I'm just hoping the weather will be clear."

FIREMEN'S NINE AND COLUMBUS CLASH TODAY

The Columbus, O., Firemen's baseball team, accompanied by a 35 piece band and city officials, arrived yesterday to open a two game series with the Chicago fire department team at Comiskey Park this afternoon.

Proceeds of the games will go to the Firemen's Benefit fund. The second game of the series will be played tomorrow at Wrigley Field. Mayor Edward Kelly will throw out the first ball at today's contest.

Roy Gutcher will be Manager Chester Sullivan's pitching choice for the Chicago team today. He will be opposed by Bockman of Columbus. The lineup:

Vanitie Beats Yankee in 23 Mile Event

Newport, R. I., July 9.—[Special.]—The yacht Vanitie today defeated the Yankee contender for the America's cup defense by 7 minutes and 37 seconds. The race for the Puritan cup was run off Newport.

Vanitie, an old cup defender, overcame an early lead held by Charles Francis Adams' Yankee, and at the 15½ mile mark had sailed into an advantage of nine minutes. Adams' craft apparently had veered from the course in search for wind. The Yankee lead at the completion of the first five and one-half miles of the 23 mile triangular course, was 36 seconds.

The Yankee was the only one of three American candidates for defense of the America's cup which competed today for the Puritan trophy, offered for the 42d time by the Eastern Yacht club.

The Rainbow, owned by Harold S. Vanderbilt, and Frederick Prince's Weetamoe were held at Bristol, where alternations are being made to bring the sloops within the rules concerning Class J construction. The latter sloop already has had instaled a lighter centerboard, and work on the Rainbow is nearly completed.

ENDEAVOUR BEATS VELSHEDA.

TORQUAY, Eng., July 9.—(AP)—Endeavour, taking her final tuning up trials before rerigging for the voyage across the Atlantic to Newport, R. I., to challenge for the America's cup, today defeated Velsheda, her foremost trial horse by two minutes in a 10 mile windward and leeward race.

Australians Score 423 Runs for Eight Wickets

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANCHESTER, England, July 9.—The Australian cricket team today scored 423 runs to the first innings score of England, 627 for nine wickets, declared. The visitors suffered the loss of eight wickets in the third test match. One more day of play remains before the time limit expires.

Mack Returns to Boyhood Home Today

North Brookfield, Mass., July 9.—(AP)—While the baseball spotlights shine on the all-star game in New York tomorrow, one of the game's patriarchs, Connie Mack, will be in this little town, revisiting the scenes of his boyhood as he celebrates the 51st anniversary of the start of his career.

Early tomorrow Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics will step off the first Pullmans that ever intentionally stopped here, into the arms of a reception committee headed by George M. Cohan, idol of the American stage and one of baseball's most faithful followers.

Honor Old Rival.

Although the Brookfields, North, South, East, and West, have named this long-awaited Connie Mack day, it will really be dedicated to the memory of another old-time ball player, Marty Bergin, a boyhood friend of the Philadelphia manager, who has been dead 34 years.

"I was born in East Brookfield," Mack explained today, "but the game will be played in North Brookfield because that was Martin Bergin's home town."

Back After 51 Years.

First of all, Mack, Cohan and the Athletics will visit Bergin's grave, unveil a memorial for that one-time National league catcher, who once played for Boston, and then move on to the ball park where the Athletics will play an exhibition game with the North Brookfield Armortreds, a semi-pro team. Cohan, whose earliest summers were spent here, will be master of ceremonies.

Few of those who, back in 1883, cheered Connie as he ended his amateur days by playing for North Brookfield against its traditional enemies from East Brookfield will be able to welcome him on his first trip home in 51 years. Four years ago he attended a testimonial banquet in nearby Spencer, but that is the nearest he has been to his birthplace since he entered professional baseball.

COALS MEET GIANTS.

RIGHTMEIER WINS 8 ROUND BATTLE AT WHITE CITY

Everett [Young] Rightmeier, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, whipped Freddy Penn, Omaha, Neb., Indian, in an eight round battle last night at White City. Johnny Stanton, Minneapolis, Minn., junior welterweight, and Joey Klekо, Chicago, fought eight rounds to a draw.

Rain fell during the intermission prior to the Rightmeier-Penn battle, and Promoter Johnny Coulon shifted it to the adjacent indoor arena. Attendance was estimated at 800 and receipts approximately $400. Preliminary results:

Joe O'Signac beat George Trapp [4].
Tony Zale beat Lou Bartel [4].
Ray Borce beat Eddie Jackson [4].

LENNY COHEN BEATS FIERRO IN 8 ROUNDS

Lenny Cohen, rangy 116 pound boxer, scored his fifth consecutive triumph last night in the windup bout at Marigold Gardens, defeating Harry Fierro, who substituted for Johnny Gaudes of Milwaukee. Fierro, who weighed 120, was the aggressor most of the fight, but he was unable to elude Cohen's right crosses to the jaw. Cohen was awarded the decision after eight rounds. A crowd of 1,100 paid $756 to witness the contest. Mickey Beal scored his eighth victory in a row in a five round semi-final against Jimmy Eliopoulos. Results:

Mike [Little Pal] Primitch beat Jimmy Richards [4].
Tod Kelly beat Al Schiarato [4].
Bob La Monte and Ed Stiegal drew [4].

Londos Cool to $40,000 Offer to Meet Lewis

Joe Foley, general manager of the Chicago Stadium Operating company, yesterday offered Ed White, manager of Jim Londos, wrestling champion, a guarantee of $40,000 or a privilege of 40 per cent of the net gate receipts for a title encounter between Londos and Ed [Strangler] Lewis, former champion. The offer was made at a meeting of the Illinois athletic commission.

White did not believe it was sufficient and suggested that two weeks grace be given in order to give other promoters a chance to bid. The commission then ordered White, Londos, Lewis, and the latter's manager, Joe [Toots] Mondt, to appear on July 23 for a final hearing. Foley stated he would deposit a check for $10,000, 25 per cent of his guarantee, with the commission on that day.

Lewis Charges Stall.

When Lewis, who posted a $1,000 check as proof of his sincerity, expressed the belief that White was only attempting to delay matters, Chairman Joe Triner declared that the proposed match must be held within 60 days.

Londos' manager said that the time limit was not satisfactory, for the champion was booked solidly for the next two months throughout the northwest and in California. After a little discussion 90 days was the time limit agreed upon.

Revive Old Argument.

The main debate yesterday was the old one about Lewis' alleged refusal to wrestle Londos at Los Angeles, Cal., in 1932 after Jim had signed for the encounter. According to White, Londos was to be given $60,000 by Promoter Lou Daro and that is the sum he expects to receive for the impending match.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 9.—(AP)—Mike Barto of New Kensington, Pa., stopped Joey Wilson of Cleveland tonight after a minute and 50 seconds of fighting in the first round. Harry Weekly, Alliance, O., beat Dominick Mancini of Pittsburgh in six rounds.

Any PHILLIES smoker . . any dealer . . can tell you why this cigar is the sensation of the industry. It has the tobacco—and the flavor—that most men like and demand.

Havana? Yes . . long-filler Havana—and exactly the same quantity as when millions gladly paid 10c for the same cigar. When the price of Bayuk PHILLIES was reduced from 10c to 5c there was no change in quality—or size—or shape.

That's why you can't compare PHILLIES with any regular 5c cigar—or any cigar made of tobaccos ordinarily used in 5c cigars.

When you first try PHILLIES—remember this. You are smoking the cigar that pleases the taste of more men than any other brand in America—a cigar that contains, in addition to Havana, the finest domestic and imported tobaccos grown. There is no other cigar like Bayuk PHILLIES.

Bayuk's Guarantee

In 1929—a peak sales year—the Bayuk Philadelphia Perfecto (Familiarly known as "Philadelphia Hand-made") was the largest-selling 10-cent brand in America.

JOCKY CAN'T GET INTO TRACK; IT'S THAT MUSTACHE!

But McCoy Won't Shave It Till He Wins.

The losing streak of Jocky Jimmy McCoy almost caused him to buy an admission ticket to the Arlington track yesterday.

A little more than three weeks ago Jocky McCoy broke a long losing streak by riding a winner at Washington park. "I'll let my mustache grow until I win another," McCoy told his friends.

His mustache still is growing, for he hasn't won a race since. When he appeared at the track yesterday for admission his mustache had reached the eight-inch "western sherif" type.

The man at the gate stopped the jocky and wanted to know who was trying to enter.

"I'm Jocky McCoy," was the reply.

"Get out," said the gate keeper, "we've got no jockies riding here who wear a mustache."

Finally, John McFarland, in charge of Arlington park police, came along, recognized McCoy despite his mustache, and the veteran Kentucky pilot soon was out on the track galloping horses.

Jocky Earl Steffen received a painful injury to his right shoulder while exercising Fairbypair over the turf course Sunday morning and was forced to cancel his riding engagements yesterday.

Stuyvesant Peabody's silks were carried to their first victory of the Arlington park season in the third race yesterday by Miss Melody. Jocky Mack Garner gave her a rousing ride in the stretch and she beat Fair Image by half a length.

Arthur O'Connell has returned to his duties as manager of the Post and Paddock club after a three day illness.

Dale Edwards, one of the most promising apprentice riders developed in Texas this year, has arrived at Arlington park to ply his trade. He rode his first winner late in April, and since then has taken 35 trips past the winning post.

Dick and Pat Nash and their friends had occasion to celebrate after the running of the first race. Commandant, a son of General Lee-Twin Sister, carried their green jacket to victory at odds of nearly 10 to 1.

California Ships Grasshoppers to Chicago Fishers

BY BOB BECKER.

The fact that California is now shipping thousands of grasshoppers into Chicago is just another interesting development in the sport of fishing. At first thought there seems to be no logical reason for anybody wanting California's grasshoppers. However, this grasshopper trafic is another move to get Illinois fishermen to invest in a specially treated and effective bait.

Bluegills, rock bass, sunfish, and other species fall naturally for these California grasshoppers, as anglers are learning every week.

Just what the grasshopper game is going to do to the live bait market is anybody's guess. Here in Chicagoland there is a group of merchants dealing in night crawlers, minnows, crawfish and other forms of bait for weekend fishermen.

In Michigan and other states you find the same business being followed by scores of people. Signs along the highways advise motoring fishermen where they can purchase worms and minnows. Apparently there is a big demand for live bait in spite of the fact that tackle manufacturers are turning out a magnificent assortment of artificial lures that are wonderful fish foolers.

In recent years there has been a noticeable trend toward devising not only a variety of tricky, long lived artificial lures, but also many products that cater to bait fishermen. Today even carp fishermen do not have to cook dough balls, because there are special carp baits on the market. The fellow who likes to catch catfish has been kept in mind, because now we have highly scented catfish baits. We had a whiff of a small box of these baits the other day and we are convinced catfish should smell this lure anywhere from two rods to two miles away.

Now come California grasshoppers to swell the list of queer baits. How these insects are treated we do not know, but we'd like to find out because they are so tough, so clean and so odorless. There is at least one marked economic advantage in using grasshoppers for fishing. Each of the insects utilized by disciples of Izaak Walton [Walton was primarily a bait fisherman] is one less to feed upon the farmer's crops.

WILD REIGH began sluggishly, gained rapidly after three-eighths, came around the leaders in the stretch and was ready to draw out. SETH POLANTE, raced to the front early, continued gamely, was headed eighth where he gave way, badly forcing JASCHA wide and for which he was disqualified. LADY LAMARNE began slowly, saved ground while moving up and closed resolutely in the drive. JASCHA, a keen contender to the stretch, failed to keep up after being impeded.

U. S. SEEKS CUT IN WHEAT CROP DESPITE DROUTH

Second Year Plan to Duplicate First.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Undaunted by nature's interference this year, the farm planners of the agricultural adjustment administration prepared today to seek another fifteen per cent cut in the national wheat acreage next year.

Despite the sharp reduction in reserve grain stocks which is expected to result from drouth damage to the current wheat crop, the AAA announced that its second wheat control program will be aimed at the same goal as its first one. The announcement upset earlier intimations that the farm administration intended to diminish its acreage reduction percentage in the 1934-35 program because carryover stocks of grain will be seriously impaired by the short wheat harvest this year.

May Revise Cut Later.

In setting the fifteen per cent acreage cut as the goal of the second year's program, however, the farm experts left the door wide open for a hasty revision should the prospective reductions prove too great or should international developments warant. Definite word as to the exact size of the acreage cut to be demanded of wheat farmers in 1934-'35 will be forthcoming by the end of August, it was said.

In order to finance the 1934-'35 wheat reduction program, the AAA will continue to levy a processing tax of 30 cents per bushel on wheat, it was announced. The difference between the "parity" price set by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the current farm price, on which the rate of tax is based, is still the same as when the wheat processing tax went into effect exactly a year ago today.

Although farm prices for grain have risen, it was explained, the "parity" level, based on pre-war purchasing power of the farm dollar, has likewise gone up. At the present time parity for wheat is approximately $1.08 per bushel, while the current farm price is roughly 75 cents.

Gives Rules for Planting.

"The permitted acreage to be planted by coöperating farmers for harvest in 1935 will be not less than 85 per cent of the seeded acreage of each farm during the base period, 1928-1932, as already determined for each farm under contract," the announcement read. "It is announced definitly that no reduction will be required below the amount of planting allowed for harvest in 1934. The conditions as to acreage will be left open until early August, however, to provide for an increase in acreage above the 85 per cent of the base acreage, if this should appear advantageous. This, in effect, continues the 1933-1934 reduction of 15 per cent below the five year base acreage, with the possibility that a smaller reduction may be required.

"In arriving at the amount of planting necessary to maintain a balance between wheat supplies and effective demand, administration executives have been considering carefully the wheat supply of the United States and the international wheat situation.

World Parley Is Factor.

"Continuation of the present international wheat agreement, which expires on Aug. 1, 1935, will be discussed at a meeting of the international wheat advisory committee in August. If at that time it is found that other countries have not yet prepared to continue into next year the adjustment of wheat production which they agreed to make this year, then the present requirements of wheat acreage in the United States may be modified.

"In considering the wheat situation in the United States, officials stated that under normal conditions a continuation of the present acreage would provide a crop of sufficient size to meet normal consumptive demands, to provide full carryover reserves, and to leave more than 100 million bushels for export."

Benefit payments under the second year's program are to be at the rate of 29 cents per bushel, it was said, with more than 102 million dollars expected to be distributed to coöperating wheat farmers. This year's program has seen 68 million dollars already distributed to producers, with 30 millions additional slated to go out within the next few weeks.

DOLLAR FIRMER AGAINST POUND, LOSES TO FRANC

New York, July 9.—(AP)—Foreign exchange movements were dull and narrow today. The pound sterling developed some weakness but recovered most of the loss. The pound closed at $5.04, a net decline of ¾ of a cent after going as low as $5.03½.

French francs gained .00⅛ of a cent, closing at 6.59½ cents. At this price the dollar was valued at a premium of 0.58 of a cent over par, compared with 0.60 of a cent on Saturday.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $2,508,600 from England and France. There were no exports and no change in stocks of gold held under earmark for foreign account. The price of gold in London advanced a penny to 137 shillings 11½ pence a fine ounce [equivalent to $34.79]. Bars valued at $292,528 were purchased.

Paris Bars U.S.'Raw'Films; Not Part of Indecency Drive

PARIS, July 9.—(AP)—An absolute temporary embargo was placed tonight on all American raw sensitized films for motion picture cameras except those already shipped, until the new quota becomes effective. The order announced that the existing quota has been exhausted, but gives no indication of the period for which the embargo will be effective.

Grain Prices Sag Again as Buying Eases

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The grain markets went through another session of sagging prices yesterday with the losses in wheat futures extending from 1⅝ cents to 2¼ cents a bushel and corn prices declining 1¼ to 1⅜ cents.

A large increase of more than 8,000,000 bushels in the visible supply of wheat over the preceding week, continued heavy receipts at the leading markets and an abnormal lack of speculative operations made up the background of yesterday's market action. Oats, rye and barley shared the weakness of wheat and corn.

Gain Above Expectations.

The big increase in the visible supply of wheat was not unexpected, although it was somewhat larger than had been anticipated. Hedging pressure was persistent, although not abnormally heavy. The important fact was, however, that in the immediate developments there was nothing to make a short term trader buy and all evidence showed in a striking fashion that speculation other than the quick turn operations of floor traders was not present in important volume.

Purchases of futures in principal grains on Saturday, the latest figures available, amounted to 17,633,000 bushels, as compared with 79,299,000 bushels on the corresponding day a year ago, which gives an idea of the shrinkage that has occurred in speculative activity.

Receipts of winter wheat at 11 markets yesterday amounted to slightly more than 3,000 cars, or about 6,000,000 bushels. Receipts at Chicago amounted to 572 cars. Some of the wheat now arriving has been previously hedged.

Expect Smaller Receipts.

The movement of wheat to market in the southwest is expected to slow up this week and the probability is that the peak of the receipts has been passed in that region. Substantial shipments from the central wheat states, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, are looked for, however, which will mean continued hedging pressure on the market.

The character of the reports on fundamental crop conditions here and abroad shows little change. Conditions continue favorable to corn in principal states of the corn belt and some slight improvement is indicated in the spring wheat crop.

The government report on the condition of all grain crops will be made public today. The consensus is that the figures will not vary materially from those of the private crop forecasters, who put the total indicated wheat crop at 516 million bushels.

OLD DAWES BANK REPAYS MORE ON LOAN FROM RFC

The Central Republic Trust company, formerly the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, old "Dawes" bank, has repaid another $2,000,000 of its original 90 million dollar loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, it was indicated in a statement of condition as of June 30. Bills payable have been cut to $59,901,893 from $61,932,566 on March 5. All except $1,250,000 owed to Chicago banks, is due the RFC.

Resources totalled $77,571,586 on June 30, compared with $79,826,605 on March 5. The drop was accounted for largely by the decline in loans and on securities other than government investments. Cash and federal holdings stood at $1,121,573 on June 30, compared with $1,191,768 in March.

On the liability side of the ledger the deficit in the undivided profit column rose from $513,463 to $1,368,062, but reserve accounts increased from $2,964,700 to $3,764,470. Liquidation of bills from Dec. 31, 1933, to March 5, 1934, amounted to $1,373,156.

MANY BANKERS, LESS HARASSED, GO TO EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—In contrast with the conditions of the last few summers when the stress of events kept most bankers and financiers close to their offices, an unusually large number is in Europe or en route there this year.

Among the Wall street leaders now abroad are Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co.; George L. Harrison, governo of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York; James H. Perkins, chairman of the National City bank; W. Palen Conway, president of the Guaranty Trust company, and Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City bank.

Bernard Baruch, banker and adviser to President Roosevelt, sailed for Europe Saturday, and J. P. Morgan is expected to leave tomorrow on his yacht, the Corsair, for a trip which will last until November and include his usual grouse shooting on the Scottish moors.

Am. Telephone Has First Station Loss Since August

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—The American Telephone and Telegraph company reports a net loss of 11,950 stations during June, compared with a loss of 95,000 in June a year ago. This was the first loss since August of last year. The company gained 44,000 stations in May and 48,000 stations in April. The gain in the first quarter of this year was 108,000 stations.

COTTON SOARS ON REPORT OF ACREAGE CUT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Prices of cotton advanced sharply today after an announcement by the government that only 28,024,000 acres are under cultivation, a total which was considerably under expectations. Early in the trading prices of cotton climbed $2 a bale and the close found $1.50 to $1.75 of this advance retained.

Despite the big acreage reduction the indicated crop is 3,151,800 acres short of the cut sought by the government.

The total of acreage announced by the government was about one million acres under most private estimates. This, together with the dry weather in the western section of the cotton belt, was credited with starting a rush of buying.

Says Control Plan Succeeded.

Cully A. Cobb, head of the cotton production section, expressed satisfaction with the situation. He attributed the reduction in acreage to both the voluntary production control campaign and to the Bankhead compulsory cotton control bill, which he said made the department's efforts to reduce production a success in every practical sense.

Cobb explained that many of the farmers in the cotton states, who had expected that the Bankhead bill would pass, joined in the voluntary reduction campaign to avoid being penalized under the compulsory measure. Under the Bankhead act 10,460,251 bales may be produced tax free. Above this total there is a tax of 50 per cent of the market value of all cotton produced and sold this year.

Smallest Since 1905.

It was asserted here that the acreage this year was the smallest planted since 1905, when 27,110,000 acres were seeded. The 1905 yield was 10,575,000 bales. The average yield for the 1905 crop was 186.6 lint pounds per acre, compared with an average of 173.9 per cent for the 1928-'32 period. Based on the 1928-'32 average, this year's yield would be 10,195,000 bales, or 265,000 bales below the total of 10,460,251 which may be produced tax free under the Bankhead act.

Some of the private estimators believed that this year's acreage reduction was not sufficient to bring the crop within the limits prescribed by the Bankhead act. This resulted in considerable market confusion and prices have been weak.

Sought to Cut Stocks.

The purpose of the voluntary reduction control and the Bankhead act was to reduce the huge accumulation of cotton which has piled up in this country. It is now expected by officials here that there will be a large reduction in this surplus, and farm administration officials are now contemplating a liberalization of their program so that more acreage may be put in next year.

Farm administration executives estimate that about 25,500,000 acres of the 28,024,000 acres actually seeded were planted by farmers who signed contracts with the government. Such farmers obtained payments for their coöperation. Had it not been for the efforts to curtail the acreage, the officials estimate that about 41,000,000 acres would have been planted this year.

On July 1, 1933, there were 40,852,000 acres under cultivation, but the emergency plow up campaign resulted in 10,495,000 acres being turned under before the cotton grew to maturity.

	1934.	1933.
Texas	10,914,000	16,050,000
Oklahoma	2,645,000	4,133,000
Arkansas	2,306,000	3,548,000
Mississippi	2,636,000	3,820,000
Alabama	2,215,000	3,210,000
Georgia	2,141,000	2,855,000
South Carolina	1,286,000	1,811,000
North Carolina	977,000	1,320,000
Tennessee	760,000	1,152,000
Louisiana	1,237,000	1,767,000

PRICES RISE HERE.

The bullish federal cotton acreage report yesterday advanced prices here more than $2 a bale before profit taking checked the rise. Final quotations showed about $1.50 a bale net gain for the day.

SOAP FIRM GIVES 5½ DAYS' PAY FOR FIVE DAYS' WORK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—A wage scale of five and one-half days' pay for five days' work is to be put in effect this week by the Fels-Naptha Soap company, Samuel S. Fels, president, announced today. The change was made as part of the company's coöperation with the NRA.

Mr. Fels said that the company's wages had been consistently above requirements and that the change was authorized as "an additional step to go beyond the letter of the New Deal requirements and to carry out, to the extent possible, the spirit of the President's program." About 500 employés are affected.

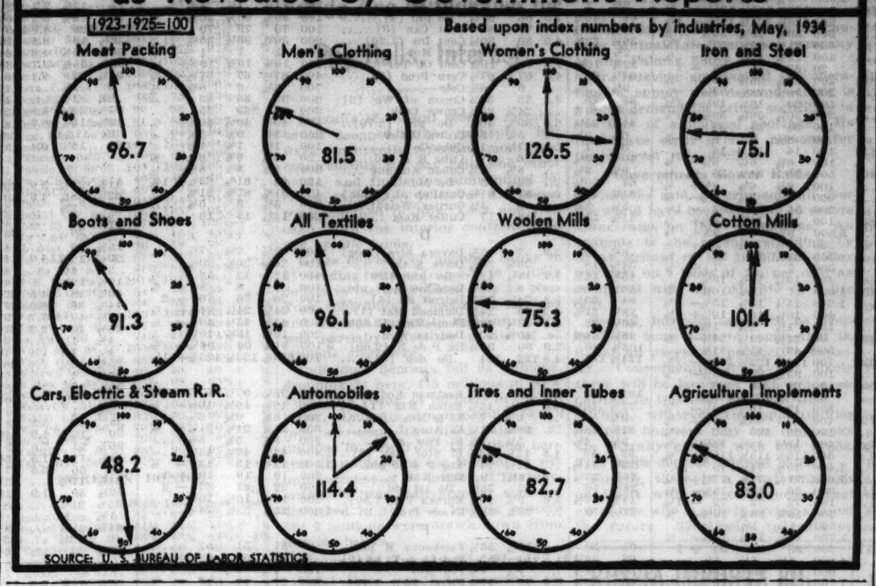
The Employment Status of Leading Industries as Revealed by Government Reports



Good Loans Welcome, Says Bankers' Chief

Expansion of credit today depends more upon business men than bankers, Francis M. Law, president of the American Bankers' association, said yesterday while in Chicago.

FRANCIS M. LAW.

"Every sound business in the country can get what money it needs," he declared. "Not in my time have good borrowers been so warmly welcomed at banks as they are today. Never before has there been such competition for good loans, nor has the interest rate been so low."

Mr. Law pointed out that banks need loans for revenue, and said that the number of good credit risks is increasing. He warned, however, that the country has been "very ill" and must be "careful about overeating."

Reports Betterments.

As soon as business men get over their "disinclination to borrow," bank credits will increase, Mr. Law predicted. This will happen when they begin to see profits ahead, he said.

The second requisite to putting money to work by credit expansion lies in a burial of fear and rejuvenation of confidence in business men to the point where they will "dare to think and plan ahead." And the latter development is in process, the bankers' chief stated.

No group of men wants recovery more than bankers, Mr. Law declared. And banks are largely financing the government recovery program, as well as providing money for local needs, but are "earnestly looking forward" to the time when private enterprise recovers enough to "throw away government crutches."

Sees Move Toward Recovery.

An enormous liquidation of debts and a general resolve to profit by the past and live within incomes were declared substantial advances toward real recovery. Mr. Laws sees definite improvement in conditions, and believes the amended securities act will put life in the capital market.

He advocated a non-partisan commission to study various banking laws and work out a correlated system to be submitted to the next session of congress. The American banking system is not good enough, Mr. Law said flatly.

"If the banker expects to enjoy public confidence," he said, "he must take the public into his confidence." Mr. Laws pointed out, however, that failures because of dishonesty were exceptional. Despite shrunken values, he said indications are that depositors in banks closed in the last three years will realize an average of 65 cents on the dollar.

REORGANIZATION OF MIDDLE WEST AGAIN DELAYED

The long contemplated reorganization of Middle West Utilities company was delayed again yesterday after a hearing before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson. Remarks of counsel indicated anything but progress. The matter was continued until Friday.

Attorney Robert N. Golding, representing the holders of $40,000,000 of gold notes, declared that there could be "no hope of reorganization so long as the bankers are in the picture." Chicago and New York banks hold collateral for loans totaling $27,000,000, while the noteholders are unsecured.

Attorney Herbert Friedlich, counsel for the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, asked a delay in the bankruptcy proceedings until fall, so that negotiations could be carried on "without a cloud hanging over them." However, Lewis F. Jacobson, who filed a reorganization petition under section 77B of the amended bankruptcy act, objected to such a long delay and Judge Wilkerson put the matter down for Friday.

GENERAL MOTORS UNIT SALES SET FIVE YEAR HIGH MARK FOR JUNE

General Motors corporation yesterday reported that sales of cars and trucks in June were the largest for that month since 1929. World sales totaled 146,881 units against 132,837 in May and 118,701 in June of last year.

The June increase over May was 14,044 units and the rise over a year ago was 33,180. The 1934 June total was nearly three times that of 1932.

The corporation's sales of cars and trucks to consumers in the United States in June totaled 112,847 against 95,253 in May and 101,827 in June, 1933. Sales to dealers in the United States in June were 118,789 against 103,844 in May and 99,956 in June, 1933.

For the first six months of the year sales to consumers in the United States were 494,972 against 399,764 in the like period of 1933. The same period sales to dealers in the United States were 592,867 against 427,762 in the like period of 1933 and world sales were 750,276 against 498,622.

In the first six months of this year 388,742 Plymouth, De Soto, Chrysler, and Dodge passenger cars and commercial units were shipped to dealers. This was 170,973 units more than the total reported for the same time last year, an increase of 79 per cent.

Retail sales last week were the second highest in the history of Chrysler

SILVER FLOWING TO MINTS; MORE MONEY PLANNED

Washington, D. C., July 9.—(AP)—Record breaking receipts of newly mined silver at the mints, amounting to 1,428,247 fine ounces for the week ending July 6, were announced today by Acting Secretary of the Treasury Coolidge.

At the same time Coolidge said the printing of silver certificates might be speeded up somewhat from now on. Preparation of dies for engraving has held back the program with respect to bills of the larger denominations.

Although the treasury revealed that last week's receipts brought the total of newly mined silver received to 9,985,000 fine ounces, the silence which has enveloped purchases of other classes of silver under the recently enacted silver law was not broken. Cloaked by the stabilization fund, dealings in this metal do not show in the daily treasury statement.

RECORD SALES SET BY SPIEGEL, MAY, STERN CO.

Sales of the Spiegel, May, Stern Co., Inc., during June were the largest for that month in the history of the company. At $1,437,007 they showed a gain of 33.57 per cent over June, last year, and an increase of 32 per cent over the previous record June, in 1929, when sales amounted to $1,088,498.

This was the seventeenth consecutive month in which net sales showed an increase over the corresponding month of the preceding year. Net sales for the six months ended June 30 amounted to $11,084,493, an increase of 146 per cent over the $4,478,620 for the 1933 period. This was also the largest six-month period in sales since the founding of the company.

Steel Output to Spurt This Week to 27.5%

Business of steel mills yesterday began to show sharp improvement after the unusually severe drop at the end of the second quarter and reports of renewed employment for thousands of workmen temporarily laid off from various steel centers.

In New York the American Iron and Steel institute, the industry's trade association, predicted that the nation's steel mills would operate during this week at 27.5 per cent of capacity on the average. This represented an increase of 4.5 points—or 19.5 per cent—over the 23 per cent operating rate last week.

Natural Rebound from Low.

The rise was regarded in the industry as a natural rebound from the extremely low levels of the two preceding weeks. Last week's average marked the low point of activity following the peak levels established in May and June. Even the predicted operating rate of 27.5 per cent of capacity, however, would be far below the rate of 56.9 per cent reported a month ago.

In this district steel mills are reported to be operating at a rate much better than the average for the nation. In the big mills in East Chicago and Gary yesterday forty thousand men were reported returned to work after temporary layoffs.

Work on Past Week Basis.

Employment in both cities, however, was on a fractional week basis. Instead of working the full week permitted under the steel code the men are being given three or four days employment per week until business volume warants heavier schedules. In this manner the available employment is being spread among the entire force. In East Chicago production jumped yesterday to 42 per cent of capacity.

From Buffalo came word that three thousand employés of the Bethlehem Steel company plant in Lackawanna had gone back to work after a week's enforced holiday. Three open hearth furnaces were reired.

At Martin's Ferry, O., twelve mills of the Yorkville plant of the Wheeling Steel corporation resumed operations, and it was announced that fifteen mills of the Laughlin plant of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company would start work today, recalling several thousand men who have been idle for more than a week.

New Dealers Seek to Keep Rubber Dollar

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—The New Dealers today declared their intention of sticking to a "rubber dollar" monetary policy and denied that they are angling with any foreign country for stabilization of world currencies.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull and Eugene R. Black, governor of the federal reserve board, both said today that George L. Harrison, governor of the New York reserve bank, who is now attending a meeting of the Bank for International Settlements at Basel, Switzerland, has no authority to make a dollar stabilization agreement. Their denials followed a lengthy attack on Gov. Harrison by Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.], leader of the inflation forces in congress. Senator Thomas cited press reports saying that Harrison was negotiating a stabilization pact, and denounced any such attempts as ruinous to the country.

Denies Harrison Has Authority.

"I don't believe that the President has any idea of stabilizing the dollar now," was Gov. Black's retort when asked about Harrison's business abroad. "Gov. Harrison hasn't any authority from anybody to do anything. He hasn't any authority to talk stabilization or the German Dawes-Young loans, or anything else."

Under the banking act of 1933 Harrison or any other reserve bank official is barred from negotiating with foreign banks or powers without the permission of the federal reserve board. Black said the board had given Harrison permission to attend the directors' meeting of the International bank because the bank had invited him.

Secretary Hull declared that he knew of no move or authorization to stabilize the dollar. Reports were that Harrison is ambitious to become a director of the International bank, retiring from his New York post.

Senator Thomas in his attack on Harrison lashed him as the sponsor of deflationary tactics during the Hoover administration. Thomas also demanded a new reduction in the gold content of the dollar.

PROTEST GERMAN DEFAULT.

BASEL, Switzerland, July 9.—(AP)—The Bank for International Settlements, in the midst of momentous Anglo-American conversations on the pound-dollar ratio, sent a protest to Germany today seeking to protect American and other holders of Dawes and Young bonds.

Directors of the bank instructed Leon Fraser, its president, to write to the German finance minister protesting the recent moratorium. Using as a lever the recent Anglo-German agreement under which Germany will service bonds held in Great Britain, Fraser emphasized that the bonds themselves provide all holders shall be treated alike. He said Germany's agreement to pay Britons indicated it could pay the others, too. Fifty per cent of the Dawes loan and 30 per cent of the Young loan are held by Americans.

Harrison Meets Norman.

George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve bank, will leave for Paris tomorrow after his conversations with Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, on the question of eventual stabilization of the pound in its relation to the dollar. Harrison held to his standpoint that the American dollar already has been stabilized on a gold basis.

In his search for information Harrison tried to determine what in the British view constitutes the prerequisites of stabilizing the pound and the ensuing fixation of its relation to the dollar and other currencies. Despite the conversations of the two financial leaders, there were no present indications here that Britain is considering early stabilization of the pound.

BANKS PAY OFF BILLION, OR 63% OF RFC LOANS

All Cash Advances $4,101,081,563.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 9.—Banks and trust companies, the largest class of borrowers from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, repaid $1,007,647,802, or 63 per cent of the $1,606,571,866 actually advanced to them by the corporation since its establishment in February, 1932, to June 30, 1934.

In a recapitulation of its operations, made public today, the RFC showed authorized loans to 7,314 banks and trust companies aggregating $2,045,553,972. Of this amount, $255,612,142 was withdrawn or canceled by the applicants as unnecessary, and $183,369,963 remained to the credit of the borrowers on June 30 for use when needed. In addition, the corporation had conditional agreements outstanding to lend $13,933,795 upon performance of prescribed conditions.

Stock Purchase Figures.

The figure on loans to banks and trust companies was exclusive of advances to them for purchase of their preferred stock, capital notes, and debentures or loans secured by the preferred stock of such institutions since the passage of the Emergency Banking act.

In this category fell final or conditional agreements to purchase $698,869,820 of preferred stock in 3,652 institutions, of which amount $498,518,221 had been disbursed and $31,468,149 withdrawn or canceled.

In all, the government had made cash advances through the RFC on June 30 amounting to $4,101,081,563, exclusive of $1,436,989,866 disbursed to other federal agencies for relief of destitution under the terms of various emergency laws. The combined total is $5,538,071,429.

Loans authorized, but not entirely disbursed, amounted to $5,460,697,223 excluding amounts approved for use by other government agencies. Of this authorized amount, $485,140,888 had been withdrawn or canceled, and $874,474,771 remained to the credit of the original applicants. The corporation also had conditional agreements to lend $130,284,750 to all classes of borrowers, final approval of which awaited compliance with conditions.

On all types of loans the RFC had been repaid a total of $1,517,451,145, this including $1,424,363 from advances made under the emergency relief act of 1932.

Railroads were shown to have been the second largest class of borrowers with actual loan disbursements totaling $411,645,844 and repayments amounting to $58,261,276. Mortgage loan companies followed in order of importance with actual borrowings of $265,945,060 and repayments aggregating $73,795,144.

More Treasury Bills Sold at Record Low Yields

Washington, D. C., July 9.—The treasury department announced today that the latest offering of 182 day treasury bills, dated July 11, was sold at an average discount rate of 0.7 per cent, equaling the record low price. Subscriptions totaled $208,743,000 of which $75,235,000 was accepted. Bids ranged from 99.980, equaling a rate of about .04 per cent, to 99.962, or .08 per cent. Only part of the subscriptions at the latter rate was accepted.

PAST DUE ACCOUNTS CUT DOWN 40%

Here is proof positive of the constructive power of Credit Insurance. Here is the experience of the Baker-Moise Hosiery Mills of Dallas, Texas — six months without Credit Insurance — then six months with it.

Sales were increased, yet Accounts Receivable were reduced more than 30%. Total Past Due was reduced from 11.2% to 6.72% of sales — an improvement of 40%. Accounts Over 30 Days Past Due were reduced more than 79%. Accounts Over 60 Days Past Due were reduced more than 75%. Customers' good will was fully retained.

Today, that progressive company's earnings on the sums collected, which previously had been used by their customers as operating capital, more than pay the insurance premium. Consider

STOCKS STEADY; TRADE DULLEST IN ELEVEN YEARS

Price Changes Generally Held to Fractions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Trading on the New York Stock exchange fell away today to the lowest level since June 2, 1924, before the Coolidge bull market had got under big headway. Sales totaled only 315,902 shares, emphasizing the dullness that has enveloped the market for several weeks.

Prices moved in a narrow channel and changes were of the fractional variety. About the best that could be said was that few holders of stocks wished to sell. On the other hand, buyers also were scarce, but they were willing to pay slightly more for what little stock they acquired. Holders of stocks seemed apprehensive of the future, but preferred to await the next turn in the market, which they hope and expect will be for the better.

Preferred Issues Do Best.

Stocks to make the best showing of the day were the preferred issues which readily responded to higher bids. A few gained a point or more on small sales. Many of the leading stocks did not appear on the ticker tape for hours, and some not at all during the day. American Telephone was conspicuously dull and only a few sales had been made until well in the afternoon.

Sugars were strong and there was fair buying of tobacco stocks and some miscellaneous shares, but industrials and rails moved in narrow limits.

Silver shares were fractionally higher while utilities and oils were slightly lower.

Mixed prices were quoted for the chemicals, foods, motors, and rails. U. S. Steel was steady. Coca-Cola was active and higher, and after its June sales report was issued General Motors picked up a little.

Money Markets Stagnant.

Dull as the stock market was it offered about all the action that took place in the financial district. Money markets were stagnant, and while excess reserves here are temporarily lower, mainly because of repayment by banks of their more or less forced loans from the RFC under the debenture selling scheme to boost the morale of outside institutions, far too much credit was available for any possible use of business or speculation.

With the exception of early morning news that the steel industry would operate at approximately 27.5 per cent of capacity this week, there was little in the way of market incentive to move stocks in either direction.

TRADING OPENS IN NEW STOCK OF ARMOUR CO.

Trading began yesterday in the new securities of Armour & Co., which were created in the reorganization of the capital structure approved last Friday.

At the same time officials reported a rushing business both here and in New York in the exchange of old 7 per cent preferred stock for the new prior preferred temporary certificates, which carry with them two shares of new common stock. A tentative limit for exchange has been set at Sept. 15. Exchange of the old "A" and "B" common shares for new common stock is compulsory under the plan. The stock transfer may be made in room 1830, Board of Trade building.

Trading in the new $5 common ranged between 5⅜ and 5½ yesterday, closing at 5¼. The new preferred closed at 60½, ranging between that point and 61. The old preferred closed at 70⅝, off ⅜ from Saturday's closing.

The New York Stock exchange yesterday ruled that transactions in Armour class A common may be settled by delivery either of certificates of class A or common. It also ruled that transactions in class B may be settled by delivery of either certificates of class B or the equivalent in certificates of common, and that certificates of class A stock or the equivalent in certificates of class B stock shall be deliverable until further notice against sales of common.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—Cotton Goods markets were strengthened by a cotton acreage report that was followed by a sharp advance in speculative trading today. Inquiries for goods became more active in the afternoon. Taffeta and satin grounds in silks were in moderate demand. Much interest was shown in a curtain and drapery display at the opening of the fall season. Floor covering lines were opened for the fall season with buyers showing considerable interest. Spot stocks of men's and women's wear for fall showed a little activity. Burlaps were quiet.

REPUBLIC STEEL MERGER PLAN TO BE OFFERED SOON

Deal with Corrigan May Total $33,000,000.

Cleveland, O., July 9.—(AP)—The proposed merger of the Republic Steel corporation, the nation's third largest steel maker, and the Corrigan-McKinney Steel company will be presented to the board of directors and stockholders of both companies soon, Donald B. Gillies, president of Corrigan-McKinney, and T. M. Girdler, chairman of Republic, announced tonight.

Reports of a merger between the two concerns have been current for about two years. Last week negotiations began in earnest, but officials of both companies insisted matters were merely a "little warmer than they have been before." Lewis Strauss of Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Charles F. Glore and Russel Forgan of Field, Glore & Co. have been acting for the companies in the negotiations, the announcement said.

Large Savings Expected.

"A diversified line of products, advantageous locations, and other economic considerations making for large savings dictated the desirability of the consolidation which has been attempted several times in the past without success," the announcement said.

The Otis Steel company is still considered as likely to enter the new combination. A new offer is to be made later to Otis which the merger participants hope will induce it to be the third partner of the consolidation, it was learned on good authority.

Strauss and Glore, as they were about to leave for New York tonight, were asked about Otis.

"No, the Otis company is not in at present," Strauss replied, "but we have, as all the principals have, the utmost regard for the Otis Steel company."

Believed $33,000,000 Deal.

The supposed terms of the merger are reported to be 15 million dollars in first mortgage bonds on the Corrigan-McKinney properties, guaranteed by Republic, plus enough common and preferred stock to make a total of about 33 million dollars.

Republic's ingot capacity would be increased by about 1,100,000 tons to a total of about 6 million tons a year by the consolidation.

Two Corrigan-McKinney subsidiaries, the N. & G. Taylor company of Cumberland, Md., a tin plate plant, and the Newton Steel company, which manufactures automobile body and enameling sheets in factories at Monroe, Mich., and Newton Falls, O., would be included in the merger, it is believed.

Republic was formed by a series of mergers about five years ago directed by Cyrus S. Eaton. Its main plants are in Youngstown and Canton, O., Birmingham, Ala., and in the Pittsburgh and Chicago districts.

Financial observers believe the merger would improve the position of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which acquired Corrigan-McKinney several years ago at the start of the depression. William G. Mather is chairman of both Cleveland-Cliffs and the Corrigan-McKinney boards.

CUBA DECLARES MORGAN LOANS LEGAL; WON'T PAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, July 9.—President Carlos Mendieta tonight signed a decree setting forth that $55,000,000 of the J. P. Morgan & Co. loans to Cuba are legal, but that they are affected by the recently signed moratorium decree which discontinues the payments of all instalments for the amortization of foreign loans, but allows interest payments.

Today's decree provides that the $900,000,000 short term loans made in 1927 in the régime of President Gerardo Machado are subject to further investigation. Payment of the loan scheduled for July 1 was postponed indefinitly pending the results of the investigation, but it was reliably learned that this will be declared illegal.

FEDERAL BONDS SET NEW HIGHS IN DULL MARKET

Treasury Issues Continue to Dominate Trade.

New York, July 9.—[Special.]—Federal issues continued to dominate trading in the bond market today. New highs again were the rule in that group, with all but one of the treasury loans, the 3¾s of 1940-'43, reaching new 1934 tops.

Home Owners Loan corporation 4s pushed ahead 5-32ds to a new peak, while the 3s and the Federal Farm Loan 3¼s and 3s were small fractions higher. The domestic corporation list was extremely dull and reflected the abbreviated interest growing out of the absence of many leading operators on vacations.

Light Offerings Help Tone.

The underlying tone, however, despite the dullness, was one of marked strength, but in view of the light turnover and the fact that the proportion of trading in federal issues expanded somewhat in relation to the reduced total, it was evident that absence of offerings rather than unusually urgent demand was the main factor back of the higher levels.

Bonds that equaled or bettered their best levels for 1934, or for several years, included some of American Telephone, Santa Fé, Atlantic Refining, Bethlehem Steel, Chesapeake and Ohio, Burlington, K. C. Terminal, Liggett & Myers, Long Island railroad, Lorillard, Louisville and Nashville, Norfolk and Western, Pennsylvania Power, Texas corporation, Trumbull Steel and Wheeling and Lake Erie.

Warner Bros. 6s Sag.

Warner Brothers 6s lost 2 points and there were scattered losses of fractions to around a point in some of the secondary groups.

Easing of the German political situation brought rallies of 1¼ and 2¼ points, respectively, in the Young and Dawes plan issues. Polish loans were a trifle heavy and other foreign obligations were slightly irregular.

Australian liens were quietly strong among foreign governments, with German issues doing slightly better. Interest over the counter centered in New York City obligations, where the turnover was brisk in early trading at fractional advances, presumably in anticipation of success for tomorrow's projected offering, which is expected to be placed at an average cost of about 4 per cent to the municipality.

North American Car.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a copy of your latest report on North American Car first cumulative preferred.—Miss B. C. C.

Answer: North American Car corporation is a $15,000,000 owner and lessor of special type freight and tank cars. It makes its own repairs on its rolling stock and has built up a substantial repair business, dealing with railroads and other car owners.

In line with the prediction of the president of the company, earnings for the first quarter of 1934 were slightly better than in the corresponding 1933 period. They were $46,702 in the 1934 quarter, 1.04 times preferred dividend requirements, against $46,380 in the 1933 quarter.

Net income in 1933 was $220,000, which was 1.22 times preferred dividened requirements, against $235,000, which was 1 1-3 times dividends on the preferred stock, for 1932. Net for 1931 was $555,000, against $1,150,000 for 1930.

Current assets of $1,028,000, compared with current liabilities of $883,000 at the close of 1933. The narrowing of the spread between the two items is only a fraction of the amount by which funded debt has been reduced. Working capital dropped $120,000 in 1933 and funded debt decreased $987,000.

Nothing has been paid on the $6 cumulative no par preferred stock since Oct. 1, 1931.

See Line Bond Guarantee.

Investors' Guide: I shall greatly appreciate some information in regard to Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie Railway company. I understand that the interest is guaranteed by the Canadian Pacific. In the event that this line should not prove profitable could the Canadian Pacific discard it and would they have to continue paying interest indefinitly if these bonds are not paid off at maturity?—B. E.

Answer: We have the following opinion from Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, trustee for the issue:

"We were informed on Feb. 18, 1933, by Mr. M. S. Mitchell, general counsel of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie Railway company, that it is the view of the Canadian Pacific Railway company that its guarantee of interest on the Soo line first consolidated mortgage bonds does not extend to interest payments after July 1, 1938."

Thus the opinion of the counsel for the road indicates that the Canadian Pacific is not bound to pay interest after maturity. Whether or not the road would take any steps to satisfy bondholders in order to preserve its interest in the road is a matter of policy that would have to be determined by directors of the guarantor road.

WANTED—MALE HELP.

Miscellaneous.

TODAY—11:00 A. M.

Several excellent business openings on North Side now available, without investment, overhead or assuming obligations, for a limited number of the right men. This morning I shall interview applicants and will insist on at least 10 years' business experience or as long in a trade.

Men selected will have to develop in this business as they would in any other, but the men I am looking for can develop faster than in most lines. If you expect to step right into full money-making power here you will have to change your ideas, but you can make a living income from the outset; some men do much better than others, but all who apply themselves can succeed. We accept no others. At end of first 6 months your income should be much larger and better still at the end of 12 months, while after 18 months you should be reaching toward maximum figures —which means several thousand dollars a year. Men of stability have this patience to develop because they will apply themselves and are not afraid of extra hours at extra comm. pay and bonus checks. The man whose social obligations outweight his money-making possibilities will have to revise fast if he is to be one of the leading successes in this desirable business.

This outstanding corporation in the electric unit and specialty field, with many factories, places a thousand dollars or room for man who cannot become success-minded. Therefore, if you measure up, have vigor and stamina, and have about an hour to spare to go into details, call promptly at 9 or a few minutes before, 11:00 THIS—Tuesday—morning, July 10. Suite 215-228, at 1046 Wilson-av. Men selected will be put into definite locations this week.

A HUGE ORGANIZATION
COMPENSATION FAR ABOVE AVERAGE

A genuine opportunity for a few neat appearing men, 25 years of age or over, to represent the largest retail Home Furnishing House in the middle west. We are laying a foundation for future purchasing among our numerous customers and are paying our representatives unusual commission in full on a basis of average sales expectancy. Also allowing a daily drawing account privilege if necessary while getting started. An intensely interesting and distinctive program for men capable of conducting enthusiastic conversation. Can earn between $40 and $50 per week consistently. No night calls. Apply from 9:30 to 4:30 p. m. only.

STRAUS & SCHRAM.

Mr. Jacobs. Mr. Zuber
834 W. 63d-st. 3320 Lincoln-av

N. W. SIDE AND SUBURBAN MEN—AFTER several weeks of absence from adv. columns I am now able to add a few more men because those whom we financed in this business are now all set and succeeding. No investment needed. Must have use of car and have character references. If you wish to have a large interest in profits with commissions and bonuses available, it makes no difference what your past business experience has been if you are vigorous and determined. You need know nothing about electricity or electric units, but you must apply yourself and be a dependable worker at this steady business. If you will call at 11:00 this morning, Tues., July 10, Room 6 State Bank Bldg., Park Ridge, we can go over your application and arrive at a mutually satisfactory arrangement.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

HERE YOU ARE BARGAIN HUNTERS!

STUDEBAKER

offers exceptional values at prices that you will be glad to pay! And you get 5 day driving trial.

STUTZ—SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE MODEL with side mounts and every conceivable extra. The finish has not a mar on it. Expensive broadcloth upholstery. Tires are excellent. Go over the motor with a fine tooth comb, and you'll agree that it's the last word. See this Stutz—drive it—and then compare it with anything else in Chicago. Our price is just $445, and it won't remain long at that figure.

CORD—SEDAN, 1931 DE LUXE. HERE IS one of the handsomest cars of its kind in town. Wire wheels, side mounts, and many costly extras. Has low slung lines, and a world of power and pep. Was owned by a wealthy North Shore family who gave it the best of care. Specially priced at $485.

PACKARD—SEDAN, '29 DE LUXE 8 THAT'S as nice a Packard as you could find anywhere. The finish, upholstery, tires, and motor are really like new. This car never left the Chicago boulevards and was coddled like a baby. Don't fail to see it. Only $295.

STUDEBAKER—SEDAN, 1930 DE LUXE President 8 with 6 wire wheels and a world of extras. The motor was REALLY given the most minute "once over," and now you would certainly think that it performs like a new straight 8 engine. The finish glistens like a new dollar and the upholstery appears practically unused. We are marking this car at only $765—and we sincerely believe it to be a most outstanding value at this price.

PLYMOUTH—SPORT COUPE, 1933. WITH free wheeling, floating power, etc. You'll have to look far and wide to find a car anywhere in town to equal this one. It's the last word in smart appearance and performance. Offered today at a special bargain figure.

PONTIAC—COUPE, 1931. VERY CLEAN car that is in dandy running order. Many nice extras. It's a very snappy car and the first man in with $295 drives away in it.

BUICK—ROADSTER, 1931, WITH ROOMY rumble seat. This is a low slung car with a world of power and pep. It looks and runs as though never driven a mile: $295.

HUPMOBILE—SEDAN, 1931. IN STORAGE for almost 2 years. We checked it over carefully in our shop. Now recommend it as an outstanding automobile. It's top notch throughout. Easily worth more than $385.

REO—VICTORIA 8, 1931 DE LUXE MODEL. This auto was actually used for only a short time. Positively less than new. Just like brand new. Don't miss it at only $475.

STUDEBAKER—SEDAN, 1933 6; 6 WIRE wheels. Has every modern improvement, free wheeling, safety glass, etc. Finish has not a mar on it. Expensive upholstery. Tires appear unused. Motor was driven just enough to be properly broken in. Has full Studebaker guarantee. Specially priced at only $545.

LA SALLE—SEDAN, LATE 1930 DE LUXE. It's a real beauty. It has the appearance and performance of an auto fresh from the factory. Our price is just $425.

GRAHAM—SEDAN, 1930 8 DE LUXE MODEL with side mounts and every conceivable extra. Examine this Graham from bumper to bumper and you'll agree that it still possesses all the original newness. Only $295.

PIERCE-ARROW — BROM, 1931 DE LUXE model. Finish is bright and shiny. The upholstery is luxurious. The motor is the last word. It's a sensational value at $495.

FRANKLIN—SEDAN, 1929 7 PASS. OWNED by a wealthy family who gave it the very best of attention. Now every detail of the interior and exterior is like new. Has a sweet running motor. This looks like a real $1,000 value. Just reduced to only $325.

OAKLAND—SEDAN, 1930. YOU'LL FIND this car a very economical purchase, in the first place—it's in dandy condition today. Second—it gives a lot of miles per gallon of gas. And thirdly—priced at only $145.

STUDEBAKER—SEDAN, 1928 7 PASS. THAT was chauffeur-driven and now it looks and runs better than many cars priced at $300. For quick sale, $95.
